AFTER THE BALL — AGAIN

by Joseph W. Bean

If you've been following the news lately, you know that the enemies of our lifestyles are far from vanquished. Jesse Helms and William Dannemeyer are still lunching in Washington, DC, and plotting against the "un-American" conspiracy they believe you and I take part in. Gay bashers are getting bolder and bolder, and they are not very much put off by our leather gear these days either. The press still swings like a pendulum, alternately covering gay events and ignoring them—with the bigger events continuing to scare away the coverage. And, as I pointed out in this column more than a year ago, we have enemies in our own household as well.

After The Ball, the monstrously homophobic tract by Marshall Kirk and Hunter Madsen that I was ranting about last year, has since become—according to the probably accurate blurbs on the new paperback edition—"National #1 Bestseller." So, the time has come again to look at what the dangers of the authors' bigotry are, but I won't just tell you. Let me show you instead.

Here I go, quoting and paraphrasing salient passages, with my commentaries kept to the minimum allowable by my agitation: First, in listing proofs that gay people are not very cool as compared with straights, these two gay authors mention nasty Trojan soldiers, the Nazi SS, and "the pain and hatred peddled by apologists for gay sadomasochism, for whom the leaders of our community long ago rolled out the welcome wagon." Incredibly, their conclusion is, "Don't tell us that gays are peace-loving, we've seen Drummer magazine." [Pages 343-344]

Having asserted their point of view that it is unwise (a "misbehavior") for gay men to wear leather or drag—or to otherwise dress for anything but the comfort of straight people they might meet—they go on this way: "We're quite serious about the gay community policing itself, and suggest something radical: that our readers not only (memorize?) and follow the social code, but encourage others to do the same, reprove them verbally when they fail to do so." [Page 357, etc] The stress is in the original. What are they asking gay people to do? In short here, although they go on about it for pages, they are demanding that the people they consider right-headed must verbally assault anyone who doesn't wear the right clothes and live according to the "social code" outlined in After The Ball.

Are there not laws about inciting illegal acts such as assault? Of course there are, but Kirk and Madsen obviously feel safe because they are only asking that gay people join in a crime that goes unpunished when straight people do it, public assaults on gay people.

Why, you might well ask, should we not wear leather and live our leather lifestyles? Simply because, the authors tell us, that is self-indulgent. It is self-expression, and by their warped definition of self-expression, it should be done only in the absence of other people, particularly people who are either "with the program" or straight. "This is no time to burst out singing 'I gotta be me.' Each word, each gesture is watched, stereotyped, interpreted.... You must help them (straights) relate to you and your humanity, to recognize that you and they share many good things in common, and that they can like and accept you on their terms."

Maybe you're not like me, and certainly these authors are not, but I would prefer to be either liked or left alone on my own terms. I don't care to be acting out an imitation of straight existence in order to be accepted and liked. No problem, say Kirk and Madsen, do it anyway. It's not that you'll get used to it. In fact, in so many words, these guys say that if you do what they call "the right thing" long enough, you'll "be the right thing." And, considering what's right in their twisted world, it's safe to say you—as a Drummer reader—will no longer be yourself.

Your life and mine are made up entirely of "misbehaviors" anyway. We're mistakes. We're disposable.

"Whatever its adherents may say, 'rough' sex isn't innocuous: nor is it, in the words of a common apologia, 'just another way of expressing love.' Its trappings, expressions, and emotions are those of pain and hate, and, say what you will, pain and hate are what it arouses. Alas, although pain and hate have nothing to do with love, they have plenty to do with lust; the brain centers of sexual arousal and aggression are rather closely connected—an evolutionary relic of..." (etc. in a pseudo-scientific vein) [Page 305]

And, from a paragraph higher on the page, we can look at the writers' idea of our lifestyle in some detail: "Aggressive sex is worse than a mere dead end: in extreme cases, it's dangerous. Typically, fast-lane gays who buy a (one-way) ticket on this express first get interested in bondage and discipline, then run rapidly through the milder versions (and perversions) of this scene and graduate to whips, executioner's masks, and fist-fucking. So much does it take to stay excited. By the age of fifty, these unfortunates are in real trouble."

Okay, so let me be in trouble.

Why am I bothering you with this? Well, before, I suggested that you and I and all our friends should NOT read After The Ball. Or, at least, that we should not buy it. Now, even if it means putting money in the hands of hate-mongers and homophobes, I am singing a different tune.

Buy After The Ball. Read it carefully. You have to know what your most virulent enemies think of you. After the Ball is half the enemy position, outlined in tiring and sickening detail. For the other half, read Congressman William Dannemeyer's A Shadow in the Land. ■

CAUTION

Every decision a person makes, including the decision to get out of bed in the morning, has some degree of risk associated with it. We strongly believe that each competent adult must set for themselves the level of risk he or she is willing to accept. Some avoid crossing streets in heavy traffic—others stunt-ride motorcycles without a helmet. However, to intelligently confront and accept risk, a person must understand the dangers.

While Drummer hopes to educate its readers on a wide variety of topics, its main purpose is to entertain! Works of fiction presented in this magazine are just that—fiction! They are not in any way intended to suggest or describe activities that anyone should—or often could—actually do. They are meant for entertainment only. In other than fictional pieces, we will emphasize safe sex with respect to contagious diseases, and safe and sane behavior with respect to all activities, and will try to point out all activities which deviate from recognized safe-sex and safe-and-sane play activities.

MALE CALL

DRESS CODES

It seems to me that the first consideration in deciding if leather bars should enforce dress codes is determining whether the wearing of leather makes someone a member of the leather community or if it is something more than the simple act of wearing cowhides that makes someone a true leatherman.

In San Francisco, as well as other communities I would assume, there seem to be two different types of men in leather—true members of the leather community, men who uphold all of the ideals and values of the leather community, and "leather clad men."

"Leather clad men" are those men who feel that by going to their local leather store and plunking down their VISA cards for some leather that they have become a part of the leather community simply because they wear the "uniform" they identify with it.

Beneath the surface of their leather one finds that to them, the leather is just the drag they wear on Sundays to feel butch while drinking beer at the Eagle. As soon as they are finished with their South of Market fantasy, the leather returns to the closet to take its place next to the Brooks Brothers suits for the Alta Plaza and the cowboy duds for the Rawhide. To these men, leather is just another form of drag. Leather creates the fantasy of "butch" and they are only interested in a sexual encounter with their fantasy. There is no interest beyond the leather fantasy.

The true leatherman wears leather as a statement of who he is, but that statement is just as strong when he is not wearing any leather at all. The genuine leatherman is as interested in the attitude, relationship and mind set which forms between two leathermen as he is in how another leatherman looks.

Using leather as the [sole] criterion of determining who is a leatherman and who is not is just not viable.

Michael Pereyra is still the same man and still "...meets with the rules of a leatherman's dick" whether he is wearing full black leather or "...fringed white leather and silver spandex," just as Michael Hanson is still Mr. Hawaii Leather when he is wearing little blue and white striped running shorts. What makes a member of the leather community is not the articles of clothing he is wearing, or not wearing, but the man in the clothing.

So, do we, as a community, institute dress codes which would allow in the leather drags while excluding people like Joseph Bean, Michael Hanson and Guy Baldwin just because they are not wearing the proper clothing? I think not. (I outgrew that crap when I left Catholic school.)

I think that an increased awareness throughout the leather community of the man as member of the community, rather than his clothing, is the only thing which is going to prevent factionalization of our community.

As Mr. Bean pointed out, this will have to be a self-regulated process within the community, but we can already see it happening. The past couple of issues of Drummer have shown leathermen as bears as well as leathermen in spandex and latex. (Can leathermen in tuxedos be far behind?)

Photography by Zeus

[It could happen!]

Personally, I have found more leathermen becoming aware of, and interested in, alternate forms of dress and that these alternatives are showing up and being accepted at many of the leather bars in San Francisco. I am even aware of several leather titleholders who do a little more than just dabble in latex.

As a community we need to patronize the bars which encourage leathermen to be leathermen and not clones.

More importantly, we need to establish ourselves as members of the leather community in leather as well as in latex, spandex, and the occasional pink shirt and dress slacks (or whatever else we choose). Sooner or later the rest of the members of the community will realize that leather really doesn't make the man.

However, the problem still remains as to what to do with the "leather clad men." As an open-minded member of the leather community I should suggest that we should welcome them into our space to show them we are accepting of all lifestyles.

However, on a more realistic level, I would like to suggest that the "leather clad men" fulfill their leather fantasies by fucking the backseat of a Lexus and leave the leather bars to us.

IT'S JUST NOT FAIR

As a United States Marine returning from deployment, I could not wait to catch up on my reading of Drummer. I see you still print fuck stories about U.S. Marines. Dudes, give us Marines a break! It's not fair to the esprit de corps of the Marine Corps to always display readers with stories about us getting it up the ass all the time! I don't know about you dudes, but most Marines I hang with are macho ooh-rah ready-to-go-to-war men, who are not pussy-footed at all! I go into a bar, shoot the shit with you dudes, and only in San Francisco we Marines can be a part of the SM/Leather/Levi/Uniform places.

I'm asking you to please inform your readership that the U.S. Marine Corps does not [disrespect] fags, however kicks their ass right out if it is known about their adventures in the bars with the gay boys. People see me and say, "Hey Marine, want to get fucked?" Nowadays with AIDS and everything I'm not sure who's fucking who, but no U.S. Marine I know of gets fucked!! Your sailor boys in San Francisco love us, and we all do love San Francisco whenever we come there on Fleet Week.

Sex between two people is great, but please, guys, your squids must be really laughing it up, reading about Marines and sailor boys fucking.

SSGT USMC/San Diego, CA

Well, since it's my patriotic duty, I guess I'd better 'fess up: I did once meet somebody who knew someone who met a guy who said he knew a Marine who didn't like to get fucked. Okay?

DOMINO

1929 - 1990

DOMINO

A portfolio of Domino art will appear in a future
issue of Drummer

"I fell in love with Domino art. Aside from the perfection of the image, what captivated me was what he was doing with words on an art page. Everything else in Domino's art was so finished and pristine. Then, in a cop scene, for example, the cop is talking and it's just the words on the page. That contributed a lot to Big Sig and Gohr." — The Hun

Hip-high waders, overalls, hard hats, slickers... all the clothing and gear that define the eroticized icons of traditional masculinity: Cops, linemen, laborers, firemen... Yeah, firemen! Domino understood how to draw the visible surface of these images in a way that drove right to the heart of the myth-made, dream-polished desires of gay men. He drew rough sex and hard men, but mostly he drew Sex-Magical archetypes, and he did it with a precision and skill that could only be born out of knowing in himself the gut-level need for these images.

Domino—Donald Merrick—was born in Crosby, Minnesota, on August 11, 1929. He died of AIDS-related complications in New York City on October 14, 1990. Visual art was his life. He earned a Bachelors Degree in art at Chicago Art Institute and a Masters at the University of New Mexico (1955). He taught art at the University of Missouri and the Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond. Then, stepping outside the cloisters of academia, he moved to New York in 1960 to be the Art Director of Arts magazine.

The art of Donald Merrick gradually became recognized through the years. He was living the predictable life of a successful academic artist, complete with a wife and increasingly impressive university positions, culminating in his appointment as head of the art department at Farleigh-Dickinson University in Rutherford, New Jersey, in 1963.

Of course, the art of Donald Merrick was not Domino art, not by any stretch of the imagination. But there was "Domino" art being created too. Sadly, Merrick was in the long-established habit of throwing away the art that would one day be recognized as the beginning of Domino's remarkable career. It was personal, private, JO stuff. It served its purpose, and was destroyed. Parents and wives tend not to understand these things.

During the last years of his marriage, Merrick began to keep the male erotic pictures. Somewhere along the line, maybe as early as 1960, he chose the name Domino for the artist, perhaps just to have a signature other than Donald Merrick on the work. The name seems to have no special significance beyond the fact that a domino is complete when it is black and white, and the newly emerged artist felt that his work was more erotic in black and white.

In December, 1978, Stompers Gallery in New York mounted the debut exhibition of Domino art. The show closed at Stompers on January 31, 1979, and was rehanged less than two months later at Fey Way Studios. And, in March, the show catalog was released as Domino: Original Drawings and Prints, the artist's first book. Later, Domino called on The Hun for advice in setting up a business of his own to publish and distribute his art.

A star was definitely born in the Stompers/Fey Way showings. And a new career was started when Domino and The Hun put their heads together by long distance telephone. Donald Merrick is survived by a sister (and her children, two nieces and two nephews for Domino) who knew about and completely accepted Domino. So, one way or another, the existing Domino art will continue to be made available even though new orders arriving at the Domino P. O. Box right now are just being held while decisions and arrangements are finalized.

When Domino's good friend Chris Dickerson suggested to him that even though Donald Merrick had become quite successful, he would be remembered best as Domino, the artist wasn't bothered by it. "I'm sure you're right, Chris," was his only comment.

Dickerson—yes, the Chris Dickerson of bodybuilding fame—was Domino's neighbor. They looked out for each other, looked after each other when necessary. In fact, not long before Domino's last illness, Dickerson hurt his back. Domino was there for him, helping him cope with the things that were made difficult or impossible because of his injury. Then, through Domino's illness, Dickerson tried to ease things for him.

In August, Domino was feeling well enough to call up and talk to Drummer about doing new illustrations, but he had already been having more bad days than good days for a long time. The new illustrations didn't happen. On the afternoon of August 25, Dickerson got a phone call from Domino. Because "he sounded awful on the phone," Dickerson went to Domino's apartment. He let himself in and found his friend on the floor. Domino was rushed to the hospital where he remained through his last two months.

The loss of Domino after so few years is one of those entirely impossible things that we are having to deal with these days, things that can never be justified, losses we can never quite recover from.

"Domino was the creator of the first true bear-type men in erotic art. His male images conjured up the epitome of the cigar-smoking, hairy, muscular studs that we see in everyday life. He took those men and made them into everybody's desire. He turned us on to other types than the pretty boy, and all of us got some of our greatest JO fantasies from his work." — Cirby

LEATHER NOTEBOOK

By Larry Townsend

Dear Larry,

I praise the quality of both the photographic and written content of Drummer. Too bad we can't get it over-the-counter here in Canada, but don't worry. We always manage to get our hands on it one way or another.

I have two questions for you. The first concerns the extra-submissiveness of bottoms. I have found that every bottom who has really turned me on, later turned me off because he was so willing to do whatever I wanted him to do. Sometimes they have even gotten ahead of me and started leading the action into heavier areas than I would have otherwise gone. Is this normal, or have I just happened to hit on a biased sampling?

Secondly, I wonder if I am "out of step" with the mainstream, being a 29-year-old Top, and always finding older men as my subjects (guys in their late 30s, early 40s). I'm also about average size, but my bottoms always tend to be physically bigger than I am. I enjoy getting it on with these men, but it would be even more exciting for me to find some bottoms who are my own age and size, maybe even smaller.

So, what are my chances of finding a resisting bottom, and one who is more a brother than a father image?

D. B. / Montreal, Canada

Dear D. B.,

Pushy bottoms have been around since the dawn of SM history. Although they can fuck up a scene (or a relationship) by making the Top feel inadequate, they may also encourage him to get into more interesting or heavier areas than he would on his own. If you don't want this interference, it's easy enough to assert your control by punishing or threatening to punish the verbal expressions. If the guy still won't shut up, gag him. A lot of times, though, the bottom may be attempting to lead because he doesn't think you are experienced enough to do it on your own. Proving your "right to be Top" is something you may find necessary because your bottoms are older, and need to be convinced of your competence.

As to finding younger, smaller bottoms, good luck. Most guys don't get into the more interesting aspects of SM until they are your age or over.

It just takes that long for most of us to recognize and act on our deepest desires. But there are a few younger ones around, and they'll be exactly what you want, because by and large they will be less experienced than you, and will probably be more willing to trust your judgment.

Dear Larry,

I am an old cocksucker, retired now and moved back to my roots in Kentucky. There are many friends (both gay and otherwise) in addition to family, available to keep me going socially, and I am not lacking for things to occupy my mind and my time. In fact, I've gotten into university level classes, and I'm so busy I have less free time than I had when I was working. But I do miss the opportunity to get down on my knees in a good working gloryhole, and get my face stuffed full of big, hard, uncut meat. I'm a little reluctant to do much in my own area, but a trip across the state line once in a while would not be out of the realm of possibility. My question: if all I want to do is suck cock, how much danger am I in, health-wise? Isn't there a lesser chance of meeting an HIV positive man in this part of the country? I've never contracted anything in all my years of service to mankind, and don't want to start now. Still, the juices are flowing and my lips sometimes ache for the old feeling of smooth, slick velvet sliding down my throat.

A. C. / Louisville, KY

Dear A. C.,

Good for you! You've certainly got the right spirit. As to the danger: yes, it's there. We can't deny it. As I've commented before, cocksucking is, statistically speaking, a low risk form of behavior. There is probably a greater chance of your being arrested than of contracting AIDS, although this would be true anywhere. But both dangers are present. You can reduce the health risk by: 1) Not taking the guy's load, or 2) washing your mouth out with a good swig of vodka immediately afterward. It also helps to take care not to have any kind of open sore in your mouth or on your lips. Some guys even go so far as to slip a rubber on the guy's dick. I don't know if you'd be willing to do that, but it's the only completely safe answer, even in the backwaters of Appalachia. [Editor's Note: Many knowledgeable health officials are adamant that oral sex is safe, as far as HIV infection is concerned. Read, ask, think... and make your own INFORMED decisions. It's the only way.]

If you would like to have Larry Townsend address a particular problem or issue, you can write him c/o Leather Notebook, Drummer, PO Box 11314, San Francisco, CA 94101-1314.

Shitkicker!

In 1978, Surree Ltd. published a book titled S&M Truckers by Clay Caldwell. This collection of short stories linked by related introductions quickly became an underground SM classic. Clay Caldwell is allowing Drummer to again make these long out of print stories available for the one-handed enjoyment of our readers. This is the fourth installment. Further stories will appear later in the year.

by Clay Caldwell

Tony moved cautiously from the brush and trees and viewed the narrow mountain road before venturing into the open.

He was a medium tall teenager with close-trimmed hair and mature features, and a washed-out workshirt and soiled trousers outlined his well-muscled physique.

The road was empty as far as he could see, and he shrugged and turned back, popping open the buttons on his fly. He groped inside, found his heavy-hanging cock and pulled it out, tugged the thick shaft, then began to piss.

He felt a crazy sort of freedom as he let his mallet-crowned dick dangle from his pants and took a leak in the bushes, and he reached inside again to fumble his potent testicles, toying with them proudly.

"Man!" he whispered to himself. "Yeah...man!!"

Finished, he milked the last golden droplets from his prick, and then he heard a car motor in the distance.

He shoved his meat back inside his pants and buttoned up, and then he saw a battered pickup truck come into sight.

He studied it for a moment, then hustled to the roadside and offered his thumb.

The truck slowed and stopped.

"Climb in, lad," a deep, masculine voice drawled from the cab. "I'm only goin' a few miles further, but you're welcome t'ride along."

"Thanks." Tony swung up onto the seat beside the man behind the steering wheel. "Rides're hard to catch out here."

"I reckon so." He slipped the clutch into gear and eased the truck forward. He was in his early thirties, sandy-haired, sun-bronzed, sharp featured, and he wore a bleached khaki shirt and Levis. "Where're you headed?"

"East." Tony shied away from the stranger's gaze. "Going as far as the freeway?"

"Nearly." He dug a cigarette from his shirt pocket and lit it, his squinted eyes shifting back to the roadway ahead. "I'm Bart. You got a name?"

"Tony."

"Howdy." Bart inhaled smoke, then passed the butt to the youth without looking at him. "You're travelin' light if you're headed east, lad."

"I—I was robbed," Tony lied, and he sucked fast on the cigarette. "The last guys who picked me up...they brought me out here and robbed me...my gear...my wallet...everything."

"Lordy! We'd best report that t'th' Sheriff!"

"No!" he exclaimed. "I—I don't know their names or anything. And I—I didn't have much with me."

"Sheriff Russell's a friend of mine," Bart explained. "I do believe he'd be glad t'help out a fine-lookin' lad like you."

"Forget it!" Tony sucked on the cigarette again. "He'd probably book me for vagrancy."

"Could be. Rusty ain't much for lettin' fellers wander around here with nothin' but holes in their pockets."

Tony relaxed, grinning. He enjoyed Bart's cool, easy drawl, and he gave the brawny man a quick glance.

"You live around here, Bart?"

"Yup. I've got myself a little spread back off this road." He dug out another cigarette and lit it. "It's a bit of a detour from th' freeway, if you want t'take a look at it."

"How much of a detour?"

"Considerable. I ain't much for havin' folks crowd in on me."

Tony didn't bother to answer. He felt strangely secure with the drawling man...and he sure as hell needed some security!

Without comment, Bart slowed the truck and made a turn onto a side road.

Tony finished his cigarette, doused it, and felt even more secure as Bart wheeled again onto dirt-rutted tracks.

The landscape was heavily treed and increasingly isolated, and suddenly, they crested a rise and rolled into a clearing, a small house and barn alone in the wilderness.

"You sure don't like to be crowded," Tony murmured. "I bet no one ever comes wandering in on you."

"Only fellers I invite." He braked the pickup to a stop and slid to the ground. "Come along, an' I'll show you around."

Tony followed, studying Bart thoughtfully. They were a long way from the highway and the outside world, and the drawling stud walked with an easy, cowboy gait, showing off what he'd done and planned to do with the property.

The more Tony saw, the more he was sure that Bart's place was the hide-out he needed...and Bart was too much of a shitkicker to ever suspect!

"Man!" Tony exclaimed as they finally headed toward the ramshackle house. "You sure have got a great place here! I wouldn't mind living out in the woods like this!"

"Tain't much yet," Bart muttered, stomping up the wood-plank steps to the front porch of the building. "There's a lot of work t'do, but you're welcome t'stay for a time, if you wish."

"Hey! That'd be neat!" He offered his most boyish smile as they entered the sparsely furnished living room, a fireplace at one side, the open door to a bedroom at the rear. "Look, Bart, I don't want to put you out...you know."

"Yup." He matched Tony's smile, open and honest. "It's gettin' late, an' hitchhikin' east'll be somewhat hard, even on th' freeway. Also, I reckon you could use a shower an' all." He nodded toward the bedroom. "You can strip down an' clean up in th' latrine in there."

"Okay." He'd agreed almost too easily but—hell, he didn't want to give himself away. "Sure."

He sauntered into the bedroom, and he heard Bart clomp about in the other room as he undressed and piled his clothes on the wide, neatly-made bed.

Naked, Tony stretched and took a long, deep breath, and then he reached down to fumble his loose-hanging genitals. His sun-bronzed physique was a handsome blend of maturing youthfulness and virile manhood, and thickening muscles rippled over his wide shoulders and powerful arms. His full-arched chest was brushed with dark hair which trailed downward over his taut stomach and flat, sudden-pale belly to merge with the lush growth at his crotch. His long torso tapered sharply to his narrow waist and hips, and the fullness of his dangling cock and balls was accentuated by his solid, stocky thighs and legs.

He loafed into the small latrine and started the shower, chuckling as he climbed beneath the warm spray.

Dammit, he'd finally lucked out! He'd hitched a ride with a drawling shitkicker named Bart who dug living in the middle of nowhere...off the beaten path...where Tony could stay hidden for a few days—maybe longer—until the heat was off and he could haul ass out of state!

He grabbed the bar of soap from the wall holder and began lathering himself vigorously, pawing his nakedness, enjoying his muscled masculinity, relishing his now-and-future freedom.

Yeah, Tony had finally lucked out!

He washed thoroughly and rinsed, then hopped from the stall to find a towel and dry off.

There was a razor and tube of shaving cream on the wash basin opposite, and he checked his reflection in the shaving mirror, frowning at the stubble graying his cheeks and jaws.

Instinctively, he started shaving, trying to make his face baby-ass smooth...and he saw Bart's reflection in the mirror, stripped to his waist in the doorway behind him and grinning.

"Lordy, lad," the shitkicker drawled. "I'm pleased you found my razor. I'd like t'see you lookin' all cleaned up an' fine."

Bart's thick neck melted into broad, bone-tipped shoulders, and the high curves of his chest were blanketed with curly, sun-bleached hair. His Levis dipped low on his hips, no sign of shorts showing, and the crotch bulged with masculine strength.

As he finished shaving, Tony wondered what the man did for sex in this goddam wilderness.

After washing and drying his face, he followed Bart back into the bedroom, only to stop in the entrance frowning.

"Where're my clothes?" he asked, nodding toward the empty bed.

"I tossed them out," Bart replied with his usual, easy going smile. "They're th' kind of duds th' fellers at th' Sheriff's Honor Camp wear, right?"

"I--I wouldn't know."

"Durn it, I've picked up more'n one of you runaways." He shook his head with annoyance. "I don't know why you tried it, Tony, but they're bound t'catch you. 'Specially wearin' that camp uniform."

"Shit!" Tony's vision of freedom crumbled, and it took a moment for him to suck in a breath and collect his thoughts. "Going to call the Sheriff, Bart?"

"There ain't no phone here."

"So?"

"I reckon we'll just have t'wait 'til Rusty comes callin'. Then—well, he's always taken th' others back t'camp an'--" He shrugged. "There's somethin' he calls 'extra duty, extra time.' I dunno what that is."

"I do. That's no sweat." Tony wet his lips. "What happens between now and the time the Sheriff gets here?"

"Most times, you runaways do what I say...an' take care of my needs." Bart viewed the naked youth slowly, thoughtfully. "You ain't like those other lads, Tony. I do believe you'd keep on runnin' if I give you th' chance. Yup, stripped bare an' with th' Sheriff chasin' you, I reckon you're th' kind that keeps on runnin' away." He turned to the battered dresser against the wall, opened a drawer and brought out a pair of handcuffs. "I'd best chain you up 'til Rusty gets here."

Tony saw the glint of the metal manacles, and he reacted impulsively as the man turned back toward him.

"Shitkicker!" His fist smashed toward Bart's face. "I'm not going back to that goddamn—" Bart's counter-punch was already on its way.

Bart had dropped the handcuffs and was blocking Tony's blow with one arm, and his knuckled fist smashed into the naked youth.

Tony staggered back, stunned, and his head banged against the wall behind him.

He slumped to the floor.

"I don't like bein' called a shitkicker, boy," Bart grumbled, and he hunched over Tony, picking up the handcuffs. "On th' other hand, I kinda figured you'd stand up t'me." He snapped the clamps on the youth's wrists, then rose and went back to the bureau. "I reckon I'd best chain you well, lad. You ain't quite like th' other runaways I've brought here."

He returned with a length of metal chain, and he hunkered beside Tony as he fastened one end of it about the youth's neck.

Tony blinked his eyes open, and he shook his head, groggy. Then he discovered the handcuffs and chain, and he stared at them for a long moment.

"What goes, Bart?"

"How come you're in th' Sheriff's camp, lad?"

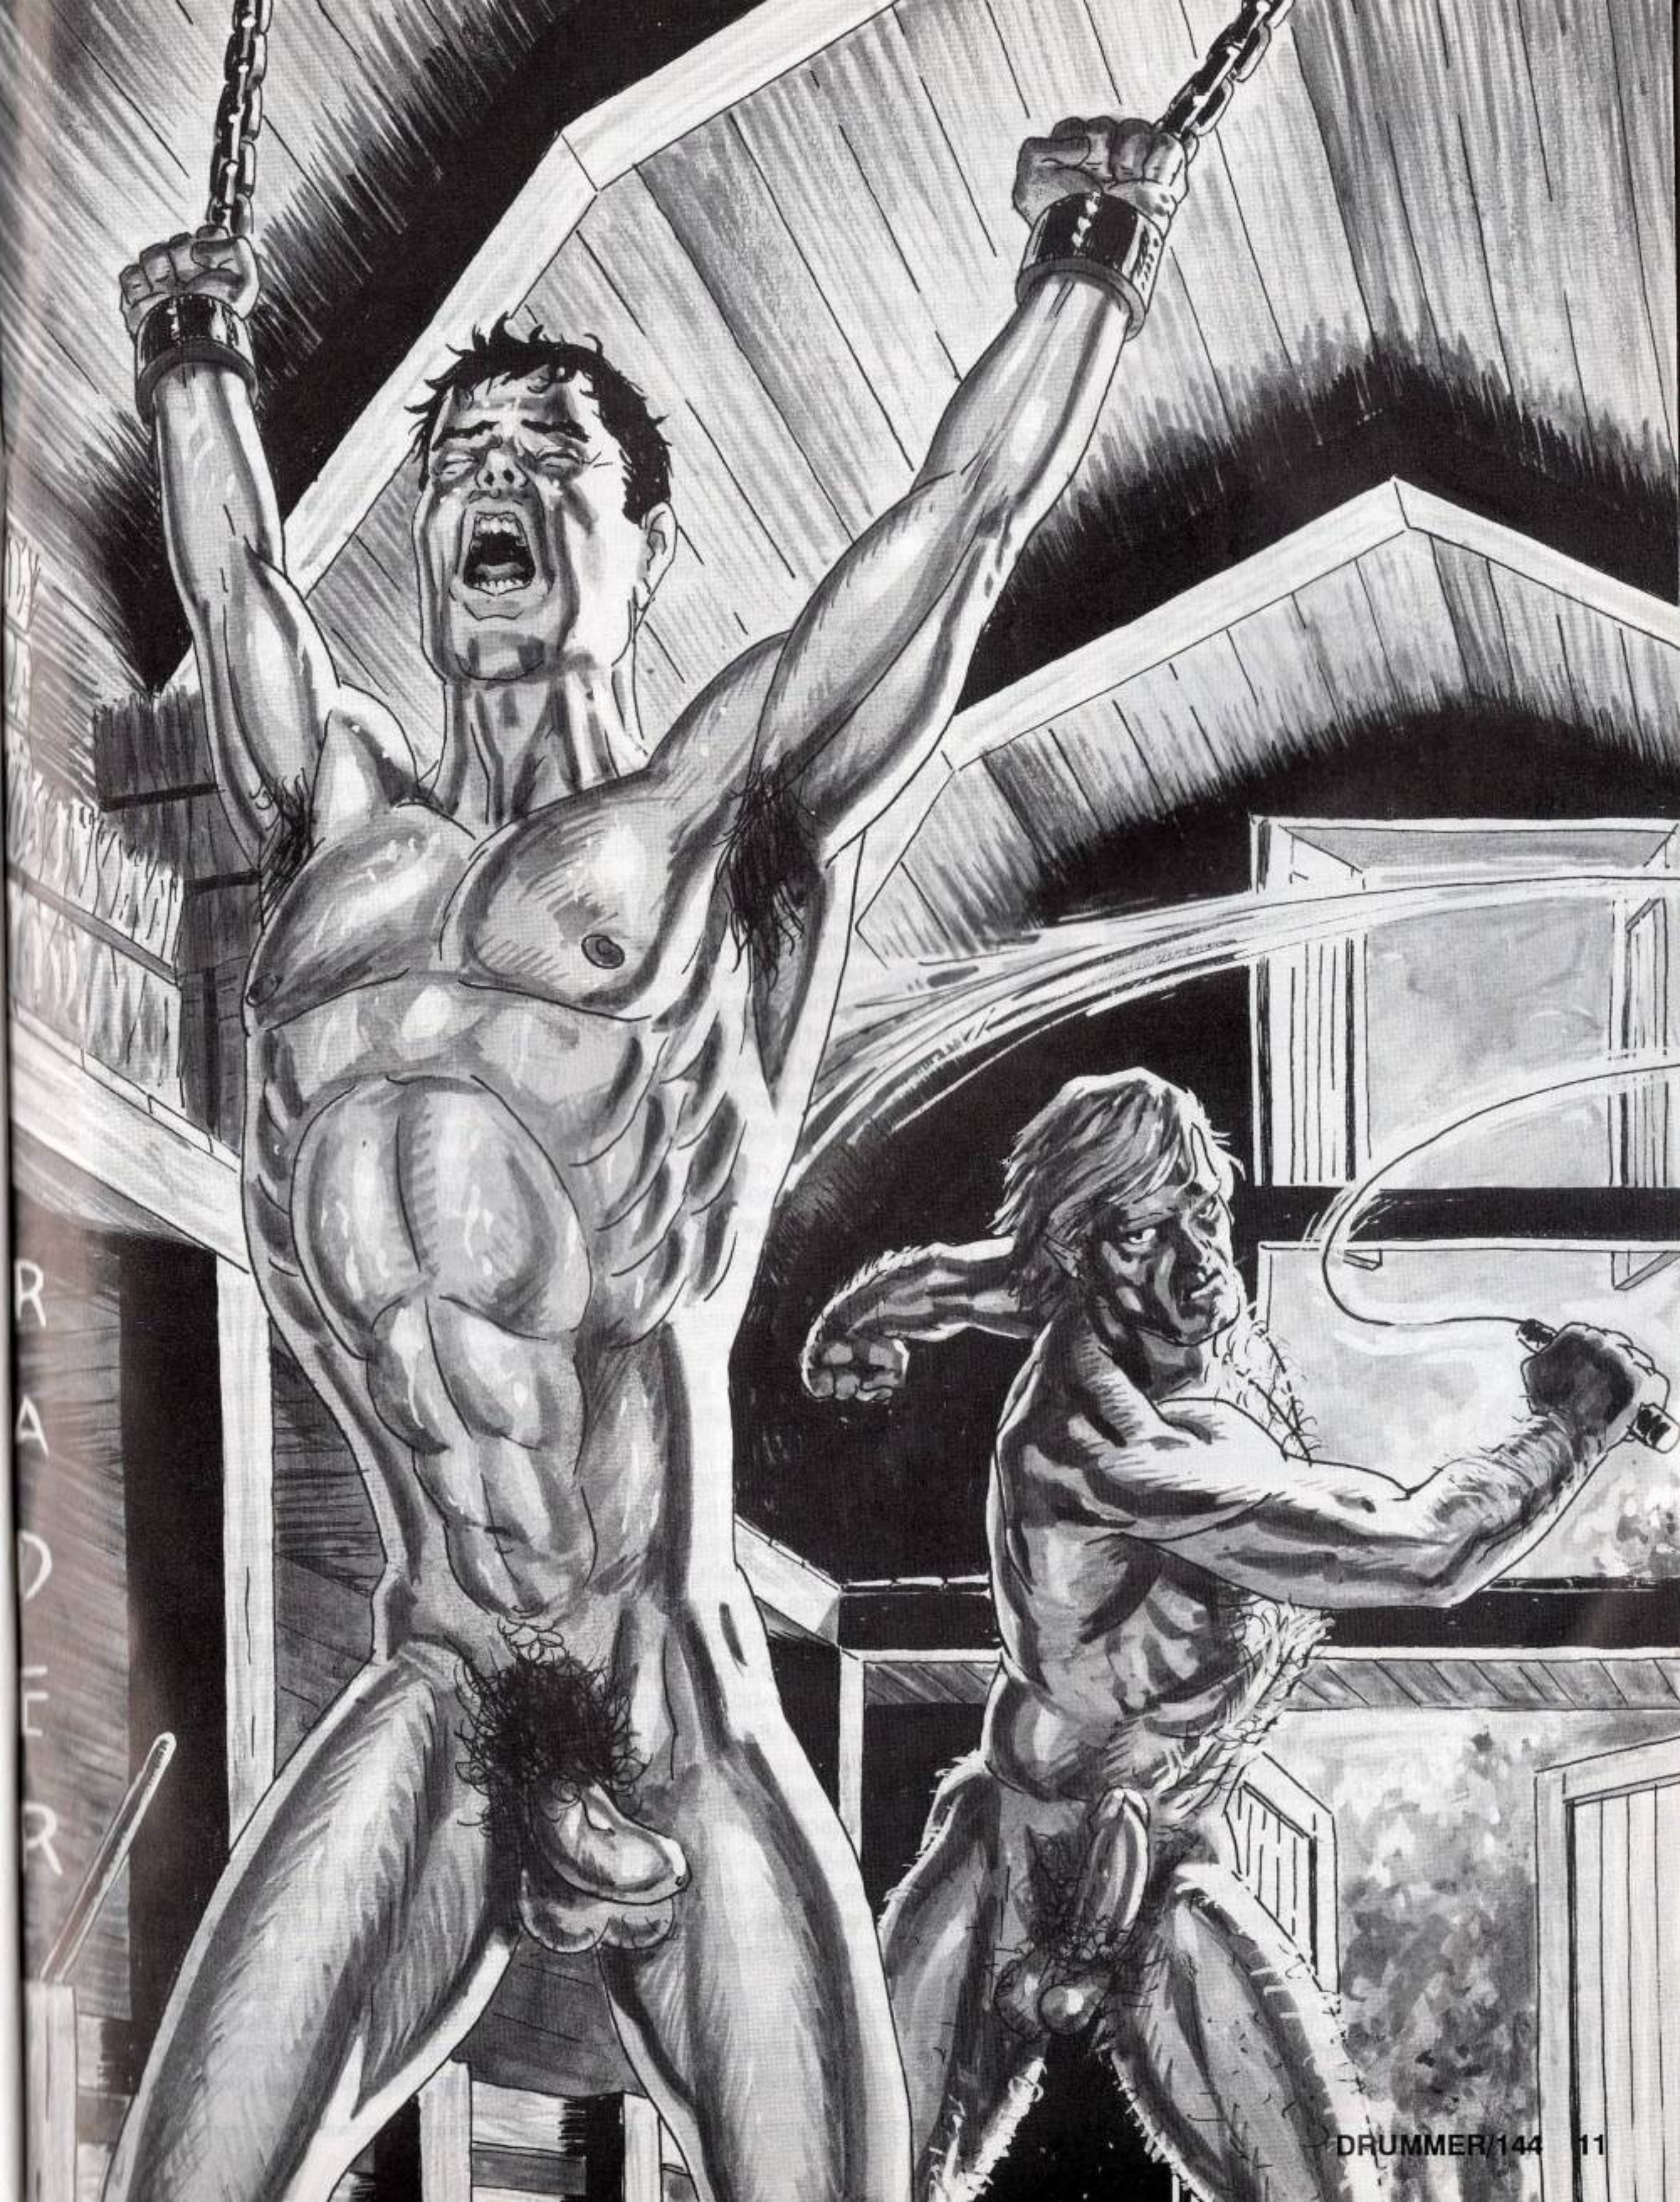

"None of your fucking business!" Tony barked, and then he took a deep breath, head down, avoiding the man's steady gaze. "What do you care?"

"I dunno," Bart admitted honestly, his gentle drawl reflecting his uncertainty. "I reckon you must've done somethin' awful wrong. If I'd done somethin' like that when I was a youngun like you, my pappy would've blistered my ass out in th' barn."

"My old man belted me around plenty. That's why I—why I left home."

"I did th' same thing," Bart murmured. "But not for th' same reason. I never ended up in a camp like you, that's for sure." He swung to his feet, tugging on the chain locked around Tony's neck. "Come along, lad."

"Wha—" His air was cut off by the tightened chain, and he stumbled to his feet, clawing at the collar with his manacled hands. "Sonofabitch! You're choking me!"

"Come along," Bart repeated quietly. "We'd best get t'know each other, if you're going t'be here 'til Rusty come t'pick you up."

"Meaning?"

"I'm takin' you out t'th' barn, th' way my pappy would've taken me."

Naked and chained, Tony had no escape, and he followed Bart from the house and across the clearing and into the board-sided barn.

The interior was shadowed and smelled of hay and manure, and raw ropes hung from the overhead beams.

Without a word, Bart attached one of the ropes to the handcuffs on Tony's wrists and hauled him up, muscles-stretched.

"Knock it off!" the teenager barked, sure of himself. "You lay a hand on me, and the Sheriff'll know it!"

"Like I told you, Rusty's a pal of mine," Bart answered in his gentle drawl, and he stepped in front of Tony, smiling honestly. "He knows I've been somewhat rough with his runaways."

"It's against the law to—"

"Lots of things're against th' law. My pappy never thought about that when he took me out t'th' barn." He put both hands on the youth's hair-spattered chest and stroked the bared flesh-arcs slowly. "You're a fine-lookin' youngun'...an' an awful lot like I was at your age...only—" He broke off and watched his fingers toy with Tony's crimsoned nipples, then roam lower. "Only, I never ended up in a camp, like you did."

Deliberately, he reached down and gripped Tony's heavy-hanging cock and slippery balls, finger-locking them securely.

"What the—" Tony tensed, then sneered. "You like playing with a guy's dick, Bart?"

"Yup," he answered without shyness. "Mostly, I play with my own 'cause it's somewhat lonely out here, but it'll be mighty pleasin' t'have you suck on it, lad."

"Go to hell, shitkicker!"

"That ain't a proper way t'talk," Bart cautioned. "Specially when I've got ahold of your nuts."

He shrugged and released the youth's testicles. "I'd best whomp some sense int'you." He sauntered across the barn to pick up a length of heavy leather, and he wrapped one end of it about his wrist securely as he returned. "Want t'tell me why you got sent t'th' camp?"

"It's none of your goddamn business!"

With a grunt, Bart took a stance behind Tony, and for a long moment, he studied his strong, bronzed back and pale, tight-rounded ass. Then he raised the whip and brought it searing down across the muscled-ridged flesh.

Tony gasped at the brutal force of the blow, and he gritted his teeth, determined not to cry out.

Bart beat him with slow sureness, raising welt after welt on his taut skin, and he thrashed at the bindings holding him. He fought the mounting pain, and at last an aching groan came from his throat.

Then he was cursing and howling as the lash-strokes ripped into him.

Finally he hung limp and helpless, agonized moans coming uncontrollably with each new blow.

Bart stopped the beating and tossed the whip aside. His face and torso glistened with beads of sweat, but his expression showed no strain or emotion.

He released the ropes holding Tony upright, and the youth sagged to the raw wood flooring of the barn.

Bart wet his thin lips, then hauled the teenager to a pile of hay with surprising ease, laying him out face down with his arms and legs stretched.

"It seems as if a feller needs t'get whomped sometimes, lad. If your pappy'd been like mine, maybe you wouldn't've ended up in th' Sheriff's camp." He sat on the straw beside Tony and ran one work-rough palm over the youngun's lash-streaked back and ass. "How come you got sent t'Rusty's place, Tony?"

"What do you care?" he hissed.

"Lordy!" Bart sighed. "Ain't you learned nothin' from that whippin'? 'Tain't right for a fine-lookin' lad like you t'be locked up, an' it ain't right for you t'try runnin' away...an' it ain't right for you t'act so—so—well, you're chained up an' stuck with me 'til Rusty comes for you...an' I'm stuck with you, likewise."

"I stole a car," Tony murmured, all mixed up inside by the shitkicker's drawl and almost caressing fingerstrokes. "And a lot of other crap. When the cops caught me, my folks didn't give a damn. Maybe they were glad to get rid of me, I dunno."

"You done wrong, lad."

"Yeah...maybe...I dunno."

"You're learnin'," Bart declared decisively, and he twisted away to unhook the thong laces on his workboots. "As long as you're stayin' here, you'd best do as I say. Otherwise, I'll just havet'whomp you some more."

Barefoot, he stood up and began unfastening his Levi's, and Tony eyed him warily.

"What're you doing, Bart?"

"Strippin' down." He peeled off his pants, and his prick bobbed forward from his crotch, partially swollen and threatening. "I plan on ridin' that fine little tail of yours."

"Nobody fucks me!"

"'Tain't likely that you're a virgin, not after bein' in th' camp." He brought out a tube of lubricant and began applying it to the bulging crown and thickened shaft of his ram. "I'm mighty fired up, so you'd best relax an' spread your cheeks, lad."

"Knock it off, you sonofabitch!"

"Do what I say, durn it!" He knelt between Tony's legs and slapped his lash-streaked ass hard. "One way or another, I'm goin' t'bust int'you!"

Tony whimpered and felt Bart's strong hands force his buns apart, exposing his clenched asshole, and then the grease-slick cockhead was nudging against it.

"No...please don't...Bart...don't!"

Ignoring the squirming youth's pleas, Bart pressured the tip of his iron against the pulsing opening, forcing it to spread, and Tony choked back an anguished cry as the potent invader slithered inward collar-deep.

"Lordy!" Bart whispered, pleased and grinning. "That surely is a tight fit!"

"You're wrecking me!"

"No, I ain't. But you'd best stop fightin' 'cause I've got a ways t'go 'fore all of my pecker's plowed int'you."

"Bastard! Sonofabitch! Fucking shitkicker!"

"Yup."

Tony's bound hands clawed at the coarse straw beneath him, and Bart's turgid prick eased forward...drew back...slid deeper...deeper...again and again...

slowly and almost gently...

all the way to the hair-crisp groin!

Bart was fucking Tony, and the tough-as-nails runaway from the Sheriff's camp was yelling and cursing...and the drawling cowboy's powerful cock filled his guts...

and Tony was helpless to stop it...and didn't want to!

Dazed, whipped and chained, he was yielding totally to the goddam shitkicker!

"Bart...Bart...Bart!"

"Mighty fine, lad...mighty fine!"

Bart gripped the youth and hauled him up and back to sit on his plunging flesh-column, and Tony closed his eyes and submitted completely. He felt the man's powerful arms wrap about him, the work-rough fingers examining his virile nakedness, and his cock soared iron-hard from his crotch.

Locked together, they sprawled on the hay again, and Bart hip-pumped with growing fury, his hoarse, excited breathing echoing in Tony's ears.

The youth groaned, overwhelmed by the cowboy's masculinity, and then his climax was churning for release inside him. He threw his head back and howled with pleasure as his cum boiled over and spurted into the straw beneath him.

Christ, it felt as if Bart's plunging ram were hammering every drop out of his sex-hot balls!

Then Bart was burying his convulsing iron nuts-deep into Tony and bellowing in ecstasy.

They writhed together, lost in the ultimate masculine sensation, and the instant eternity seemed endless.

At last, they sank into the lazy retreat from the summit they'd reached, and Tony lay still beneath Bart's naked weight, numb and exhausted.

"Lordy!" Bart finally sighed. "That was mighty pleasin'!" He pulled up on his elbows. "I reckon we'd best wash up, lad."

"Not yet," Tony murmured, still floating in the warm afterglow.

"All right." He lowered himself flat on the youth's back again. "I ain't never shot my juices int'a finer little tail than yours, Tony."

"It felt like—I dunno...being chained up and whipped...fucked...." He sucked in a slow breath. "You're a rough sonofabitch, shitkicker."

"Done runnin' away?" Bart's drawl was quiet and honest. "It seems t'me that that's what you've been doin', stealin' cars an' gettin' locked up an' runnin' away."

"I guess so."

They lay still for several minutes, and Bart's cock was still firm but no longer throbbing-hard in Tony's ass.

"Durn it," he grumbled at last, "I'll never go all th' way soft, not as long as my pecker's makin' itself at home in your tail." He pulled up again, slowly withdrawing his ram from the warm clenching nest. "We can wash up down at th' creek. I like scrubbin' there better 'n in th' house shower."

"Okay."

They got to their feet, and Bart seized the length of chain hung about the youth's neck, leading him from the barn.

The sun was setting, and Tony followed Bart across the clearing and into a stand of trees, head-down.

He was watching his cock flop between his thighs, wisps of straw cum-stuck to the head and shaft, and he remembered the virile, demanding penetration of his asshole and the fury-pleasure of his climax.

He let his gaze move to the man leading him, the wide shoulders and long, tapering back, the slim hips, the ease rise-and-fall of the muscle-pinched butt, and he remembered the brutality of the flogging, the gentle stroking of the fingers as they examined every part of his stripped nakedness, the honest, shitkicker drawl, the unexpected willingness with which he'd let the sonofabitch lay him out on the mound of hay and screw his "fine little tail."

They came from the trees to the bank of a fast-moving creek, and Bart placed Tony at the edge of the water. Then he went to a wooden crate at the edge of the bushes, came back with a bar of soap, grinned at the motionless teenager...and shoved him face-forward into the pool.

Tony hit the water with a belly-spanking splash, went beneath the surface, held his breath in the darkness and fought with his manacled hands to right himself, and finally he got his feet planted on the rocky bottom and popped up, sucking for air.

"Goddamn! It's cold, Bart!"

"I reckon so, lad." Bart stood a few feet away, drenched, casually lathering his brawny torso and genitals, grinning. "When I was a youngun back home, my pappy used t'toss me int'th' creek every day 'til I got used t'it. He said it'd make a man outa me." Drizzling with soap foam, he came up to the shivering youth. "If Rusty don't come t'take you back t'th' camp, I reckon you'll get used t'it, too. In th' meantime I'd best wash you proper-like."

He brought the soap up to Tony's chest and rubbed it slowly over the strong flesh-arcs, then downward.

Without question, he washed Tony's cock and balls, the runaway from the Sheriff's camp most personal parts.

And Tony reached out to move the lather over Bart's hairy chest...into his armpits...down his rib-etched sides...into his exposed crotch...matching his movements...grasping his loose-hanging testicles....

Their eyes met, and Bart's gaze was steady and unafraid.

"Shitkicker," Tony muttered, releasing the man's sensitive nuts and turning away. "Wash my goddamn back. I can't reach it with these fucking handcuffs on."

Grinning, Bart finished scrubbing himself and the husky youth, and then they splashed in the chilled water, rinsing themselves.

When Tony stumbled up onto the bank of the stream, Bart was already drying himself with a coarse towel.

"I've only got one towel," the man drawled. "I wasn't expecting company."

"I don't mind using yours."

"I'll do it for you." He stepped forward and began rubbing the damp cloth over the youth's muscular physique. "You was thinkin' about bustin' my rocks when you had ahold of them, right?"

"Maybe." Tony sucked in an audible breath. "You knew I wouldn't, didn't you?"

"Yup." He moved behind Tony and nized the car coming into the clearing.

The sedan braked to a stop, its lights held on Bart's gleaming nakedness for a long moment before going dark, and a burly redhead in a khaki uniform swung from it.

"Goddamn, Bart!" he chuckled, sauntering forward. "What're you doing standing around in your birthday suit?"

"Waitin' for you t'show up, Rusty."

"Goddamn!" the grinning sheriff repeated, and he reached out to grasp Bart's prick without hesitation. "Horny, pal?"

"I reckon I'm always horny," he acknowledged in an amused drawl. "Now, if you was t'drop your pants an'--"

"I haven't got time," he interrupted, tugging the thick flesh-column gently. "I'm looking for another runaway from me up like this...used a whip on me...fucked me in the ass...." He wet his lips, still glowering. "Going to arrest him, Sheriff?"

"Jesus!" Rusty gasped in mock-horror. "He worked you over? Screwed your skinny butt?" And he laughed. "Man, just wait until I get you back to camp and tell your cock-hot pals that their hero's been whipped and fucked! They'll be all over you, twenty-four hours a day!"

"I've been thinkin' about that," Bart said quietly. "Rusty, if you was t'forget about findin' Tony here, he could stay on an' help me out with th' work that's got t'be done." He reached down to fumble his open-hanging genitals. "Also, he can take care of my other needs."

"What if he tries to run away again? What if he doesn't do what you tell him to?"

"I reckon I'd have t'take him out in th' barn an' whomp on him some more. He knows that."

"I don't know about letting this punk loose," the sheriff muttered. "You really want to be responsible for him and his behavior? You really want him to stay?"

"Yup." There, Bart'd said it, straight-out and honest. "Yup, I wish that lad t'stay."

"Damn it, pal, if you're going to tell him what to do, and whip him if he doesn't do it...that's like having him as your slave! And slavery is illegal!"

"Lordy! I ain't about t'break th' law, no matter what!" He thought for a moment, then grinned at Rusty. "Would it still be slavery if Tony was t'agree?"

"Damned if I know."

"Then I'd best ask him." Bart moved over to Tony, patting him on the head. "Want t'stay, lad?"

"I sure as hell don't want to go back to the camp!" the youth muttered. "I—I don't mind staying here, shitkicker."

"I guest that makes it legal," Rusty said with a shrug and turned toward the door. "I'd better get back to work."

"Stay on, if you wish," Bart offered. "Tony ain't shy about—"

"Maybe one night next week."

Bart watched the sheriff leave, then waited until the car motor sounded outside, growled and disappeared into the distance.

The fire crackled in the fireplace, and Tony hunched forward, staring at it.

"Bart? Did you mean what you said about wanting me to stay here?"

"Yup. I ain't much good at lyin'."

"And—what you and the sheriff said

the chain, and he dried his welt-streaked back and ass. "Like I said before, you're learnin'." Finished, he tossed the towel over one shoulder and started toward the trees. "Come along, lad."

"Yes, sir."

Without thought, Tony had called the brawny man "sir," and as he followed, he realized Bart hadn't bothered to lead him by the chain around his neck this time.

They walked into the clearing in front of the house, and Bart spotted headlights approaching on the road.

"You'd best get inside, Tony. See if you can light th' fire in th' fireplace."

The youth tromped into the building, and Bart started to wrap his towel about his hips, then tossed it aside as he recog-

the camp."

"A fine-lookin' lad named Tony?"

"Yeah. You caught him, huh?" Rusty pulled back, chuckling. "That's why you're stripped bare-ass."

"He's inside." Bart turned toward the house. "See for yourself."

They loafed up the porch steps and through the front door, and a small fire flickered in the fireplace. Tony sat on the floor in front of it, head-down, staring at the flames, his whip-marked back exposed, and the shifting light glistening on the chain around his neck and the handcuffs on his wrists.

"Hey, Tony!" Rusty snickered. "You don't look so good, punk."

"That goddamn shitkicker worked me over," the youth growled. "He chained about me being your slave?"

"Yup." He bent down and unhooked the chain from Tony's neck. "I reckon you don't need t'wear this no more."

"Yes...sir."

"Put up your hands, lad."

Tony offered his manacled wrists, and Bart unfastened the handcuffs and tossed them aside.

"Bastard!" the teenager muttered. "Belting me around...whipping me...fucking me...and wanting me to stick around!"

Tony raised his head slowly, gazing at the naked man's powerful legs, then his hair-filled groin and loose-flopping genitals. Suddenly he rocked forward and wrapped his arms about Bart's slim hips, pressing his face into the masculine crotch.

His lips found the bulging testicles, and he nuzzled them...licked them...sucked them gently...and then the potent, swelling cock.

He let the massive flesh-column stiffen in his mouth, and he forced himself down on the vein-etched shaft...all the way to the pubic wire at the base...

all the way!

"Lordy!" Bart gripped the back of Tony's head and held him throat-choked in place for a moment, then pulled back, cock-hard and grinning down at the youth sheepishly. "Durn it, havin' you gulp down on my pecker like that, it's got me mighty fired up again. Only—well, I reckon we'd best talk straight-out t'each other before our balls do our thinkin' instead of our brains!" He shoved Tony down on the floor and stepped away. "Also, I reckon both of us could use a cigarette."

Tony watched the shitkicker get a pair of cigarettes, light them, then settle beside him and stick one of them between his lips. He inhaled the smoke, held it in his lungs, then let it spew out.

"I'll have to get used to being your slave, shitkicker."

"An' I'll have t'get used t'havin' you call me 'shitkicker.'" He dragged on his cigarette and let his free hand move to the naked youth lying back next to him. "T'morrow I'll show you what chores have t'be done around here."

"Okay." Tony spread his legs as Bart's fingers roamed toward his crotch. "Ever had a slave before?"

"Nope. Never wanted one."

"How come you wanted me?"

"Durned if I know." He toyed with Tony's genitals lazily, without hesitation. "Could be we need each other, lad."

They finished their cigarettes and flicked them into the glowing fire, and then Tony chuckled softly.

"Damn you, Bart! You're giving me a hard-on!"

"You're givin' it t'yourself," Bart drawled, turning on his side toward the youth. "I'm just helpin' it along."

He watched the youth's cock expand and rise full-hard, and he gave Tony one of those shitkicker-pleased grins.

Then he hunched down and took the bulging head into his mouth...licking...sucking...letting the powerful flesh-column slide all the way into his throat.

"Shitkicker!" Tony hissed, shivering at the sensations churning inside him. "Goddamn—"

"Lordy!" Bart grumbled, pulling up. "You surely do have a mouthful of pecker on you!"

tried bein' rode, but it ain't my style." He grinned at the firelight flickering on the ceiling. "On th' other hand, I do believe Rusty'd be mighty pleased if you was t'mount him."

"The sheriff!?"

"Yup. He surely does enjoy bein' mounted, an' I do believe you could please him real fine." He chuckled happily. "Lordy, that'll be somethin' truly special, you takin' care of Rusty's needs while I'm pluggin' int'your little butt!"

"Awww—" Tony rolled over and clamped himself to Bart. "You bastard! You cocksucker! You sonofabitch!" He clung to the drawling stud, and he let go with his thoughts. "I wish to hell I'd run into you a long time ago...before I fouled up and got sent to the sheriff's camp...before—"

"Cause I wanted t'." He lay back beside Tony again. "If you're my slave, I reckon I can make use of any part of you I wish t'. An' that includes your mighty-fine dick!"

"Yeah?" He tried to sound like the tough punk in the Sheriff's camp. "You're a cocksucker, huh?"

"Sometimes," Bart admitted easily. "Tain't often I've found one I've wished t'suck."

"How about taking it up the ass? Man, I bet you'd dig getting fucked right about now!"

"Nope," He replied honestly. "I've

"Don't try t'be friendly," Bart warned gruffly, denying his tone by embracing the youth, hard-on to hard-on. "You're stuck with bein' my slave, remember?"

"Yes, sir."

"An' I'm goin' t'whomp your ass if you don't act proper."

"Yes, sir!"

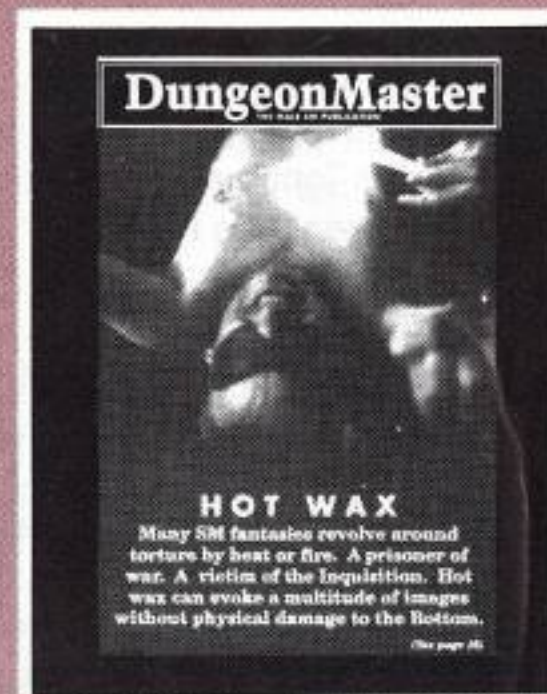

"An' do worse'n I've already done t'you."

"Yes, sir!!"

"Durn it, lad!" Bart wanted to sound tough as he thought Tony wanted...and he knew durned-well he'd only be foolin' himself. "Like I said...lordy...you said you'd be my slave...an' we both agreed...an'—well, I reckon we're stuck with each other, lad."

The ticket agent removed the ear cushions of her Walkman long enough to say, "You done missed the Atlanta express. Local leaves at...."

I started to tell her the opposite schedule had been given to me by phone, but she was tapping to the music in her head.

"ROUND TRIP," I screamed. (I'd be returning to Cleveland and college in late summer.)

She might have run a guillotine from the ferocity with which she stamped my ticket.

I climbed the slick stairway to the men's john where (at 12) I had seen my first public jack-off—a Chicano who gave me a two-handed show: a dick round as a baseball, long as a flashlight, and the turmoil of a cup of cum.

For years, I beat off to that white flood, that monster dick.

Nothing this Tuesday night. Even the graffiti was stale. Mothers crocheting homosexuals. Pinches making hormones.

Back in the lobby, I settled inside a clump of old women—mostly black—with shopping bags for luggage. And I hadn't brought along a book. Not even paper and pen for Greyhound poetry.

I had surrendered to interminable boredom when I walked a street angel: part road warrior, party Billy Bronco. Long auburn hair trained out of black eyes. A face dominated by its scaffolding: clean bones forming a geometry for creation on the fifth day. Dressed in crisp, creased denim—the jacket's sleeves and vest studded, half-inch by half-inch, and the belt the same. He seemed oblivious to the dreariness around him. He walked easy in his clothes, his stride punctuated by the sway of his luggage—a vinyl bag shaped like a saddle, with buckles on the bottom and a plastic horn on top.

I slid from a sea of shopping bags and Pampers. I stood in line with the angel of Fiery Gap, Tennessee, for that was where he asked to go. One way. "An' I wan' a smokin' seat," he said.

"This is not the Concorde," she said.

"It ain't no Honda neither," he said.

I forgot my excuse for being in line. I followed the angel, my nose aimed toward the mane switching over his shoulders.

"Better get in line early," I told him when he stopped in NO SMOKING to light up an unfiltered Camel. "The back of the bus."

"Wisht my Harley wun't broke down," he said. His fingers lipped the front pocket of his jeans. His hands were calloused and torn, but the nails were clean, their moons polished. "'Ese god-dam local buses take forever." He shook his mane again, for the time we'd have to suffer.

"I've got two flasks of bourbon," I said. "If push comes to shove."

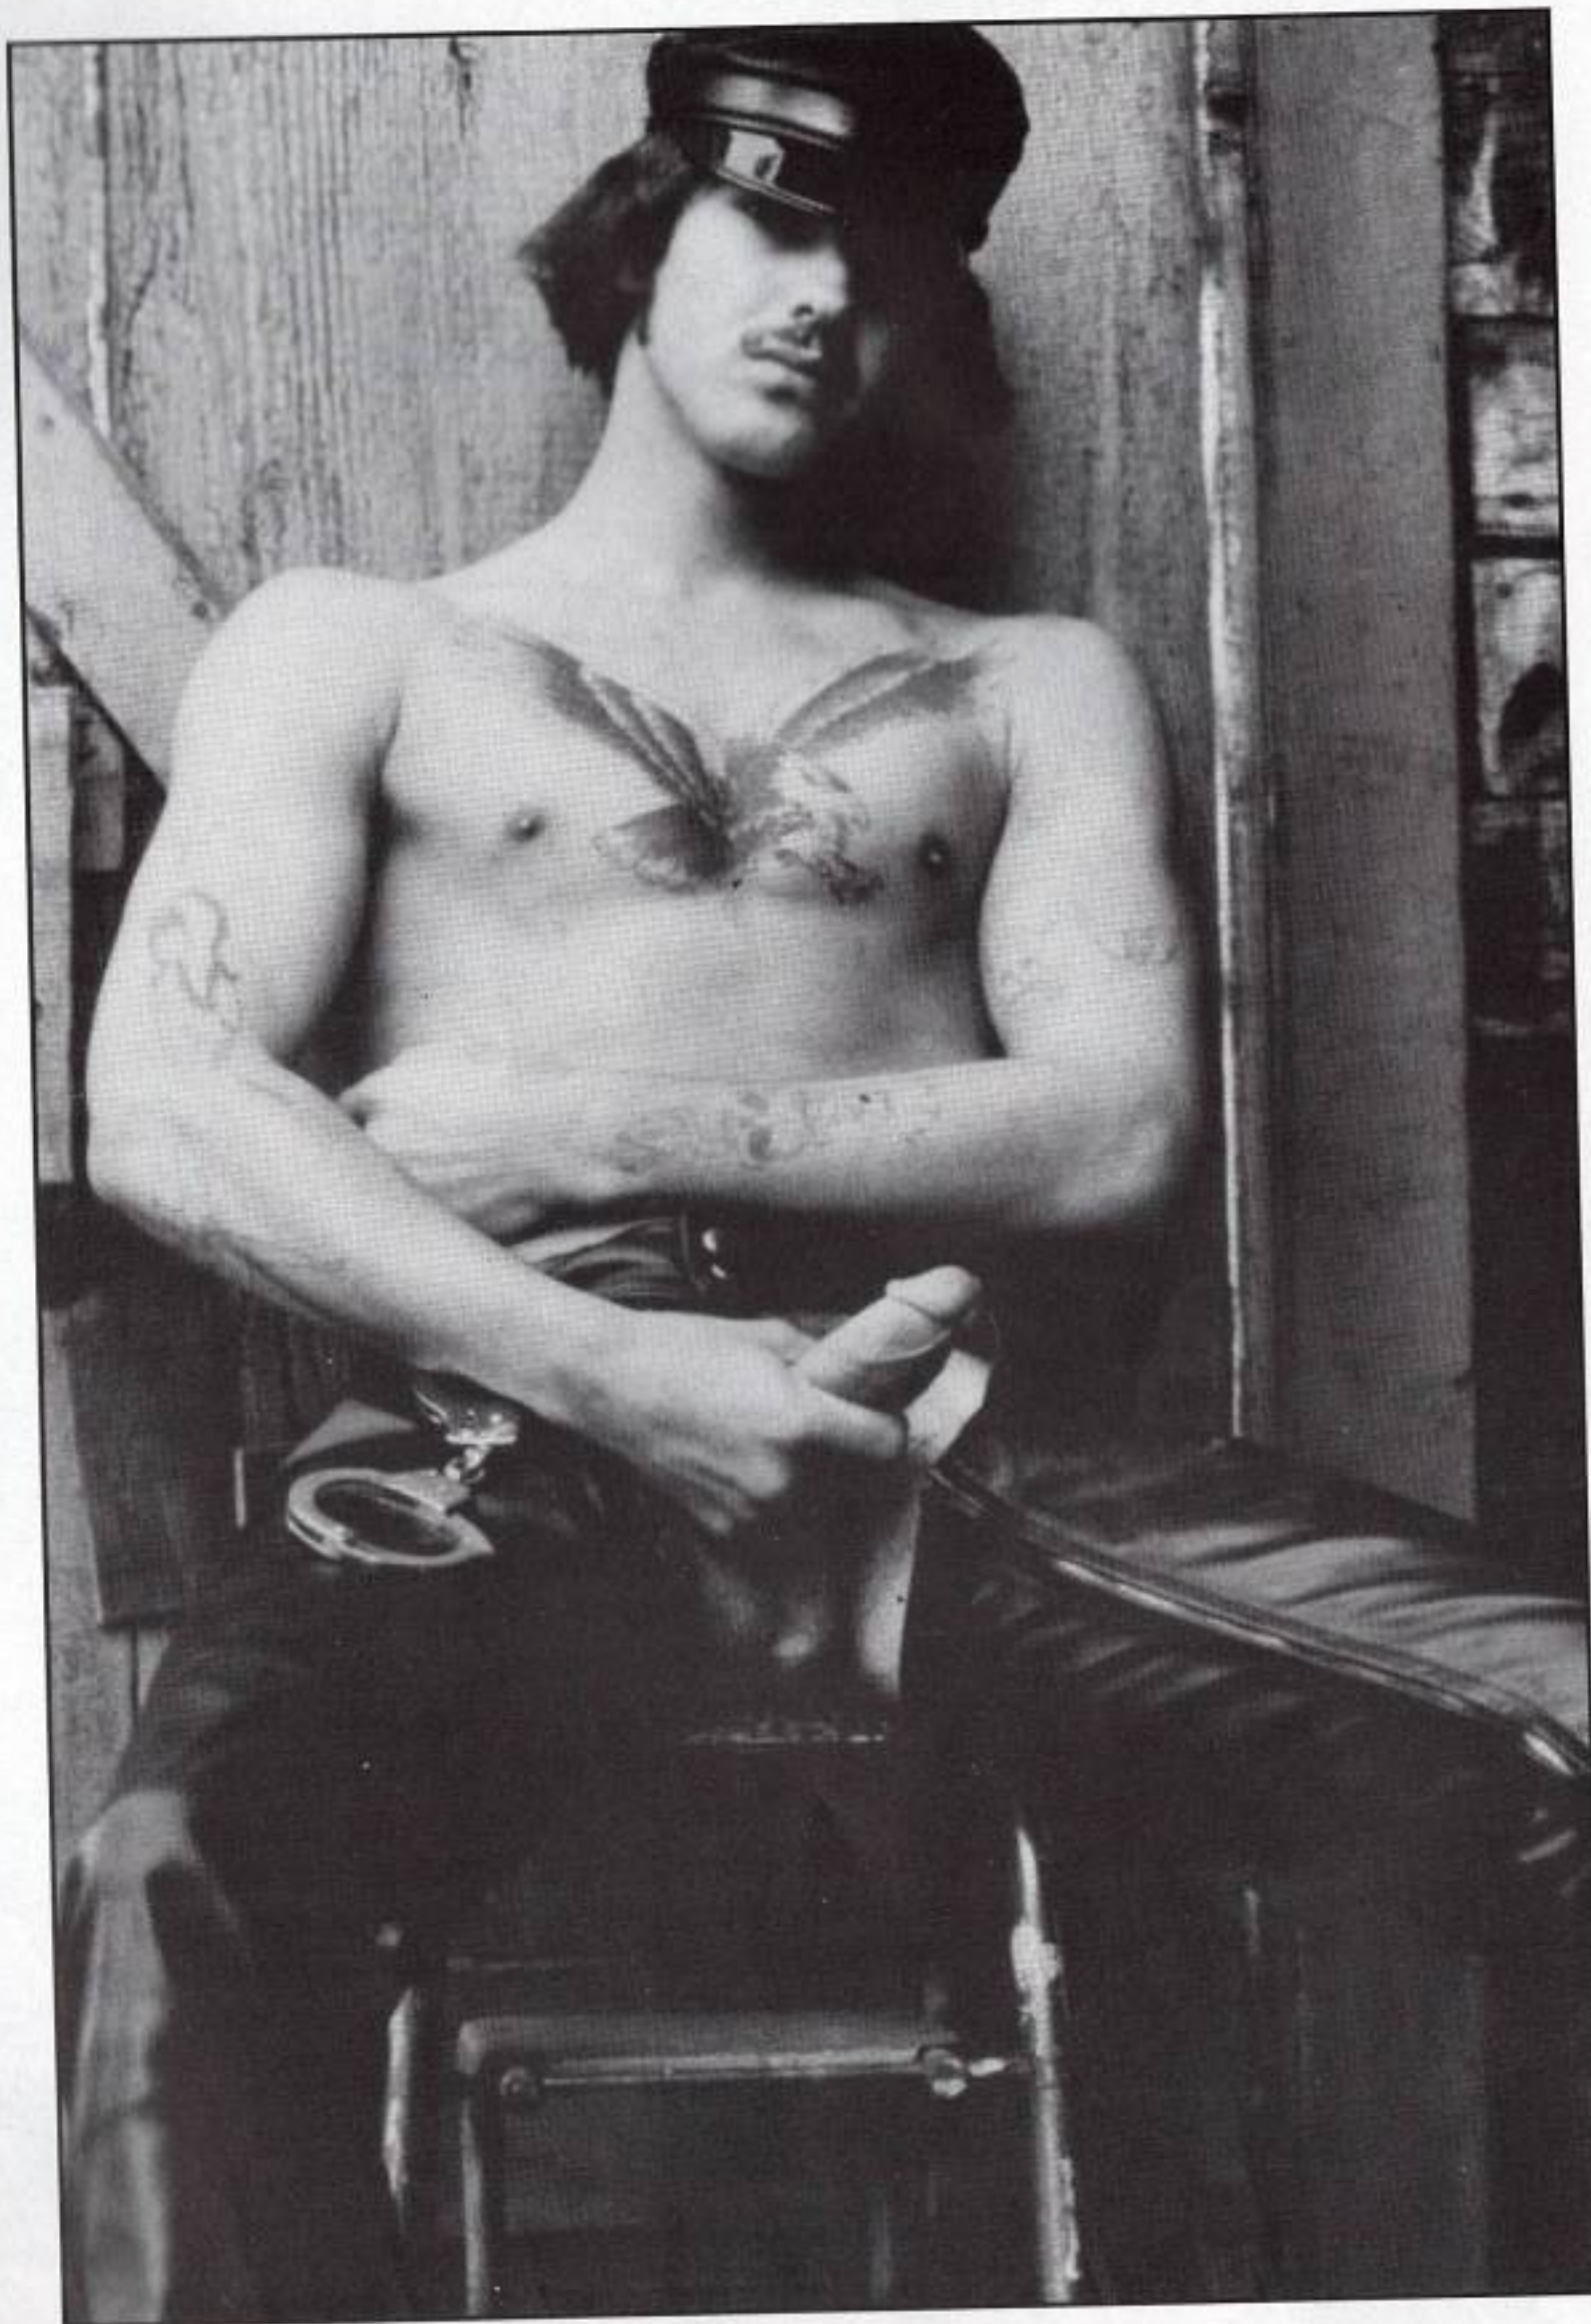

"Hell, I'm gonna sit near you," he said. He gave the flutter of a wink and lifted his head to make his rich hair shimmer.

We lolled in line so that we would be sure of the smoking section. I looked after his "saddle" while he went to the john—a trip I wanted to attend. I noticed the luggage was torn and a cord, under the vinyl, was helping to hold things together.

The bus was not crowded—six mamas/granmas and thirteen babies. Doyle Barton (the name he gave, though the saddle had JMK on it) took the next-to-last seat on the right. The saddle he put in the last. (He winked to show we might have three, if we played our cards right.) I sat directly across from him, the restroom my pillow.

Cleveland to Columbus was all talk—mostly from him. He showed me photos of his Harley, most without him. He said he'd been trimming cardboard boxes as they came off the day shift line.

"How about night time?" I asked.

He cupped his groin and grinned.

"Why you goin' back?" I said, my talk lapsing into its origins.

"Granny, she said come on home, an' I might get me a job as a satellite."

He meant installing satellite dishes—a new luxury for the mountain poor.

I found out he was nineteen and that he'd been North, off and on, since he was 15. "Ain't no action in Fiery Gap," he said and pushed his crotch down with the palm of a hand. His sprawl didn't show great concern for the "career" change. His legs played accordion and he scratched the lean belly under his black T-shirt.

"Whad you do?" he asked.

I couldn't say Ph.D. candidate in comparative lit. "Work for the State," I lied.

"Buildin' roads?"

"Pushin' paper," I said.

I pretended to nap while I watched him coddle his balls and cock and knife a hand down his Levis to rearrange what was growing there.

We had a ten-minute rest in Columbus.

"Gotta bleed my lizard," he said.

I followed him to the john. Stood one urinal away.

He pulled out a long cock covered in latex.

For my stare, he said, "Always ready. Safe sex. An' I make me some money sometime. Alley fucks. You know?"

I didn't, but...

He rolled the white rubber off. Put it in the pocket of his T-shirt. He showed a dick obviously worn—its uncut crown and rings reddened, the stem tinged California blue from the long use of cock rings. But how beautiful it blossomed as he kneaded it into half-erection.

Then out came the pierced balls, in double dangle, little baby motorcycles hanging from them.

I had read about balls as ears and sacs as lobes, but I had never seen any up front and personal.

Without hands as help, be bunched and lined the little cycles up and made them shimmy.

"Better than a tractor pull," I said.

He yanked his black T-shirt past tits to show two more cycles, in steady dive toward the navel.

"Harleys hangin' from nipples," I said. "Reckon what will be next?"

He pretended not to look at my cock—swollen almost to shooting. But behind the veil his long hair made, I could see the white of an eyeball.

My cock was too hard for pissing. I took the pre-cum oil from its lips and greased the head. Made suction noises, skin on muscle.

Doyle held his piss behind his foreskin—to make a huge knob, the way mountain boys do in dorking. Then he let it out in long wild surges. He didn't mind that his hands took some of the water.

He let me fondle wet cock and balls until the door burst open and I jumped two urinals away.

Doyle wasn't flustered. He retrieved his Trojan. Rolled the rubber back out, the latex playing with the foreskin, in wrinkles and tucks.

The intruder couldn't piss. He pretended he had and left in a hurry.

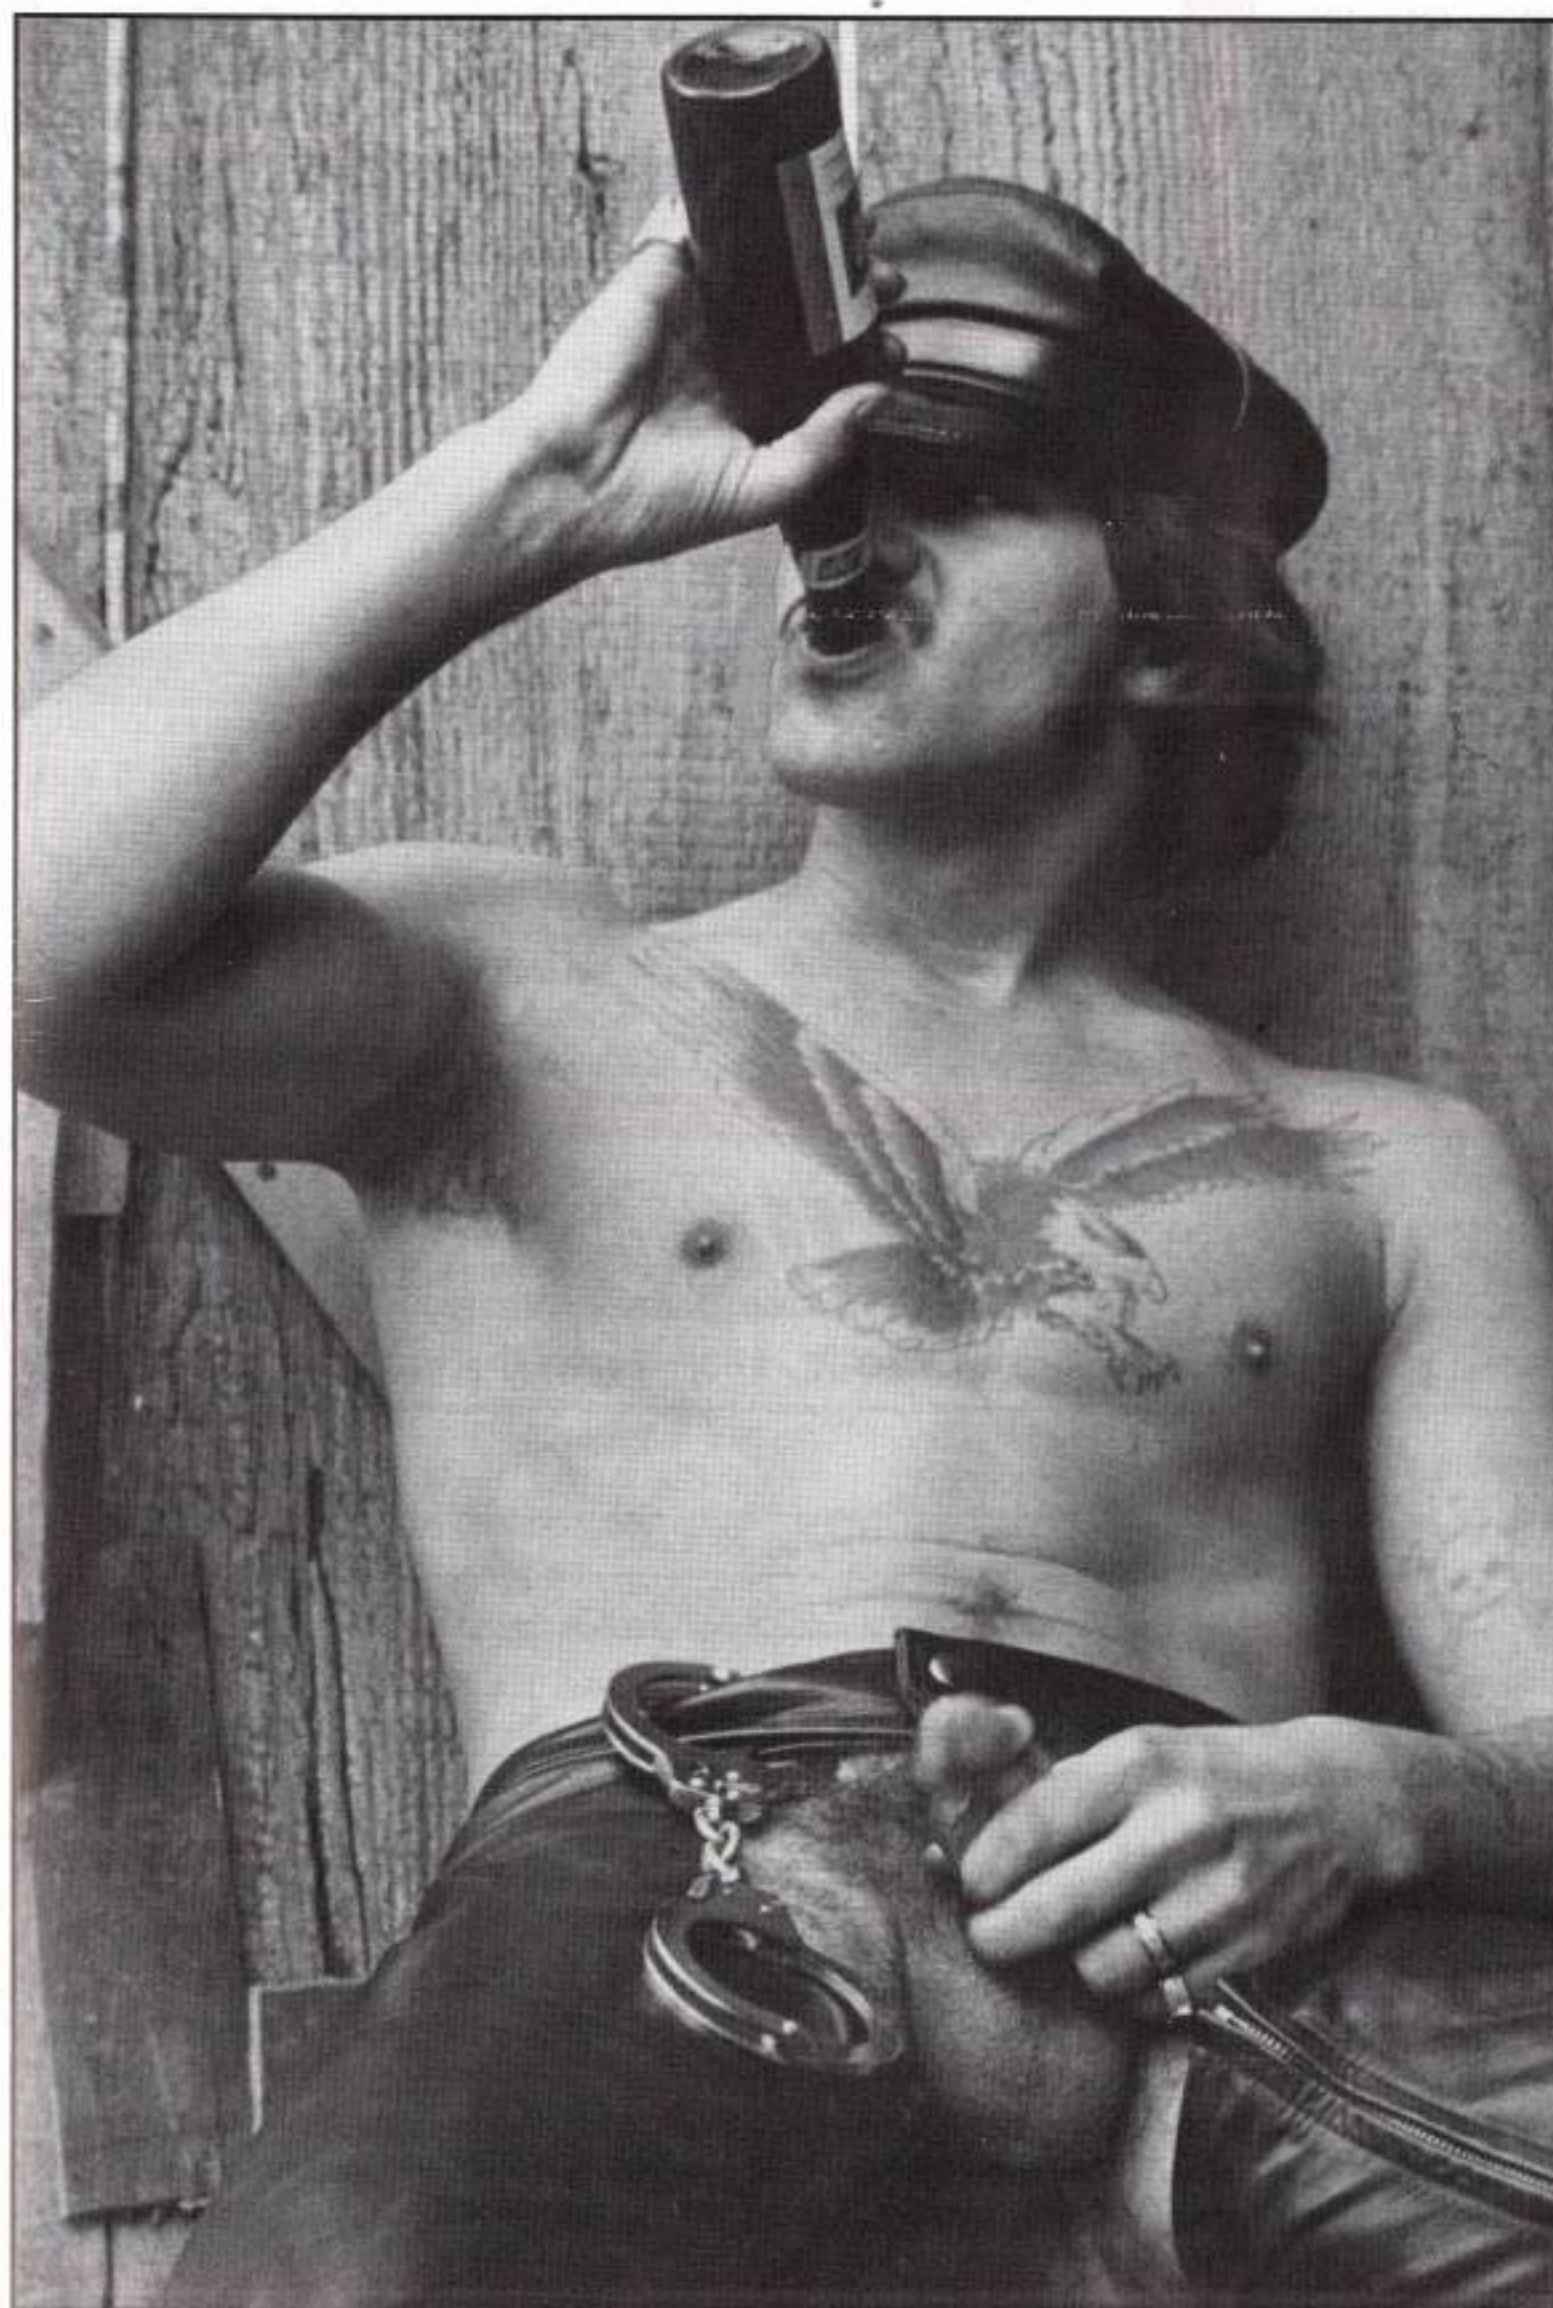

"Let me help," I said to Doyle. My hand trembled as it measured the nine-inch cock, the rubber slipping over it. I tickled the balls, their decorations.

"Never seen nothin' like this," I said.

"Hell, I'm one of a kind," he said and smiled into the half-moons of urinals. The smile told his only flaw—the teeth four back were blackened in decay.

A few more passengers got on in Columbus, but we still had the three seats surrounding the john. I passed one of my flasks over to Doyle, and we started drinking, with diesel-air as a chaser.

"Not as good as tequila," he said,

but he drank thick.

I didn't say it was generic—all a grad student could afford.

After his third drink, he pulled out his dick—now soft—and poured a little bourbon onto his balls. "Some for Lonzo and Oscar," he said and passed back the flask.

He closed in his legs and motioned for me to come play. I left my dufflebag in my seat. Pulled my windbreaker off and joined him.

The jacket I used to cover our laps—a trick I'd often used on the Grey Bitch.

My left hand played with his dosing dick—with the smooth thighs around it. Once the dick was almost blued into hardness, he took a double cockring from his jacket and put it on. "Last a long time," he said. "I don't want to cum quick."

"Keep an eye out for the driver," I said.

My head fell to his lap. I licked the halo around his cock. Licked the sweat that came from long walking. The bourbon that perfumed Lonzo and Oscar.

My lips suctioned on his inner thighs. My teeth nibbled the sponge of his shaft into fullness.

But when he'd get close, he'd pull my head up by my chin, his eyes aimed directly ahead at the driver in the rear-view mirror.

He found my cock without looking down. He seemed surprised about its weight, its girth. He brailed the seams of my balls. Fingered deep for a hairless ass.

When his hand came up for a rest, I ran the blade of mine into his ass crack—more hair, really, than crack. He rose enough to give me room to separate the underbrush and find his hot hole.

"Pull your Levis down," I whispered.

He wouldn't for fear of losing his creases.

I had to be satisfied with half a trembling finger singed in his juicy fire. Then cheap bourbon to cool me down.

We pulled off the Interstate at Lexington, Kentucky. Twenty minutes for dinner in a depot that had one machine for candy, one for drinks. And neither working.

I guided Doyle to the john and a booth for us. There we kissed for the first time, his mouth a cave of hot rocks and moving walls. Of bourbon and the hint of cloves.

"Swallow my tonsils," he said.

I tried, but his pretty jaws—a trap—closed in on me past molars.

We pulled his tight boots off. No socks and feet dyed brown. He peeled off the Levis which he hung over the wall of our booth. He tried to smooth them out.

He bent over and spread the tiny ass that held a rain forest of hair.

I thought fuck and fumbled for a condom, but he guided my hand back to what it had been doing on the bus. From a studded pocket, he got a tiny tube of KY. He slickened my right hand. I let two fingers play. More, as he made little circular motions and moaned some song I'd never heard. My hand was halfway home when the announcer gave an early call for our bus. The dinner stop had been a mistake.

I gently pulled out and bent to nibble the mounds of butt—goosebumped under the hair.

I shot four hot prongs onto the john wall.

He looked at me as if I'd two-timed him.

"Hell, I can come again," I told him. I hurried to the bus to make it wait seven minutes for him to make his entrance, with four cold Dr. Peppers for chasers.

"Like a limestone cowboy," a little girl sang.

Darkness was coming on, so we had more room to drink and play. That is, when the mamas and granmas were not pulling babies to and from the restroom. I sucked him, still with his rubber on. "In case I cum," he said. I bathed the bridge between his balls and butt. Left hickies on his thighs. He loved it all, but he would not shoot. When no lights were on, he let me finger-fuck his forest, yet he still wouldn't risk wrinkles to his pants. Wouldn't let me fuck him unless he could get buck-naked.

"The bus john?" I pleaded.

"Worse than here," he said and recupped his balls in my hand.

In London, Kentucky, we got a new driver, unlike any other I'd ever seen. Except for his uniform, he could have just come off the field from wide-receiving. Dark. Furball, if the war of hair on his hands told true. A tapered body. A butt still squirming its power in dimples. J.O. Hancock read the little bar he put in the slot marked OPERATOR.

He repunched the tickets—lingering over Doyle and me and two hard-ons poking at a windbreaker. His dick—mighty in outline—was close enough for me to snuggle, had I been brave enough.

"Fiery Gap," he said and looked at me. I pointed at Doyle.

"Alana," he said to Doyle who pointed back.

With puncher still in hand, he flicked his dick ever so slightly and gave what I thought was a wink.

A few miles down the road, we had a rest stop. In Corbin, Kentucky. The driver's eyes had traced our every movement, so I followed him into the john.

I leaned to get a good look at his dick—the skin easing back from a clean head to a long shaft. His balls hung taut and ready.

I squeezed blood to my dick to show it equalled his. He took half of my urinal so I could play with his thumper. Lick its veins and seams.

"Your buddy like cock?" he asked.

"He likes it all," I said. "Fucker's got motorcycle earrings on his balls and tits."

The head of his dick danced on its own.

"You like to lunch around in that hair pie?" I asked.

He looked a little strange, so I added, "Most hair I ever saw hangin' from a man."

He let me skin the head back. Curtain it. Back. Curtain. I knelt again to take the knob. "Tastes like copper," I said. "Tastes like carbide." I sloshed to get both.

He pushed his throbbing cock down my throat. Then took it away just as quickly. "Hell, you'd talk a man into cummin'," he said. But he winked when he zipped up. Let me breathe on his bulge through wool.

"Reckon the three of us could get together?" he asked.

"You find the excuse," I said. "I'll handle the meat."

Doyle was sleeping—or passed out. "The driver," I whispered into his ear, reddened from my sucking. "He's gonna pretend a breakdown. So the three of us can carry on in the bushes."

"Does he have any tequila?" Doyle asked, rubbing his crotch.

"No, but he's got plumbin' you're gonna like."

The driver made the bus jerk. He changed gears when there was no rise. After Barbourville, he warned that something was wrong.

I hurried Doyle into the play. "We're gonna go to th'woods. A three-way suck-fuck."

Two swigs on the last of the bourbon and he was fumbling for his saddle. More rubbers, I thought, as I made sure I had my own.

The driver forced the bus into gasp.

"This thing's gonna fall to pieces," said a granma just as the driver pulled off the road, at the Tennessee line.

Without a word, he walked out and lifted the tail-door. He poked around and came back inside to say, "Brake fluid, and to go on would be suicide."

"Come here, youngens," said the granny of four.

"Gonna go walk find some," the driver said.

"I'll go with ye," I said.

"Hell, I'm just a whoop from home," Doyle said, his legs unsure as I wedged him and his saddle out of the bus.

"Be back soon's possible," the drive said. "You all just lay back and nap." He assured some mama the bus wouldn't catch fire. Wouldn't roll over.

Doyle and I followed him into bushes and down a path to a river. A curve of limestone and we were in moonlight, seemingly far from the crooked road above.

"Good place to fuck," the driver said. "Good time." He pulled out his dick, as hard as it had been at the urinals.

Doyle fell to his knees—dulling the crease in his Levis. He gobbled. Tried to swallow the shaft—too much, too soon, even for an expert. He gagged to the side of his mouth and then started to work on the nuts that football had lifted into steady attention. (Valencias, Doyle called them.)

I knelt with Doyle. We took turns on the balls. On the skinned head of the cock. On the thick layers of hair.

The driver pulled Doyle's head around. Doyle forgot some of his fear to nose-fuck the ass. The driver lifted one leg—for room. "Sniff that pelt," he said. "Scatter that cum hair."

I gaped at and licked the swollen head of the driver's dick and listened to Doyle play juice hard on butt muscles.

I rose to rub Doyle's spit into a glaze on ass cheeks. An oil on sphincter. Up a shocked hole.

The driver rolled a rubber on while Doyle fumbled for something in his saddlebag. I sniffed the driver's balls—musty, like vinegar. I breathed his now slick crack. Prepared my own dick with a new condom.

"Let's get naked," Hancock said.

I was immediately out of my clothes and in shallow water. I had to help Doyle with his boots and Levis.

Hancock played with the ball motorcycles. Like jiggling dice. Those on the tits he swallowed—making sure to pull just enough for pleasure.

Doyle reached in back to absorb the driver's dick in one ass swallow. To hunch backwards in knee-deep water for Hancock to drive home the meat. Doyle was dangling something across his shoulders—a strap for the driver to pull as he hunched, piled, and hammered toward heaven. I realized that the straps had metal connectors to the earrings on Doyle's nuts and tits. A harness which the fucker pulled as his cock pounded.

"Bite my shoulder," Doyle said, his little butt swirling for a dick too big for it.

"Bite my neck," he said.

The driver pulled whoa and gee and haw into the harness. He slurped words into Doyle's collarbones—love, fuck, cantaloupe, tight pussy.

He dropped the straps to fumble for the bridge between my ass and cock. He threw his face back for my tongue to fuck it. To pull all the diesel from his nose, mouth, ears. Then I gave his football ass its treat, in hunches that matched his to Doyle.

"Tell me giddy-up," Doyle said. "Tell me you goin' to do this t'me ever'day."

J.O. pounded home what had to be his wad, but he promised nothing to Doyle.

I held onto the driver's muscled ribs. Gurgled into his shoulder. Then I shot a load that burned all the way to balls.

We breathed down. Unknotted.

Doyle still hadn't cum. He was half-heartedly pulling at his dick.

The driver peeled off his rubber which Doyle grabbed and tied into a bow.

The driver put on his pants, hanging from a sycamore. He knifed his shirt into them. "Gotta hurry, boys," he said.

Doyle pulled at his harness. "Hell, I ain't cum," he said.

I jumped into my clothes.

Doyle tucked back into his but the rubber J.O. had spent into him.

"What th'fuckin' hell?" I asked.

"I'm gonna be in Fiery Gap a long time," he said. "Gonna need every memory I can get." He picked up the rubber with my cum in it. Tied it up for the same purpose.

"You sure you don't want a ride?" the driver said.

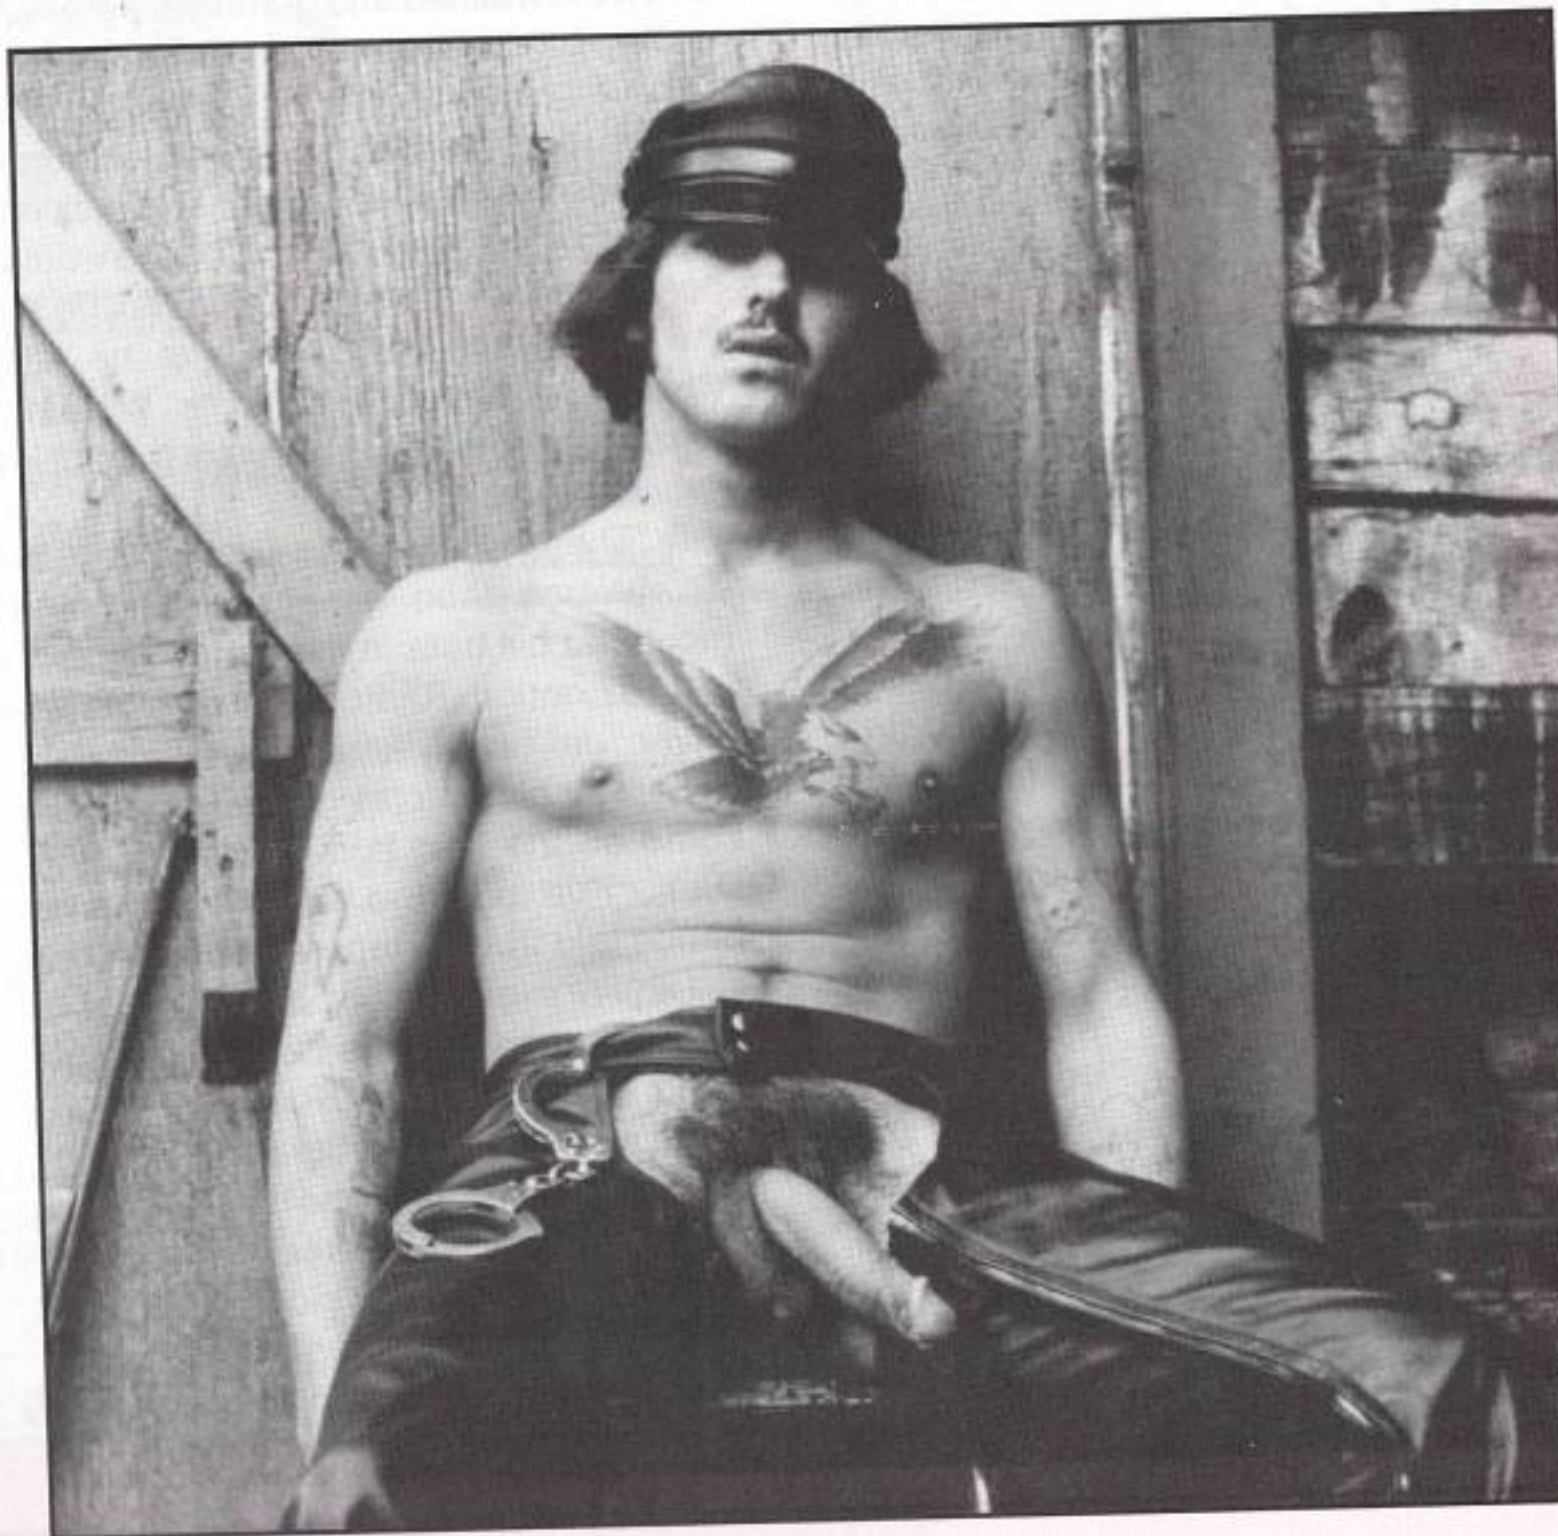

"This is where I'm from," Doyle said. "I used to play here as a boy."

Half-way up the hill, I asked Hancock if he was going to see Doyle again. Give him something to look forward to.

"Hell, I live in Dayton," he said. "I'm just a substitute for this run."

We looked down at a child sloshing now in deeper water.

He might have been waving at us with both hands. Or trying to grab ghosts before daylight chased them away. ■

SANTA'S SURPRISE

By Jack Fertig
Illustrated by Thomas Nasty

'Twas the perfect time to make a wish. The moon was full and the aurora borealis was flaming across the long darkened sky of the arctic night. All Santa needed was the magic pixie dust that he kept hidden underneath his fur-lined jockstraps.

He hurried to his room and dug through his special treasure chest. He dug deep through its contents, underneath the soiled undies surreptitiously taken from the homes of bad little boys, past the exquisitely soiled pants legs saved from hours of department store work, beneath the violet wand that made Rudolph's nose glow bright red. He looked for the magic dust that would make his dream come true. But it wasn't there.

Just as he began to wonder who could have taken the long ivory box and its magickal contents he heard an incriminating noise from the elves' workshop.

Santa rushed down to the workroom as fast as he could and saw the fey little men carrying on for fucking filth! The horny little elves had been creating toys that would never fit into little Janey's stocking, but instead they were fucking and sucking and putting clamps on their tits and slapping each others' round little butts till their cheeks were all rosy and ready to be fucked with their humongous new creations.

Santa was in outrage! "What the hell are you little perverts doing?!?! Who taught you to carry on like this and where are the fucking G.I. Joe dolls?"

"Mikey showed us how to do this," hollered one cheery little gnome whose ass was being plowed by another. "And how did you guess he was fucking the G.I. Joe dolls?"

Santa stomped through the orgy while eager little tongues reached out toward his boots. Soon he saw where the toy soldiers were being outfitted with elastic sphincters and other anatomical corrections.

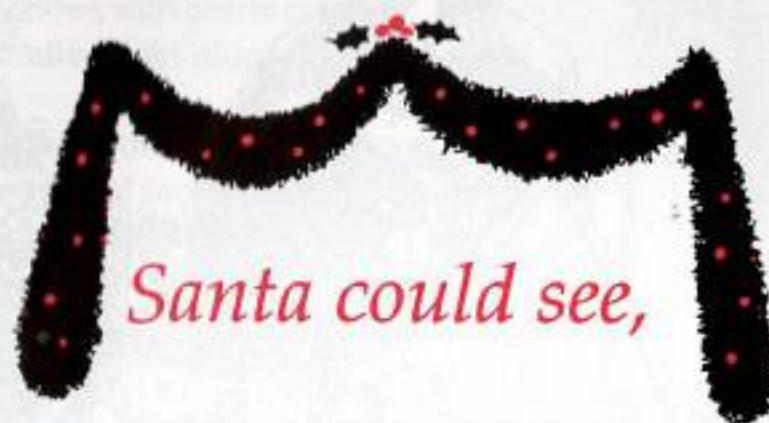

"JUST WHAT THE FUCK IS GOING ON HERE?"

"You answered your own question, Snowball," replied the leader of the rebellion. Mikey gave a shrill whistle and a dozen naked elves were on top of Santa in an orgy of motion. Several of the brownies were tying his hands back while another was jumping onto his face and fucking it with an unnaturally huge dick. At the same time, others were snipping Santa's outfit into red shreds and peeling it off him.

"All the guys were complaining," Mikey explained, "For all the horny little dudes we got crammed together in this sweatshop, none of us had anything more than Munchkin meat. I finally got tired of hearing 'em whine and snivel that they wanted something solid to sit on, so I swiped your pixie dust and wished this up!"

And the dwarf lifted himself from the waist-high pile of G.I. Joe dolls and waved

Santa could see,

all around him,

elves' cocks

growing larger

and larger, while

a six-foot dick in the face of the bound and naked St. Nick.

"And the best part of it is that this condition is sexually transmissible. Whenever I unload my pixilated prong into one of the guys his dick starts to grow just as big."

He'd already been having a time of it, Santa could see, 'cause all around him he saw elves' cocks growing larger and larger. While nimble hands were securing his bonds, fastening his ankles to his wrists, little men were whipping him with ever-larger dicks. Finally they rolled him onto his back and attached a hoist hook to the united extremities. They pulleyed him up to just a foot off the ground, dangling like a low hung pinata.

The fat old sockstuffer had never been humiliated like this, and even though he screamed and shouted, he secretly loved it. The elves were furiously biting into his whitefurred thighs and stiff pixie pricks rising taller than their owners were battering the broad hairy ass now protruding to various points south. One little fucker, trying out his new toysoldier, made it stand at attention and rammed it into Santa's mouth. The old man gagged as he was getting his face stuffed, but the elf just grabbed the big furry teats that were squeezed up towards the knotted knees and rode the famous beard while the two spun together in receipt of handslaps and dickwhips coming from the fey assemblage.

Several others were off to the side "fluffing" their hero whose monstrous north pole was now ready for action. Knowing what would happen next, the elves started chanting, "MIKEY! MIKEY! MIKEY! MIKEY!" Even immobilized and blinded (elven thighs still gripping Santa's face while rosy buttcheeks were thrusting and humping, pumping a gigantic fairy wand into his gurgling throat) Santa shuddered, knowing as we all must by now that Mikey was about to slide his huge member up the glacial chasm of Santa's ass.

All the elves spit on the giant dick, and took turns rubbing it. Mike was held by two comrades while a third was buttfucking him. In unison they approached the suspended saint and pried open the hole. But Mikey's schwanz was just too much. So the assembled elves continued salivating and licking and smearing spit all over Mikey's rod while two more fingered and played open Santa's big white hairy asshole. Tiny little fingers, more and more, sliding in and out, opening him up, became tiny little fists sliding in further and further, one and two, and four. The old man couldn't stand it, and if he hadn't already been impaled at the other end he would have screamed for mercy.

But it wouldn't have done any good even if he could dislodge the candy cane being rammed down his throat. His ass was as ready as it would ever be; Mikey was ready and then some. The pre-cum that dribbled from his gargantuan gut-plunger was enough to fill a holiday punchbowl.

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!!
FUCK SANTA!!! FUCK SANTA!!!!"

And amid the cacophony Mikey started doing just that. His trio of helpers steadied him as two elves on either side of Santa pulled hi buttcheeks apart to facilitate the buggery.

"If you can squeeze that fat old carcass down all those skinny little chimneys then I can certainly slide this yule log into your hearth!"

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!! FUCK SANTA!!! FUCK SANTA!!!!" The chant continued as elven hands grabbed St. Nick and swung him back and forth onto the probing, prodding pole. Back and again, sliding onto more and more of the little man's big cock. As Mikey directed them they continued spitting and licking on the still-exposed shaft, lubing it up for Santa to take it all.

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!! Fucksanta!!! Fucksanta!!!!" Some of them wondered where it all went, but every fucking inch of Mikey's mammoth meat found its way up Santa's chimney. The brownie on Santa's face -- so excited at the sight of it that he couldn't hold back any longer -- shot his load into the old man's gullet. The explosion of his newly-enlarged member was so forceful that he lost his grip and fell off the no-longer cherry nose.

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!! FUCK SANTA!!! FUCK SANTA!!!!" The elves laughed with glee as they heard their victim take up the chant. And to answer their taskmaster's new plea, they grabbed him and swung his suspended body back and forth on the kingsized dong. More elves backed up Mikey as the great white male swung like a pendulum against the harpoon.

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!! FUCK SANTA!!! FUCK SANTA!!!!" In unison they cried and laughed and diddled each other and pounded the old man with their dicks while he led the chant. One elf jumped on and lodged his rod between the great fat furry tits making a deep valley of thick white hair for his newly enlarged fuckpole to dig into. Another jumped onto Santa's face, which was more eagerly receptive this time, and as he fucked the ho-ho-ho out of that throat he buried his face into the fuzzy little cheeks of the dwarf fucking Santa's tits.

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!! FUCK SANTA!!! FUCK SANTA!!!!"

With the added weight and momentum of the new riders, the body swung faster and harder onto the six-foot schlong which was now throbbing and twitching with such ferocity that Mikey would have lost his footing had he not been firmly rooted by the other elves gripping his feet, licking his balls, fucking his ass and otherwise crowding in on the action.

"FUCK SANTA! FUCK SANTA!! Fucksanta!!! Fucksanta!!!!" Mikey couldn't hold back any longer and shot with such ferocity that the freehanging body flew away and knocked the two little riders right off. But they came while being dislodged at just the right moment -- you could see the white jets of Christmas cheer streaming across the toyroom.

At once all the elves released floods of cum from their magnified glands. The gush of jism was unlike anything ever seen and they all stood up to their waists in the sticky white slime...

And all the toys were ruined.

So this year, cocksucker, you'll have to find some other jolly pixie to stuff your stocking. With an assful of Mikey's magic cum, Santa's dick is now too big to get into the Sleigh. Mikey's also just fucked the reindeer, so now their dicks are too big to get off the ground. And next year when you sit on Santa's lap, you better not shout and you better not cry...

But you may not be able to help yourself.

From Ancient Bondage to Modern Flirtations

by Joseph W. Bean

Ancient Bondage. Everyone has heard of jiu-jitsu, the Japanese art of weaponless self defense. Now it's time to get to know hojo-jitsu, the ancient samurai art of "tying subdued captives with cords and ropes" made of silk and cotton. Hojo-jitsu is, in effect, an elegantly simple system of bondage.

The details of this beautiful medieval art were recorded on scrolls in the 16th Century, but in order to protect the secrets of families and masters, the scrolls were peppered with intentional errors that only a living hojo master could correct. Fortunately, with a view to preserving the nearly extinct art, some very modern masters have untangled the ancient secrets and made what they call "living scrolls" on the subject. You'll call them video tapes. More precisely, you'll call them the best and most interesting instructional tapes on bondage ever made. At least I do.

Watching Hojo-Jitsu, volumes one and two, you'll learn to do lots of easy knotting, much of it one-handed; to make a snare, handcuffs, and hobbles in seconds; to wind a tangle-free, portable coil of any rope; and, of course, how to do dozens of specific restraining ties. And you'll do all this learning by watching hot, mature men tying each other up.

The two Hojo tapes and many other samurai arts tapes compose a collection called "The Dragon Video Library." (There is also a book of the Hojo-Jitsu material; not reviewed.) The narration, music tracks, and other production values of these tapes are superior. (Book and video source: Yanagi Dojo, 1436 East 53rd Street, Long Beach, CA 90805 or Dragon Publishing Co., P. O. Cops and Victims. The Training Center, also known as The Academy, is a strange, perhaps even unique place where clients go to be arrested, jailed, interrogated, and otherwise man-handled. We're not talking sex here, we're talking encounters with serious authority, real cops doing something more or less related to what cops do in the rest of the world. Deciding whether you're the kind of man who needs what the Training Center has to sell, has always been a hard thing. Lots of questions come to mind; very few answers were concrete enough to satisfy. Until now.

Now you can look in on actual Training Center action by video.

Cops: The Series, a set of four TC tapes is being released one tape at a time. The first release is part two, "Interrogation," and it's gritty. Mostly shot in black and white with an unmoving "hidden" camera, this tape will slam any genuine jailhouse fetishist against the bars and keep him there. Since the people playing the victim roles here are actual TC customers, producer Chip Weichelt had to use a scrambling mosaic on the faces, but that just adds to the punch, making the tape look like news footage or investigative reporting.

If the tape has a fault it is that the pace is realistic. Things take the time they take to develop, build to their peaks, unwind and end. This will be perfectly okay for the guys who are addicted to the jail bars, uniforms, authorities, and abuse in the scenes, but it may leave others a little cold.

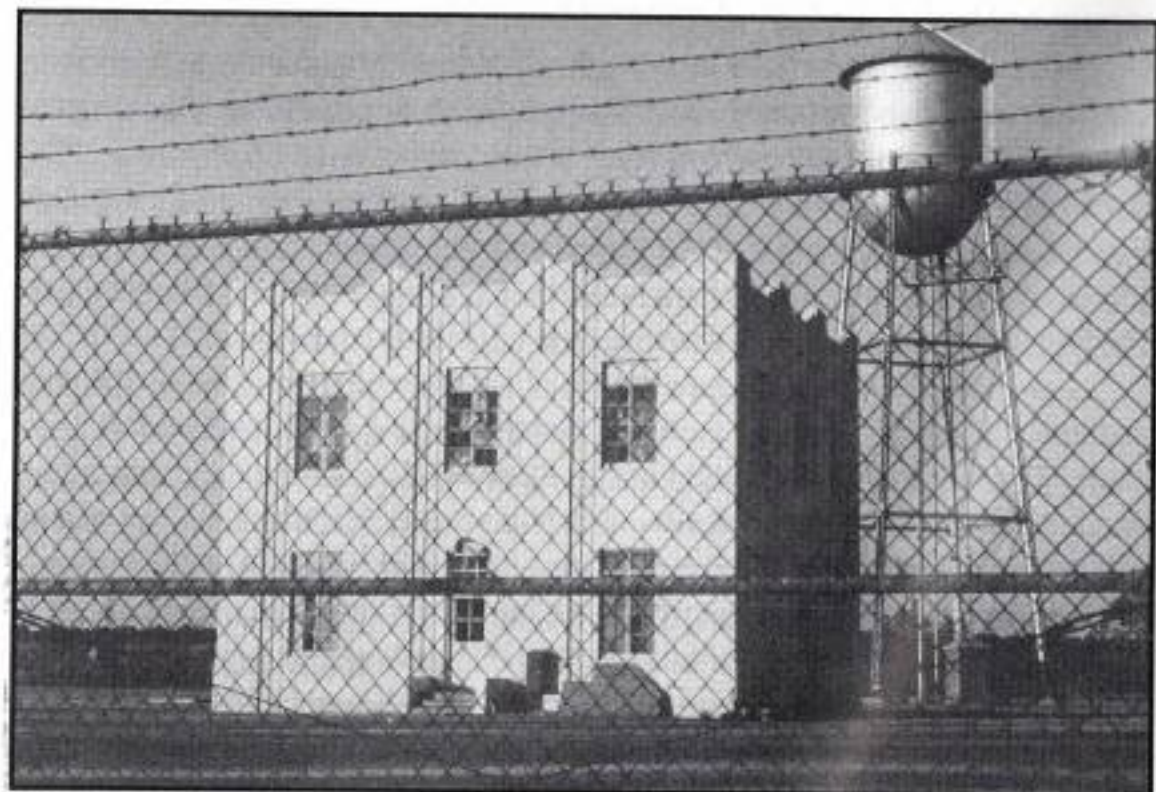

Words on the page can't capture what this tape will do for the people it is made to please, but here are a couple of highlights all the same: First, a creep is being booked; the officer is typing the forms, stopping to smart off to the perp from time to time; then, out of the blue, he stops typing, slugs the creep in the face, and goes back to his typing without missing a beat. In the same booking, the cop asks, "Any scars, marks or tattoos (pause) at this point... no?... We'll see what we can do about that!" Later, under pressure to cooperate, a smart-ass prisoner is being put through his paces for addressing an officer disrespectfully. "Well," he asks, "how do you want me to address you? Do you prefer something other than Sir? How about asshole?" Then, of course, all hell breaks loose.

If real-time prisoners with their rights fully suspended reacting to unchecked authorities sounds hot to you, you are going to love Cops:

The Series. "Interrogation" is available now. Parts one, three and four will be along soon—minus face mosaics, we are told. Those parts will be on the arrest, restraint and control, and execution, respectively (but not respectfully, I'm sure).

Video source: Academy, P. O. Box 163, Washington, MO 63090. Price: $69.95. Part one, The Arrest, will be available in December and will have no face-obscuring mosaics.

More Feet. Even though Drummer recently did a issue featuring feet-men and the feet they love, there continue to be letters asking for more feet. People who want feet, want lots of feet apparently. So, lucky fellas!, you have Bob Jones Productions on your side. We can only do so much on feet before the guys into nipples and pits and balls and rib cages are hopping down our throats (figuratively, one hopes). But Bob Jones can come through for you time after time.

Foot and tickling release number 21 from Jones is now out and available for your fetish, fantasy, instructional, inspirational enjoyment. The tape is called, very aptly, Foot Freaks, and it features a hot combination of BJP favorites—like Nico from Nico's Torture—along with a few new faces. Or should I say new feet. Like most BJ tapes, this one is at least as much about college age guys and tickling as it is about feet, but if you like any of Bob Jones's work, you're going to like this one better. It isn't very different, it just shows that anything that continues to be made and well received will also naturally evolve and improve. It will, anyway, if the producer happens to share the tastes of his audience, and Jones obviously does.

Home Video. You know Lee Baldwin, right? He's been in some of your favorite Christopher Rage stuff, and he's the Money Monster (aka Sex God) in Michael Goodwin's stunning Jacattack. Well, after years of inviting other video makers to exploit his looks and talents, Baldwin is doing it to himself and offering to let you in on it.

Baldwin has made a few home videos you might like. So far, I have seen only one of them. It is very simply titled CBT—meaning, no doubt, Cock and Ball Torture. How can I have no doubt? Easy, I've seen the video. It's very homemade, but that's at least half of what keeps it hot.

Mr. Baldwin has a friend over—no plot, I'm guessing they're friends—and the two of them tease, torment and torture the two cocks and four balls present in this pattern and that for at least an hour. He does his then he does his; then he does his own, then he does his own. Weights, wax, stretching... mouths, hands, tools and toys... whatever it is, whatever it takes, these guys just go for it.

If you're looking for fancy, look elsewhere. If you're looking for someone as hot as Lee Baldwin, look no further.

Video source: Lee Baldwin, 3841 4th Avenue #130, San Diego, CA 92103. Besides CBT, Baldwin is offering Shave, Assplay, and I Was Fucked By A Machine. Each tape is $39.95 plus $4.00 shipping and handling. (California residents, remember the sales tax.) Or, you can get Lee's brochure for $4.00 from the same address.

Two By Tom of Finland. Ever since the Tom of Finland Foundation got rolling in Southern California we've been seeing more Tom art in better editions than ever before. The new releases are among the best yet. At $11.00 each, they may not seem all that affordable. On the other hand, if Tom has been keeping your other hand busy for years—and I know he has—you know you'll get years of pleasure out of these books. So, what's $11.00? About 50 cents a year?

The new books are The Rope and Kake: Tea Room Odyssey. Each book has a complete, no-words, much-art story at the beginning. The illustrated story runs 20 full-page panels in the "Kake" book and 23 in The Rope. Then the remaining pages of each book are filled with material "From Tom's Archives."

The pictures from the archives in both books are from Tom's shimmering perfection/glossy man-meat era. They'll do it for you or you can give up on yourself.

The stories are in more recent, softer focus, looser, and—some would say—hotter styles. The Rope is about three leathermen who capture, tie up, and rape a man out in the woods. They scurry away as a cop approaches, but the cop finds their catch as interesting as they did. After the cop does his thing with the bound "victim," the guys come back to turn the whole affair into a rather jolly five-way. Good stuff!

Kake: Tea Room Odyssey is a daisy chain of fucking, built one man at a time in a public pisser. Leatherman to U.S. sailor, sailor to street-wise kid, kid to ball-capped hunk, hunk to schoolboy, boy to black dandy, dandy to biker... that's the way it goes when men are friendly to each other... in Tom's world.

Book source: If your local bookstores don't carry the Tom books, check with Tom of Finland, P. O. Box 26716, Los Angeles, CA 90026. If you send $5.00, they'll send you their current catalogs.

Bad Boys. Sam Steward—aka Phil Andros, et al—has been putting his remarkable life in print, sometimes straight out, sometimes fictionalized, for a long time. (Actually, with a life like Steward's, fantastic reality and fabulous fictions based on true events blend to a dizzying blur at best!) Now the best-reading years of his unbelievable but true life story are in print in Bad Boys and Tough Tattoos, subtitled "A Social History of the Tattoo with Gangs, Sailors, and Street Corner Punks, 1950-1965."

The Haworth Press very wisely issued a paperback at about the same time they released their hard cover edition—the paper cover is under the Harrington Press imprint. So, book treasuring perverts and quick-read trendists can drink their fill equally at the font (or is that feet?) of the master of the impossible reality.

From Kake: Tea Room Odyssey, by Tom of Finland

From The Rope, by Tom of Finland

During the years covered by this book, Steward was a tattoo artist, having given up the world of the American university system for the one peopled by the gangs, sailors, and street-corner punks of the subtitle. What he discovered about people and the sexual reasons that underlie their actions and behaviors is enthralling, but what he lived, survived, and triumphed over is the real story here.

Bad Boys is a brilliantly executed memoir based on diaries the author kept for Dr. Alfred Kinsey who was interested in everything sexual, including the sexual motivations for being tattooed. But it is more than that. If it were a novel it would be exciting, even wonderful. As it is fact, to write it is the literary equivalent of balancing a score of samurai swords on the tip of your tongue while reciting the Gettysburg Address backwards in clearly enunciated syllables.

If you care at all about people, especially the types who might get tattooed, ask yourself this question: Have I been good to anyone or anything at anytime in the past twenty years? If the answer is yes—even if you have only been good by letting a fly go unsquashed—reward yourself with Bad Boys and Tough Tattoos.

Psycho-Studies. Psychological and legal studies of homosexuality are everywhere these days. Most of these books are not worth the effort it takes to carry them home, much less the cover price. The two mentioned here may be worth the effort. Hell, they may even be worth the price, but I'm losing patience with all of them. How about you?

The books I didn't throw away without mention are of the psychological type—all the legal guides of recent publication SUCK—and both are meant (so they claim on their covers) primarily for people in the helping (so they say) professions. These are The Sexually Unusual: A Guide to Understanding and Helping and Keys to Caring: Assisting your Gay and Lesbian Clients. Both books are leaked to you and me by channels that make it abundantly clear we are meant to notice them and not leave them to the fewer (and therefore less-spending) professionals they pretend to address.

Why bother reading and reviewing such books? Simple! If we don't keep ourselves informed of the matrix the pros suppose we exist in we can't cope with their definitions of us. If we don't know what they are saying to each other about how we live and how we live out our sexuality, we can never catch on to what they are or might be recommending as an "improvement" in our way of being.

The Sexually Unusual (edited by Dennis M. Dailey, another Haworth/Harrington Park book) is actually a relatively sensitive book. It accepts in some of its essays the idea that leather/SM people exist, and that we support each other in a socialized community of needs and fulfillments. It is a humane and reasonable attempt to grasp what sexual difference is, even if its efforts are clumsy by virtue of being the efforts of outsiders. None of the essays in the book stands out as a real masterpiece of understanding, but the ones specifically referring to the leather and SM subculture are non-annoying. That is, the historical perspective contributed by Vern L. Bullough and the pieces on fetishism and sadomasochism by Thomas O. Sargent and Charles Moser (respectively) are not antagonistic to leathermen. In fact, those parts of this book could actually be helpful for newcomers to the leather/SM/fetish scenes. Yes. They might very easily help the still-befuddled novice to find and firmly accept the place in himself that his sexuality has made for him. Whether this will be any help in dealing with the outside world is another matter, a question of courage I would guess.

Keys To Caring (by Robert J. Kus, RN, PhD, from Alyson Publications) is a different matter. This book seems to be very proactive in its avoidance of the existence of gay leathersex. In fact, if gay issues—age and appearance, addiction to sex or drugs or alcohol within this subculture, coping with youth, gay parenting, etc.—interest you, Keys may be useful. Its ignorance of the leather/SM subculture is not necessarily an issue, except when you suddenly feel, as you read along, that you are being carefully selected to be ignored.

All its vast and spiny faults aside, Keys to Caring outstrips at least five dozen other recent books that claim to help either with the way professionals deal with gay people or the ways gay people manage their own lives. If you are able to take advice and process information, excusing the writer for obviously claiming you do not exist, you might find Keys valuable.

Lavender Empire. Once upon a time, in a far away kingdom called New York City, there lived a bunch of queers, perverts, and homosexuals who wanted some official recognition of their existence. They were like me. Probably like you too. But, somehow, they got the idea that something really big ought to happen that meant people not like us knew and accepted their existence... without necessarily approving, of course.

The gays, as they are called in politer circles, campaigned in the ways that such things are done until they convinced the powers that never resist a vote to do something really big: light the Empire State Building in lavender as a recognition of the fact that there are queers—ooops, gays—in the Big Apple.

It happened one night. At 8:01 EDT on June 22, 1990, to be precise. And, if you want a record of the event in the form of a poster, a set of 12 five by seven postcards, or a 6 five by seven greeting cards, you can have it. Three different photographs are available in all three forms. WriteArt Services, 6 West 32 Street, Penthouse, New York, NY 10001-3808 for details. (Warning: If you are unaccustomed to NYC ideas of value, you'll find the prices outrageously high.)

The Fabulous Flirtations. If you have managed not to hear The Flirtations yet, let go. Let it happen. They are Romanovsky and Phillips gone wild. They are all the confusing and indescribable things that Romanovsky and Phillips are, but with five voices where Ron and Paul have only two... and maybe they have better voices to begin with. And, if you haven't noticed Fabulous Flirtations posters around your home town, not to worry, there's a recording available.

The Flirtations are political about being gay and about AIDS issues. They're funny about everything. And, almost as though it were merely an added bonus, they happen to be superb musicians, good enough that singing a capella harmonies is something that seems more natural than courageous with them.

The on stage patter of The Flirtations is famous (remember, we're hearing five guys): "One of us has had the same lover for eight years, one of us is from a family in which the gays outnumber the straights, one of us was in the closet until he was 37, one of us took his boyfriend to the high school prom, one of us coached high school wrestling, one of us wants to carry a child to term, one of us helped start Hispanos Unidos Gays y Lesbianas, one of us has never seen a porno film, one of us was an MP in the U. S. Army, one of us was entrapped, arrested, handcuffed and beaten by the police, one of us has smuggled AIDS drugs into the country, one of us has been arrested for civil disobedience, one of us was fag-bashed with a two-by-four, and two of us have AIDS."

One of the two with AIDS, Michael Callen, is famous for the fact that he is an LTS, a long term survivor of the syndrome. One of the two with AIDS was TJ Myers. He died recently. Missing him, but not letting up, The Flirtations go on singing and speaking and doing workshops.

The Flirtations first recording is available on cassette or CD, no vinyl. It includes some of the songs they have to sing for their fans every time they do a concert anywhere in the country. Except for a few standards like "Why Do Fools Fall in Love?" and "To Know Him Is to Love Him," the titles wouldn't mean much, but I promise that once you hear what The Flirtations can do a capella, you'll be hangin' out waiting for their second recording the way I've been moaning about the need for this first one.

Ask for "The Flirtations" at your local record store, or order directly from The Flirtations, P. O. Box 421 Prince Street Station, New York, NY 10012. Specify Compact disc at $15.00, or cassette at $10.00; shipping and handling is $2.50 either way.

Cumming distractions: New videos from Palm Drive, including a Wes Decker epic; new books from Bill Lee (a Drummer reader favorite) and Greg Strom (a major hunk); perverts in the navy, an erotic artist at rest, and at least one important Catholic who doesn't hate us. ■

(KW:LC-REBEL LEADER CAPTURED)

(ON-LINE WIRE WiO:BO283;IABX;)

(WB) Rebel Leader Hajji Murad Captured
Attn: Foreign Editors

28 APR 1896

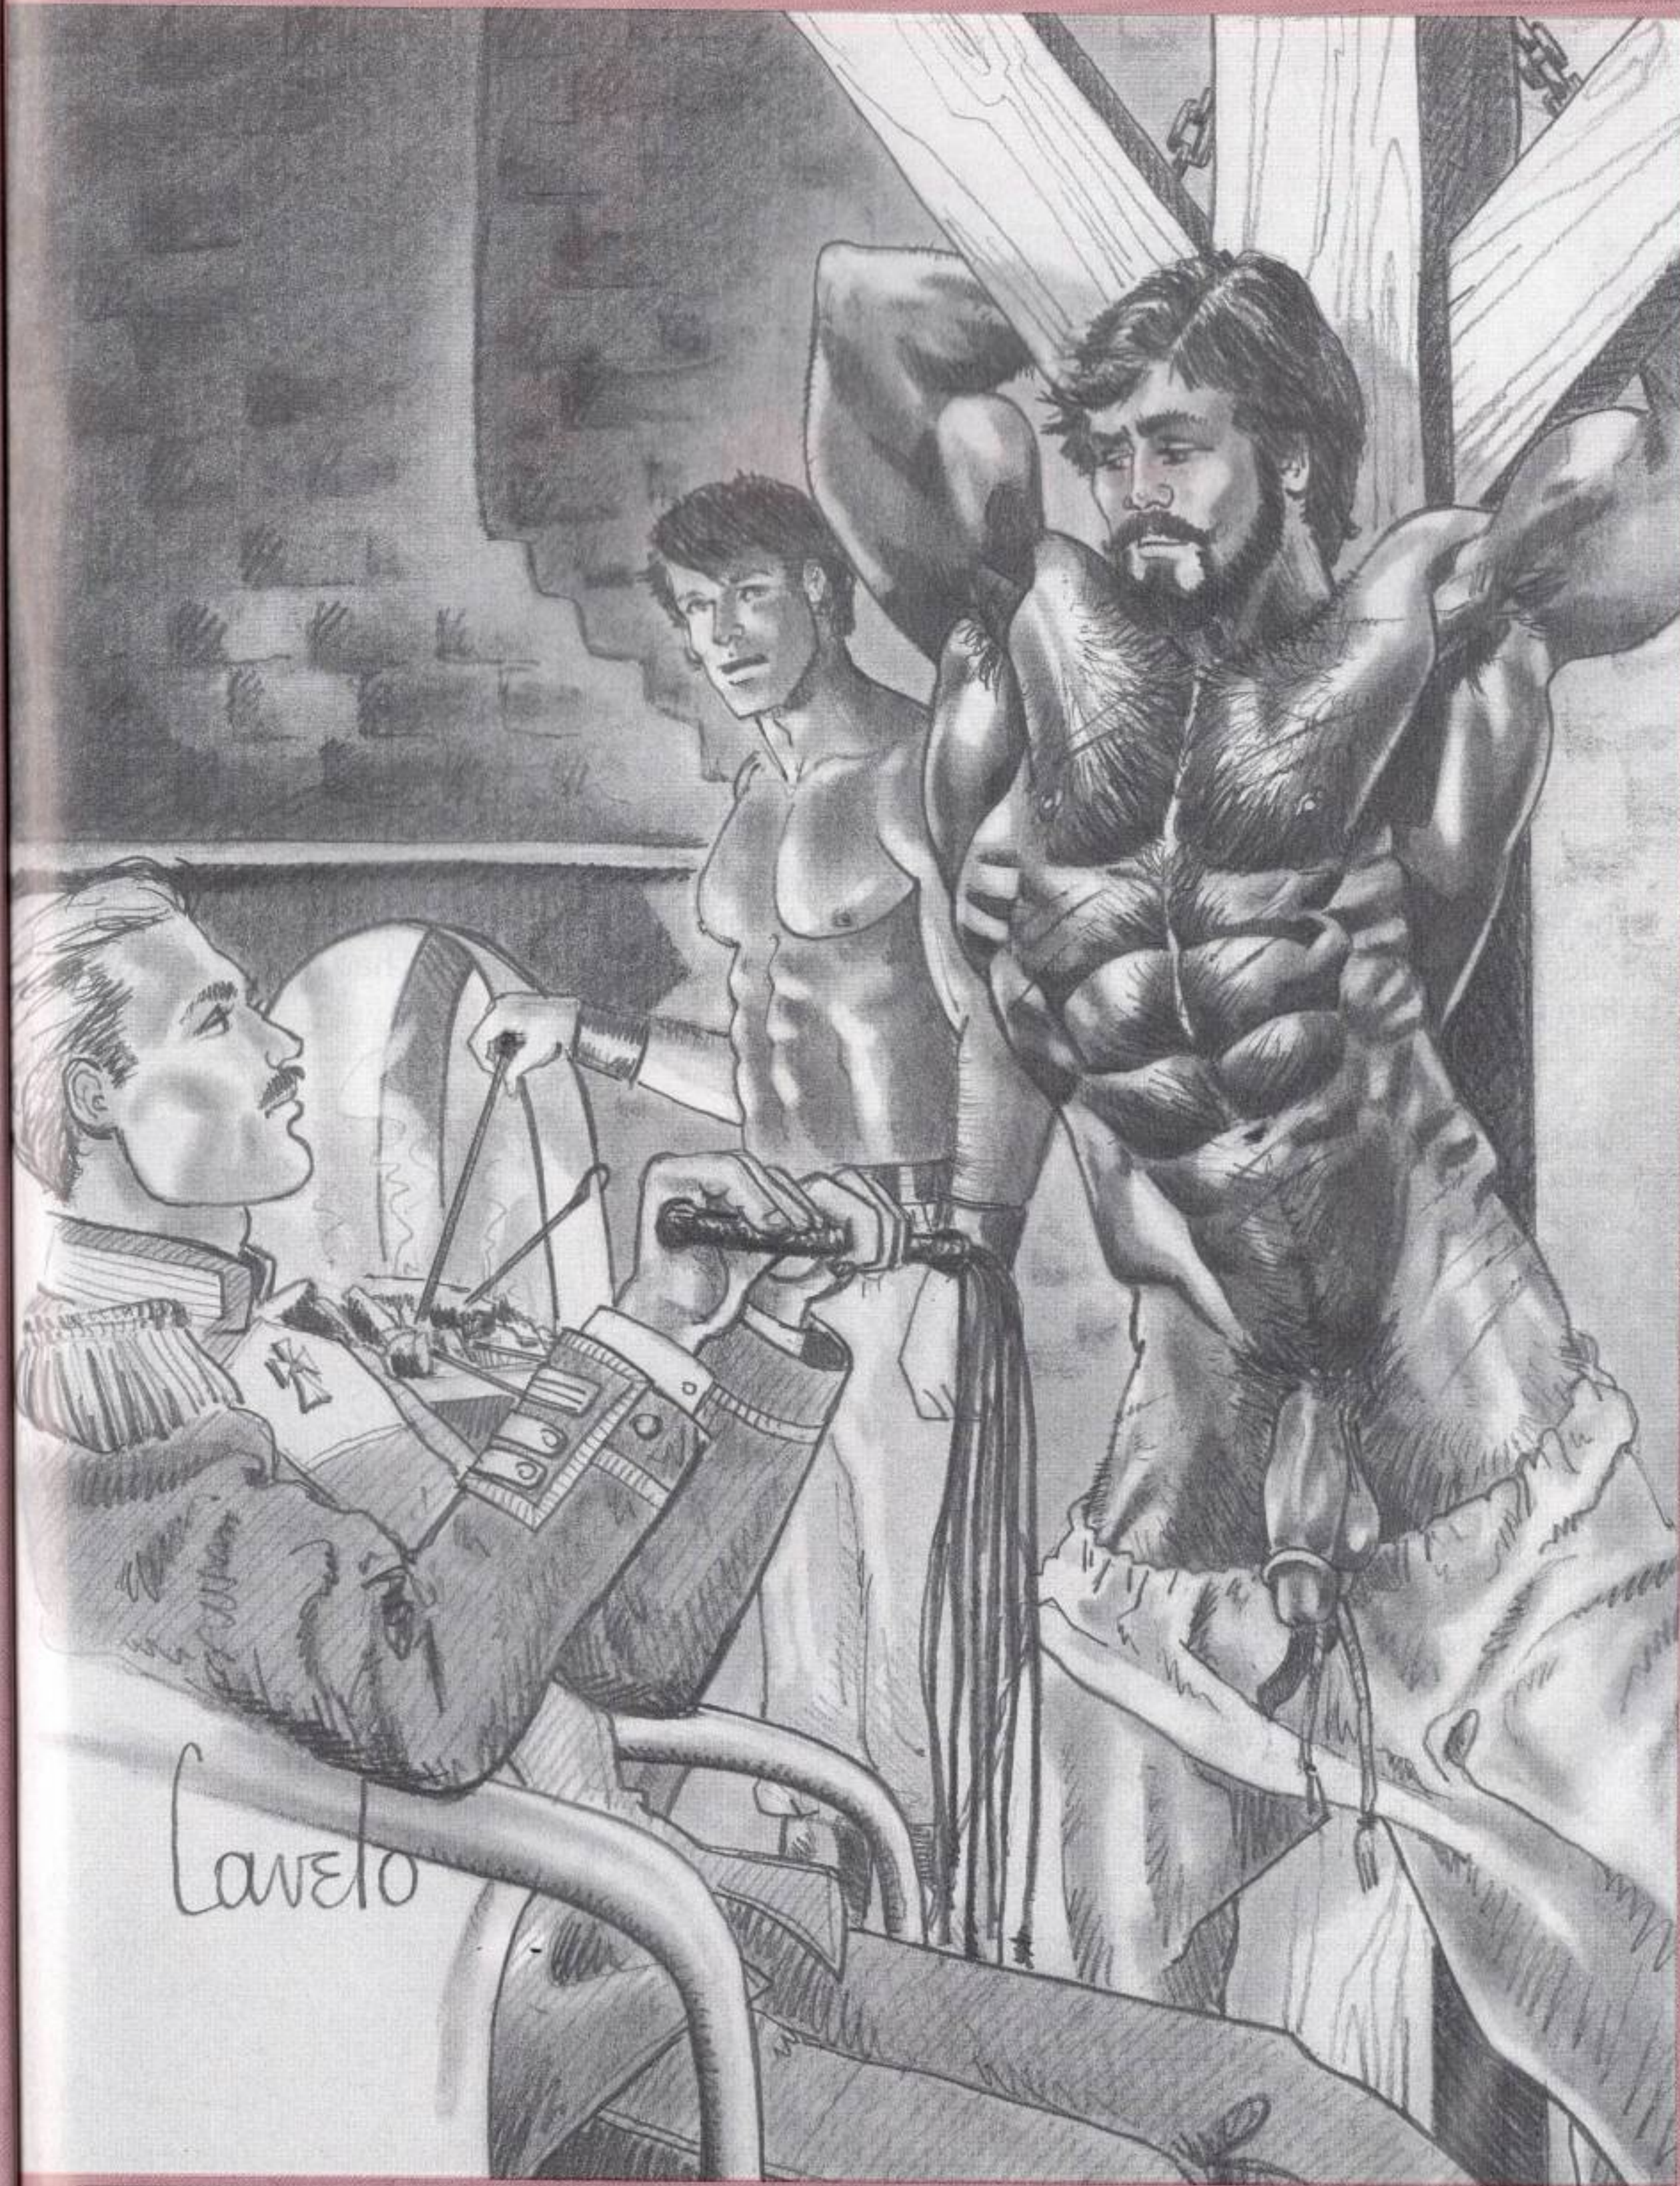

MOSCOW, Russia — The leader of the rebel Avartsui tribe was recently captured by Czarist troops near his hideout in the Caucasus Mountains, authorities said. Rebel chief Hajji Murad is accused in connection with numerous acts of rebellion and treason against Czar Nicholas' government and is also alleged to have master-minded raids, killings and miscellaneous subversive activities during the past three years. Murad was sought for illegal possession of arms and having conspired with other Islamic tribes in 1895, violating the Czar's edicts.

Murad was taken into custody near Tiflis to face charges in the 1893 murder of a Russian soldier. The whereabouts of Murad remained a mystery until he was captured by Commander Mikail Vorontsof in a surprise raid. Rival tribal chieftain Akhmet Khan is rumored to have disclosed Murad's hiding place. Czarist spokesman Ivan Shamarindinsky said in an interview: "Hajji Murad has been taken to an undisclosed location where he is being questioned in great detail [torture] regarding his knowledge about rebel strength and activities."

Reliable sources claim that Commander Vorontsof himself has taken charge of the interrogation and expects to have a signed confession from Murad within a few days. Vorontsof is rumored to have a personal vendetta against the rebel leader and is well versed in interrogation methods.

The Real LAWRENCE of Arabia

A fanciful tale told by John Bruce, his bodyguard.

by Peter Fiske

Illustrated by Les

Historical Note: The following is fiction, based on known facts. John Bruce told his story in 1968 to the London Times as "The Secret Life of Lawrence of Arabia". Some independent observers believe he didn't tell all. Here is what one person (the author) feels he might have said had he told the truth before he died. The manuscript was sent to Drummer.

June, 1923, Bovington Camp, Dorset. Lawrence was almost 35, incredibly handsome and masculine, very thin, with a strong physique, 5'9" tall. His stunning presence is almost impossible to capture in words. Lawrence asked me to meet him in company stores. He was very nervous.

For five nights he'd dreamed of Deraa and his rape by the Bey. Each time he woke up screaming and I would talk him down. "It's alright, Lawrence," I'd say, "You did your best."

I was 19, athletic, a farm boy from north of Aberdeen, just over six feet tall, 180 lbs. and very taken with Lawrence. He was the first man from the upper classes to take an interest in me. I'd been working for him for a year. In March we joined the Tank Corps together because the Old Man commanded Lawrence to join as a private or be exposed as a thief and a liar.

Of course I believed Lawrence! The Old Man was his uncle who could expose him if Lawrence didn't obey orders.

Lawrence and I shared everything. Money, food, drink, friends, likes and dislikes. He needed protection. The Little Man was known to be afraid of nothing and took "nothing off nobody." He wasn't afraid of a fight and that's where I'd come in and break it up.

I told my story to the Times in 1968 but I couldn't tell it all. Lawrence wasn't overtly sexual with anyone, even me, but he was attracted. He admitted it to me a couple of times. And he obviously enjoyed being beaten and fucked. I ought to know. I fucked him and beat him and he always enjoyed it. But more about that later. . .

So, Lawrence wanted to meet me in company stores. He said he had a letter from the Old Man. I read it. It said he was to be birched, a dozen strokes. The birch was to be picked up at the railway station and I was to write back and detail Lawrence's conduct under the birch and how he reacted and what effect the punishment had made in Lawrence's demeanor and character.

I was amazed at the letter. Lawrence was in despair beside me. The Old Man had threatened the birch before but now the moment had come. I would be paid to administer the birch. I finally said, "I'll do it only because you want it," and so we agreed. We picked up the package with the birch, wrapped in blue string, at the station and went to the room of a friend to apply the discipline.

Lawrence was like a little boy as he tried to keep his trousers on. I made him lie on the bed. I could feel his excitement. The birch was over three feet long and vicious looking. It whistled at each lash, a terrible noise, and broke off as the ends hit his buttocks. I gave him his dozen, but this first was not a beating at all. . . not with his pants on. . .

He went to the Old Man that afternoon and came back very "hang dog" and said, "It's no good. It's got to be done again with trousers down." We went again. He stripped and gave

*I suppose in all
I gave him over 2000 strokes
with the birch,
thirty to eighty strokes at a time. And how we both enjoyed it.
Beating and fucking him was incredible

a shiver in the cold. I put a rug over his back but left his arse exposed.

I took my time with each stroke. The prongs of the birch got under his skin and he bled profusely. He lay there gritting his teeth and twice swore at me, "Christ." God, he was tough as nails. No other words escaped from him. His buttocks had no marks before the first stroke but he was bruised black by the third, and bloody bits of birch were scattered about the room. He took his 12 in stride and then said, "Give me another one for good luck." I did and found I was aroused. I entered him and began to fuck, moaning in the supreme pleasure of it all. He rocked me back and forth until I could stand no more and shot my load. We said nothing and we parted quickly.

He went off to see the Old Man again and came back later with thumbs up. "That's done the trick," he said, "He's satisfied." He gave me a blue envelope with £4 in it and we went off and got drunk together and didn't mention the sex part.

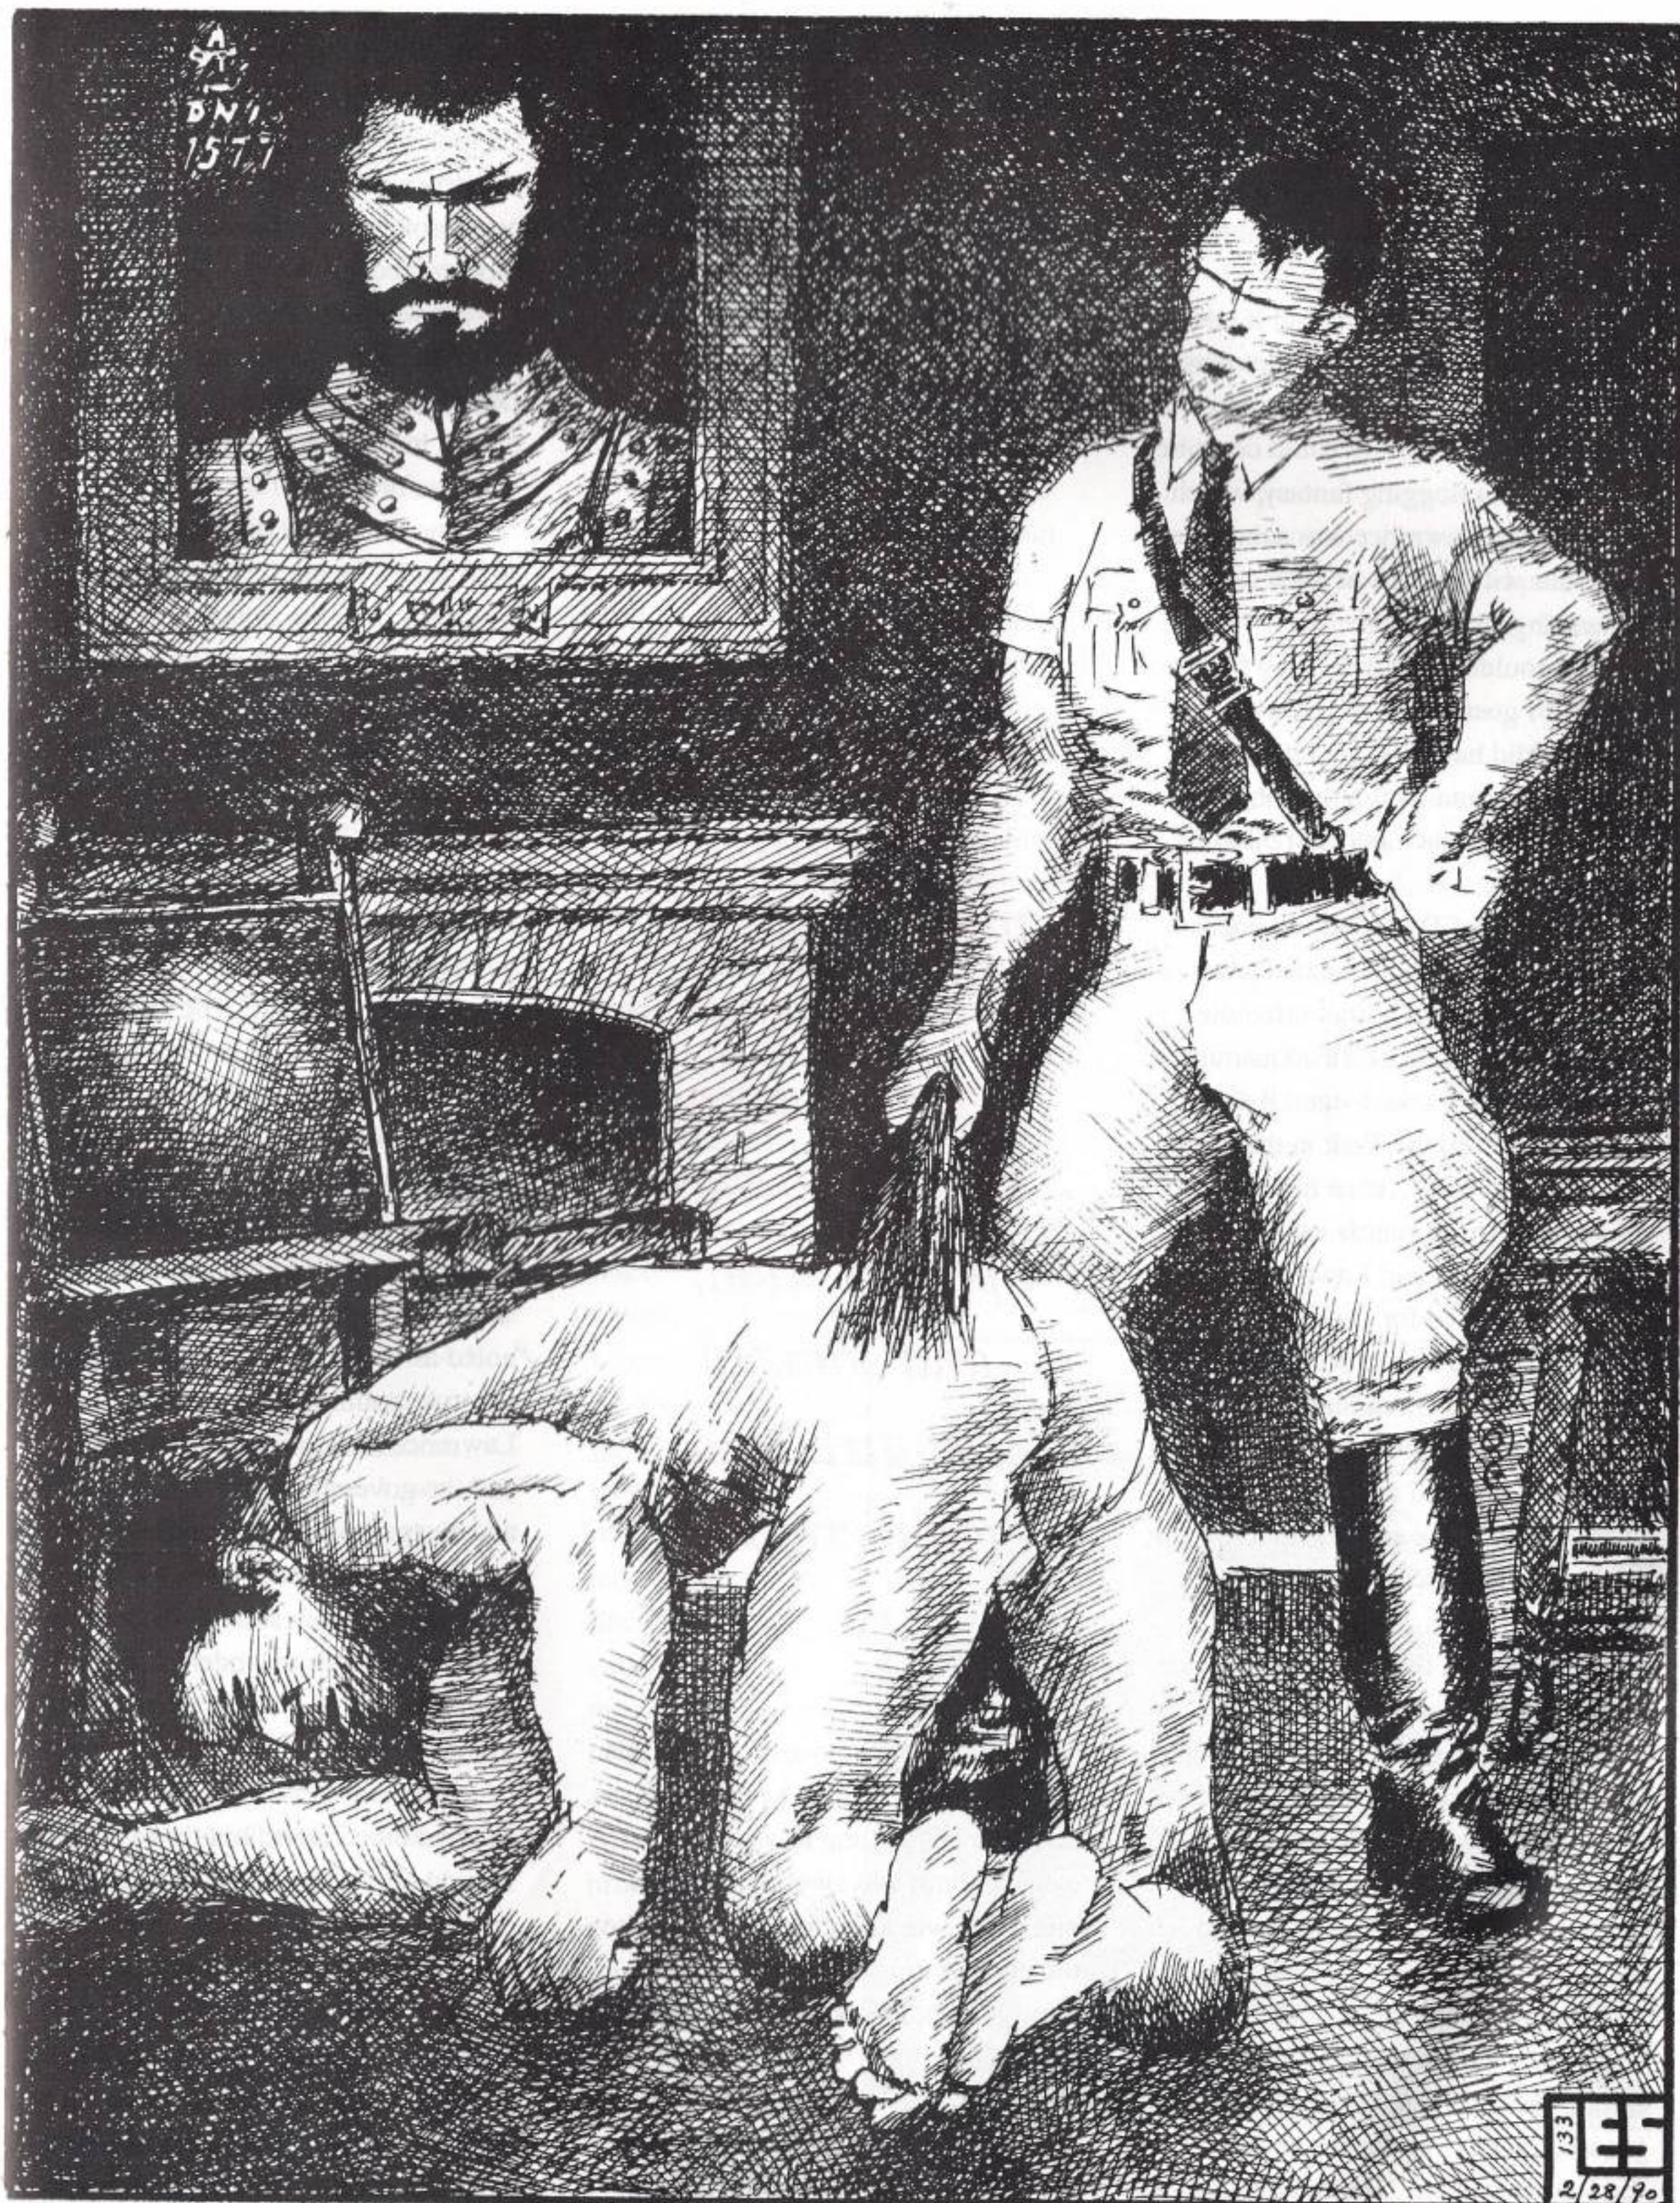

His dreams of Deraa stopped and our beatings and his "training" began. I made him swim in the cold sea. He had exercise and drill sessions where he worked up to a sweat and beyond. He had early morning riding and caring for the horse later; and Swedish massage; and even electro therapy shock treatments. And always the birchings and later on the whippings and he was great fucking sex too, just don't talk about it.

Lawrence wrote on his diary, "30" from Jock. He called me Jock by then. I suppose in all I gave him over 2000 strokes with the birch, thirty to eighty at a time. And how we both enjoyed it. It made my cock hard every time I even thought of it. Beating and the fucking him was incredible pleasure.

Each beating was followed by £4 from the Old Man and Lawrence would take my letters describing the beatings.

I guess it was about 1930 I realized there was no Old Man. Lawrence had invented him and wrote and read the letters himself. I was able to go on because for both of us it was more comfortable. He needed me and I needed him.

Even when I spoke to the men from the Times, Knightly and Simpson, I couldn't say that Lawrence was gay and who knows if he really was anyway. All I know is he liked to get beaten and fucked.

It was Deraa that brought it all on. In 1923 at Bovington, Lawrence was writing about Deraa and he couldn't tell the whole truth. He could describe the scene as a flogging fantasy, which it is, because Lawrence was somewhat notorious with friends as a liar and for fantasizing.

He couldn't admit the Bey fucked him, but I guess most of the story was true. He did have some marks when Tank Corps examined him, although I didn't see any when our first birching took place.

The Bey of Deraa was an unattractive and overt homosexual who "pawed" Lawrence at that infamous meeting in the Turkish Headquarters. When Lawrence could stand it no longer, he kneed the Turk in the groin.

The Bey said "Teach him his manners." Three guards came immediately and laid Lawrence over a guard bench used for "teaching manners" while the corporal ran downstairs for a Circassian riding whip of black leather, a single thong, beautifully tapered and flexible from over an inch at the silver grip to pencil thickness, hardened like metal, at the tip.

Meanwhile, the Bey hit Lawrence on the face over and over and then leaned forward and drew blood, biting Lawrence's neck. Then he grabbed on of the soldier's bayonets and worked it into Lawrence's flesh and gave it a turn—more blood—then he backed off.

The whipping began. The corporal made the whip whistle and said, "You'll scream for mercy before ten strokes and beg for the kisses of the Bey at twenty." He laid on with all his strength and each lash left a bloody mark across Lawrence's back or ass. Lawrence says he counted the lashes but that he lost count while he gritted his teeth to endure it all.

After twenty, they rested and jerked off and made Lawrence turn to see the marks. The Bey had returned to his chambers. Again after forty,

*That's what got the police finally. Sex.
Whipping wasn't against the law, but gay sex was illegal. So was prostitution,
and some of the girls and
men were paid.*

they dragged Lawrence around by his feet, as he was broken by then, and, as he told me, "smiling idly as a delicious warmth was swelling through him." He was shooting his cum as he did each time I birched or flogged him. In fact, it was refined by the Old Man that he have "an emission" at each whipping or it had to be done again. This first time he wasn't fucked until after he came off!

In his book Lawrence says the Bey rejected him, but this isn't true. He took him—not once, but twice, and Lawrence was afraid to admit he'd been broken and submitted to being "sodomized."

So when we met and Lawrence was writing "Seven Pillars," he relived Deraa in his dreams, until I started to punish him. Then it passed and he was free of it.

The men from the Times couldn't or wouldn't reveal Lawrence's secret whipping life with other men. I discovered it in 1925 at Bournemouth. Lawrence was doing training at the gym under my instruction. Reports went to the Old Man. I noticed marks on his legs high up and said, "What are those?" He said, "Nothing, really." I said, "Don't lie. They're birch-marks, aren't they?" He admitted it. He said, "The Old Man forced me to do it. It was the chauffeur who gave me a dozen." Later I found out at least four people were birching or whipping him. Then he started to note the beatings on his calendar and even kept a punishment book. Each whipping was dated, noted as to the offence and the number of strokes administered. When Lawrence died, of course, Winston and the government got to Clouds Hill and destroyed the papers. But I still had letters and so did others and that's why people know at least some of the truth. I had some wonderful times with Lawrence. He was like a father to me.

Yes, he deceived me and I deceived the Times, but they got what I could prove and Lawrence wouldn't care. He'd laugh and say, "It's nothing—it doesn't matter."

In fact he always had a group of homosexuals around himself. Robin Maugham even cleverly used an account of a sergeant who, as a lance corporal, meets and has a drink with Lawrence, and then goes for a scene.

The scene was the corporal whipping and fucking Lawrence. Maugham's book is Escape from the Shadows.

How many of these scenes Lawrence really had I'll never know. But all or most of his friends were "gay" to use the modern word. Then, we had the whipping parties in London. They started in 1925 when Lawrence returned from India. They were mixed parties and included both gay and straight sex and floggings.

Actually, that's what got the police finally. Sex. Whipping was OK and not against the law but gay sex was illegal. So was prostitution and some of the girls and men were paid. I went to a few of the parties and so did R.A. Guy, who may have been Lawrence's other most frequent partner. He looked like a "Greek God." He was short and blond and very masculine and Lawrence once told me, "He's angelic looking but the effect is shattered by his Birmingham accent." Lawrence admitted to me in Scotland in 1930 that R.A. Guy and A.E. Chambers were both beating him besides me. And he called both A.E. and myself "Jock" to confuse us.

When the whipping parties at "Bluebeard's" were raided, Lawrence was released and the King himself ordered his name stricken from police and court records. Lawrence tried to get the Bluebeard people off but it was impossible and Bluebeard went to prison.

He was seeing Mrs. George Bernard Shaw by then and she knew the story. He told her he wanted to write a book called Confessions about his homosexual and flagellant life—starting in the public bathroom (lavatory or cottage) in Covent Garden and including the real story of Deraa and the Old Man and his sexual needs. He was working on it when he died.

I think Winston Churchill killed him. It was a year or so after the whipping party caper and maybe gossip was getting about. The government closed up Cloud's Hill for a day while all the papers and the manuscripts of Confessions were removed and burned.

The admiration of the public for Lawrence was too strongly identified with Winston and others in the government, and even the King said, on the day of his death, "His name will live in history." Winston cried and said at the funeral, "He was one of the greatest beings of our time. Whatever our need, we shall not see his like again."

After the funeral, Charlotte Shaw wrote me and asked me to meet in the family solicitor's office. She revealed she knew about the beatings. She had talked to A.E. Chambers and R.A. Guy and they had agreed to keep Lawrence's confidence; would I? She said, "The only people who can benefit will be the juicy Sunday papers and Lawrence doesn't belong there." She said, "And what about his mother?" Finally

I agreed to destroy all my letters and gave my word of honor not to publish while his mother was alive. She died in 1959 and after the movie "Lawrence of Arabia" came out, I contacted A.W., Lawrence's brother and sent a copy of a manuscript to ask permission to publish it. Of course he tried to convince me not to do so and when I did anyway 'cause I needed the money, he tried to discredit me.

I had saved some letters and others appeared. I'm sorry I couldn't tell the truth then, but now I can here.

Lawrence was such a wonderful man. He was exhilarating. He took in everything and gave each person all of his attention. He was my only real friend. He shared everything and hated injustice. He was the cleanest man I ever met. He loved his motorcycle maybe best of all and prophetically wrote himself, "In speed, we hurl ourselves beyond the body. Our bodies cannot scale the heavens except in a fume of petrol. Bones. Blood. Flesh. All pressed inward together."

When he died, something died in me. In us all. Malcolm Muggeridge said it best, "Who more fitting to be a hero of our times than this, our English Genet, our sodomite saint, with Lowell Thomas for his Sartre and Alec Guinness to say amen?" [New York Times, Sunday, May 10th, 1964]—"He was the best. That's all, The Best" - and that's my story; all of it.

WHERE LEATHERMEN MEET

By placing an ad in this section, a bar or other business is telling you that they welcome Leathermen.

By accepting their ad, Drummer is telling you that the bar has been recommended by a Leather/SM club or a recognized individual in the community as a good place to meet and socialize with other Leathermen. In larger cities, these will be THE leather bars; in other areas, they will be the more general purpose bars where Leathermen do go to socialize.

Help us to alert Drummer readers and travelers to the RIGHT place to go to meet Leathermen in your part of the world. Send us your recommendations and talk to the right bar owners and managers about placing one of these low-priced ads. If you see a business listed here that you think shouldn't be, let us know about that, too.

SNC LONDON ANNIVERSARY

Sixty Nine Club of London celebrated its 25th Anniversary October 5-7, in London, in conjunction with the European Confederation of Motorcycle Clubs' Annual General Meeting. Over 185 leather guys from Europe and America attended the weekend. The Dinner Reception was held at Camden Town Hall on Saturday the 6th. The 69 Jubilee show was held immediately afterwards with such incredible showstoppers as Mrs. Miller's "Lover's Concerto," and Jimmy's broken ribs while doing "Can't Help Singing." The show paused there as the Fire Brigade carried him to hospital. The Two Ronnies did "Miss Sophie Dines Alone," and, of course, there was "I Want to be a Prima Donna" by Tony Hepworth. The finale featured Felix Jones—at 75 one of the world's most senior leathermen—as "The Future."

The 69 Club was founded in 1965 by Felix and Tony, with the original idea of providing people in England with contacts in other countries.

Peter Fiske

Alan Selby paid Drummer a visit on his return from the Sixty Nine Club anniversary, with some notes on the London leather scene. First, he warns that any visitor to London should be aware that London is very expensive—for example, it costs $80 a night to stay at the Y. However, Alan also notes that some enterprising folk flying into London from abroad can turn quite a profit from simply bringing a few cans of Crisco—apparently every sex shop in London is selling the stuff at $15.00 for the 89¢ "Single Serving" size.

The bar scene seems to be bustling, with about as much rubber as leather, and new later hours. Most of the bars have strict dress codes: rubber or leather, and boots required. Uniform men take note that uniforms do not count: one gentleman in full uniform had to be found a rubber vest so that he could enter one of the bars.

Some of the hot bars currently are The Backstreet, the Detour, The London Apprentice (which hosted the first night of the weekend's events), The Block (Alan's favorite), and Skin to Skin, an all skinheads bar. An exception to the dress code rule is the Coleherne, which Alan describes as "very friendly and cruisy."

BEATING JESSE: NORTH CAROLINA AND BEYOND

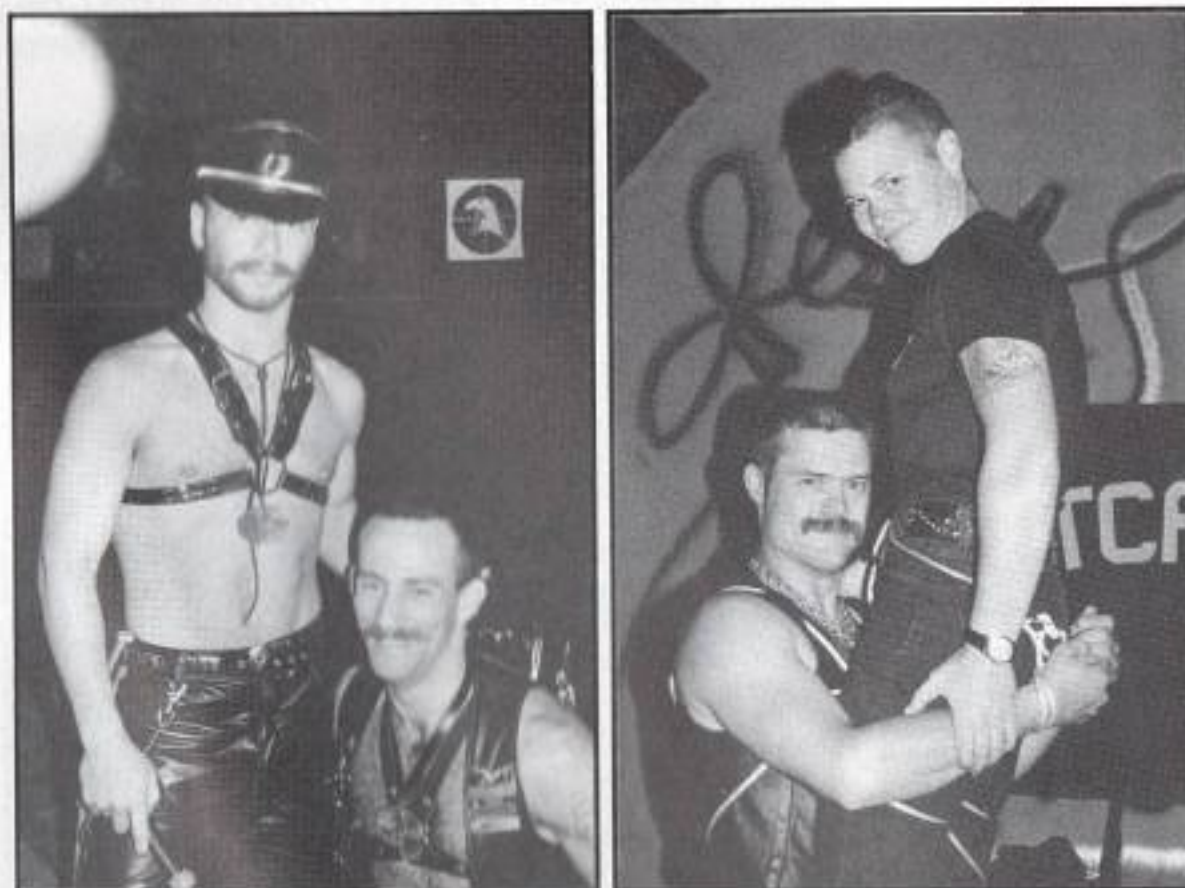

When the Tarheel Leather Club in North Carolina launched the "Beat Jesse" campaign to raise money for the Gantt campaign (Jesse Helms' opponent in the November election,) they didn't know what they were getting into. "Beat Jesse" turned into a nationwide campaign, with fundraising events in Washington, Georgia, Texas, California, North Carolina, and other states. Demand far outstripped the original supply of "Beat Jesse" T-Shirts, and the Tarheels had to learn how to be a "mail order house." The T-shirts are currently being sported by leatherfolk across the country, and certain leather titleholders, including Brian Dawson, Mr. Drummer 1989-90, and Susie Shepherd, IMsL 1989, have been championing the "Beat Jesse" cause wherever they go.

Along with decisive action inevitably comes controversy. (Remember when someone had the temerity to present the leather community with a flag?) In an editorial in their newsletter, at least one of the Tarheels has objected to the T-shirt design, saying that while "this campaign is clearly targeted to the leather/SM community as a humorous way to make money to get rid of the man, however this shirt will be seen by the general public. To the general, non-informed public... this campaign reinforces the idea that SM is used as a form of punishment rather than another way two (or more) consenting adults can make love." A good point, and another example of how impossible it is to be 100% non-offensive. Sensibly, this Tarheel recommends that the most appropriate place to wear the "Beat Jesse" shirt is in leather/SM space, where folks will "get it."

"Beat Jesse" T-shirts were certainly in evidence (and appropriate) at the San Francisco Eagle on Friday, October 5. The Outcasts, a women's SM club in San Francisco, organized a "Celebrity Flogathon" to raise bucks for the "Beat Jesse" effort. The event was emceed by Joseph Bean, Drummer's Managing Editor, and master whipmaker Jay Marston. The Flogathon raised nearly $2,000 for "Beat Jesse" (the largest single contribution received).

A variety of local and national leather celebrities, including Clive Platman, fresh from winning the Mr. Drummer title, and Jan Lyon, the current Ms NLA, put themselves on the block. The audience bid on such things as how many strokes the volunteers would receive, and with what whip.

Clive took his own whipping and then later gave as good as he got, whipping this year's Drummerboy of the Year John. Other scenes included Fakir Musafar being led around onstage by fingers through his nipple piercings; a bullwhipping by Officer Betty (complete with two "screamers," since the bottom she was whipping would not make a sound); a bondage sculpture created by Fledermaus; and a sailor, in uniform, (it was Fleet Week) who dropped trou and took a lovely paddling/whipping onstage.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN CONDOMS

The Mariposa Foundation has been commissioned to oversee testing of two new types of condoms. The condoms are made of plastic, not latex, and should be impervious to the latex-deteriorating effects of oil-based lubricants, sunlight, smog, etc. Plastic condoms are also rather tough and difficult to puncture or tear.

One of the new condoms is similar in shape and appearance to a traditional latex condom, with some modifications to help keep it securely in place.

The other plastic condom is designed for use by men for anal intercourse (it can also be used for heterosexual vaginal and anal intercourse, however). The condom is wider than a traditional condom, and is intended as a rectal or vaginal liner. The liner has two firm but flexible rings, one of which assists insertion into the vagina or rectum. The other ring remains outside the orifice and holds the condom in place so that it is not pushed into the orifice.

The condoms have been developed by Wisconsin Pharmacal. Initial tests of the condoms were conducted with heterosexual couples, but the Howard Brown Memorial Clinic is testing them with gay men.

LEATHER PRESENCE AT NEW ORLEANS NO/AIDS WALK

Brian Eschette, Mr. Leather New Orleans 1990, informs us that Lords of Leather, a leather Mardi Gras Krewe, turned out in full force to support the NO/AIDS Task Force walk in New Orleans. Leathermen from Louisiana and Mississippi also participated. Some Lords of Leather walked the 10K route, while others controlled traffic along the walk. Another leather organization, Knights d'Orleans, donated time and manpower to repair and paint the 90 year old bandstand which served as the backdrop for the day's events. 3500 walkers raised over $200,000.

DUNGEONS AND CASTLES TOUR SET FOR 1991

Leathermen can travel Europe together on the new "Dungeons and Castles of Europe" tour in 1991, organized by a company called Travel Keys Tours of California.

The trip will be offered in spring and autumn of 1991, in 10-day sections, and will include after-dark events at leather clubs and bars.

Some of the Dungeons and Castles will include: the Tower of

FETISH AND FANTASY: An extremely limited number of T-shirts were printed with the above artwork by Stephen Stafford, to be auctioned off by the Mr. Drummer contestants at Alan Selby's Fetish and Fantasy party during Leather Week in San Francisco. ## PHOTOGRAPHERS CALL FOR ENTRIES

San Francisco photographer Mark I. Chester is sending out a call for entries to Gay and Lesbian photographers across the United States. From May 31 through June 9, 1991, San Francisco will host Photoscape '91, a 10-day festival focused on the art of photography. Chester is looking for outrageous, controversial, cutting-edge photography to show in his studio as part of the festival. While he is open to all work that has an erotic or sexual connection, he in particular seeks work related to other SM or radical sexuality. Photographers should contact Chester at PO Box 42501, San Francisco, CA 94101 with a letter of introduction and, if possible, examples, slides, or even photocopies of their work. Chester can also be reached in person at (415) 621-6294.

MR. DRUMMER

Color Photograph

The scope of the Mr. Drummer contest broadened this year, becoming truly international. Contestants came to San Francisco from all over North America, from Germany, England, Australia and New Zealand. In recognition of the international nature of the regional titles awarded throughout the year, it was decided that in addition to the world-wide Mr. Drummer title, winners in three major regions -- Europe, the South Pacific, and North America -- should also be named.

The new Mr. Drummer 1990-91, Clive Platman, was also voted Mr. South Pacific Drummer. His runner up for the South Pacific title was Brent Boston, Mr. New Zealand Drummer.

The title of Mr. Europe Drummer was earned by Christian Dreesen, of Berlin, Germany. Christian was also first runner up for the world Mr. Drummer title. This year's other European contestant, Glenn Marsh, Mr. U.K. Drummer, was awarded the Golden Whip award, an honor bestowed on him by the other contestants for his helpful attitude and supportive efforts.

Ron Brewer, Mr. Southwest Drummer, was voted Mr. North America Drummer. Ron was also the second runner up over all. His first runner up for the North America Drummer title was Vance Reger, Mr. Great Plains Drummer; and second runner up was Justin Charbonneau, Mr. Northeast Drummer.

The award for Drummerboy of the Year went to John Siracusa, who is taking his title seriously

Clive Platman, Mr. Drummer 1990-91

Clive is from Melbourne, Australia, where he works for a "very explicit club for men," and spends his spare time practicing leathercraft and learning whiplashing. Clive is an active participant in fundraising for the Australian Federation of AIDS Organizations and the Victoria AIDS Council—he participates in safe-sex classes on SM and bondage, and raised over $14,000 in the four months between winning his Mr. Australia Drummer title and the Mr. Drummer finals. His goals are to promote understanding and acceptance of the leather lifestyle, and to increase contact among the leather communities internationally. Pictured here with International Mr. Leather Mark Ryan.

Ron Brewer Mr. North America Drummer 1990-91

Ron is from Pheonix, Arizona, and is currently a bartender at the Bum Steer. He is a founding member of the Southwest Patrol, the first uniform club in the Southwest, a founding member of the Barbary Coast Cloggers, and he is also a member of the Uncut Society of America. Ron is a member of the Phoenix Gay Pride Committee and of Shanti Project Phoenix.

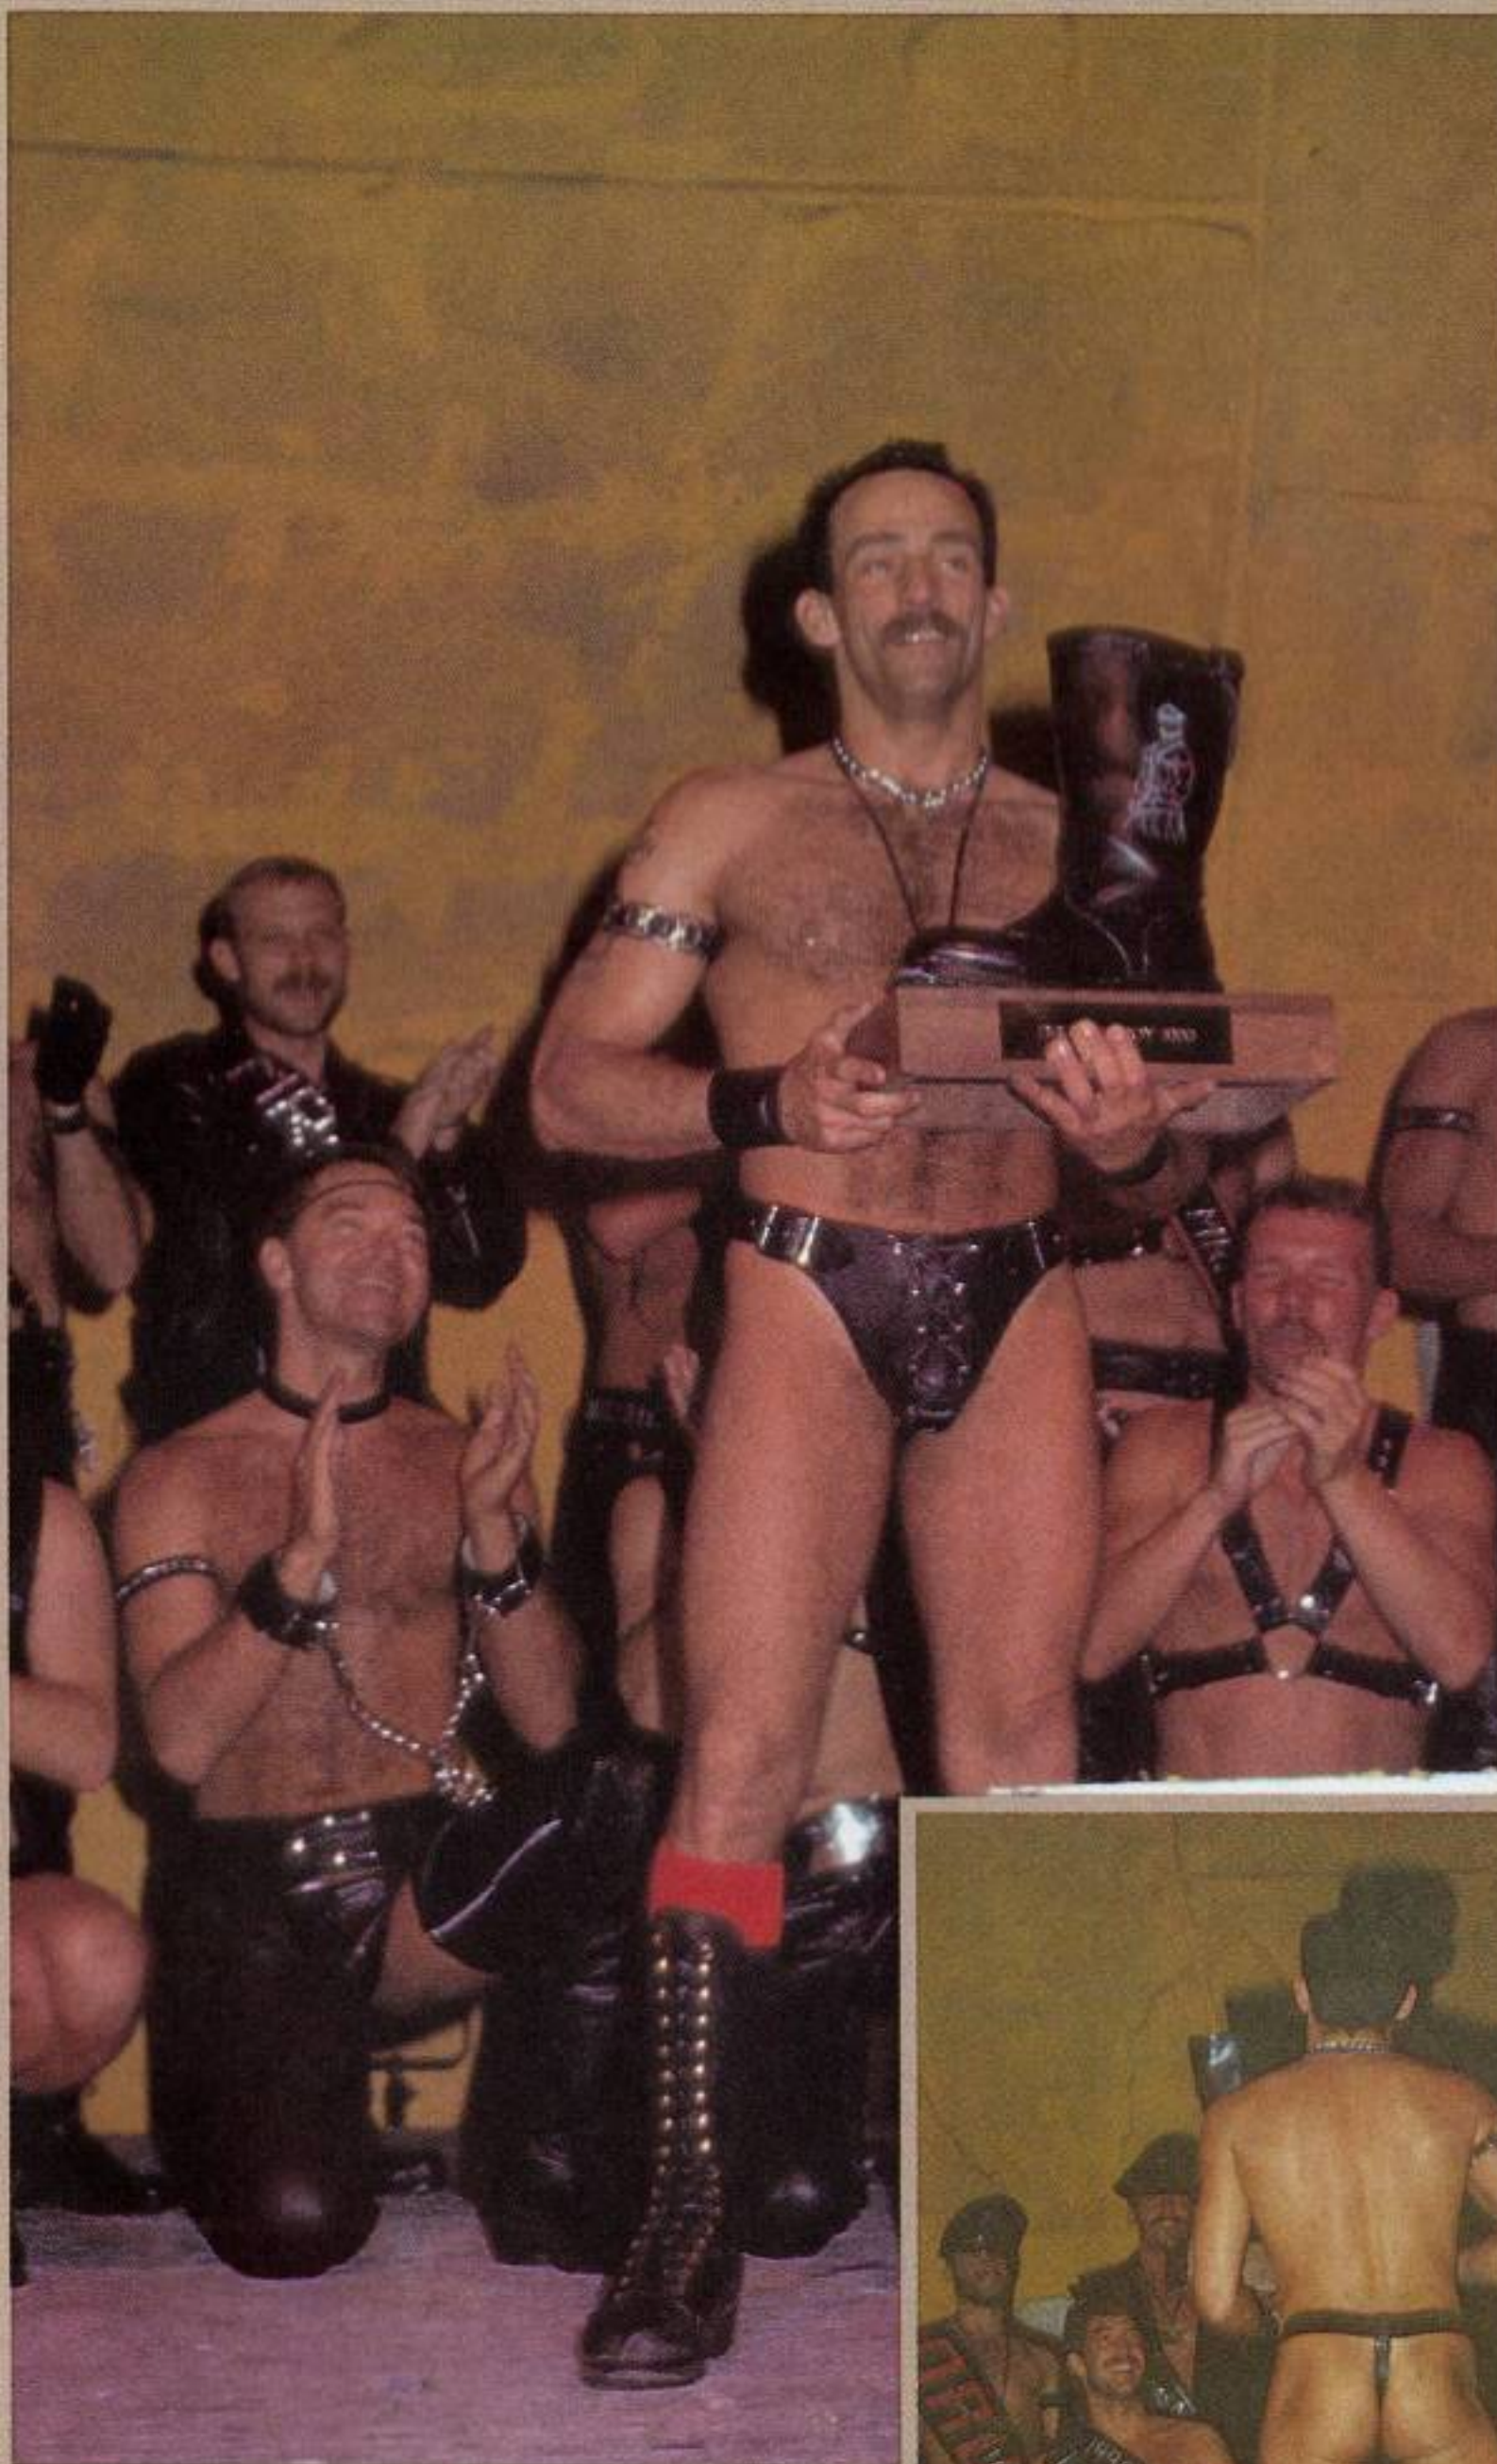

Now that Ron has spent 44 years on this Earth, his goal is to encourage everyone to have the courage of their convictions and their perversions, and most of all, to share their strength.

Christian Dreesen Mr. Europe Drummer 1990-91

Christian is from Berlin, West Germany — he escaped East Germany after being imprisoned for attempting to get over the Wall, and he was there the day the wall came down. He is 34 years old, works as a cook, and enjoys bodybuilding, wrestling, running, and reading. He has worked very hard with the Connection Bar in Berlin to bring awareness of gay political issues to Berlin: he counts among his achievements getting Marlboro cigarettes banned in many Berlin bars. He has also worked with the Christopher St. Day committee. He hopes to work toward the freedom of the gay and leather communities still in East Germany, and to bring about unity between the U.S. and European gay communities.

John Siracusa

Drummerboy
of the Year 1990-91.

Drummerboys assist the Mr. Drummer contestants in many ways, including assisting in their fantasies. John Siracusa was selected this year's Drummerboy of the Year after doing a great job of assisting the contestants all weekend. John has recently moved to San Francisco, and since winning the Drummerboy title, has made appearances at leather events in Sacramento and Fresno, as well as the National Leather Association's Living in Leather conference in Portland. He's already hard at work planning fundraisers for the coming year.

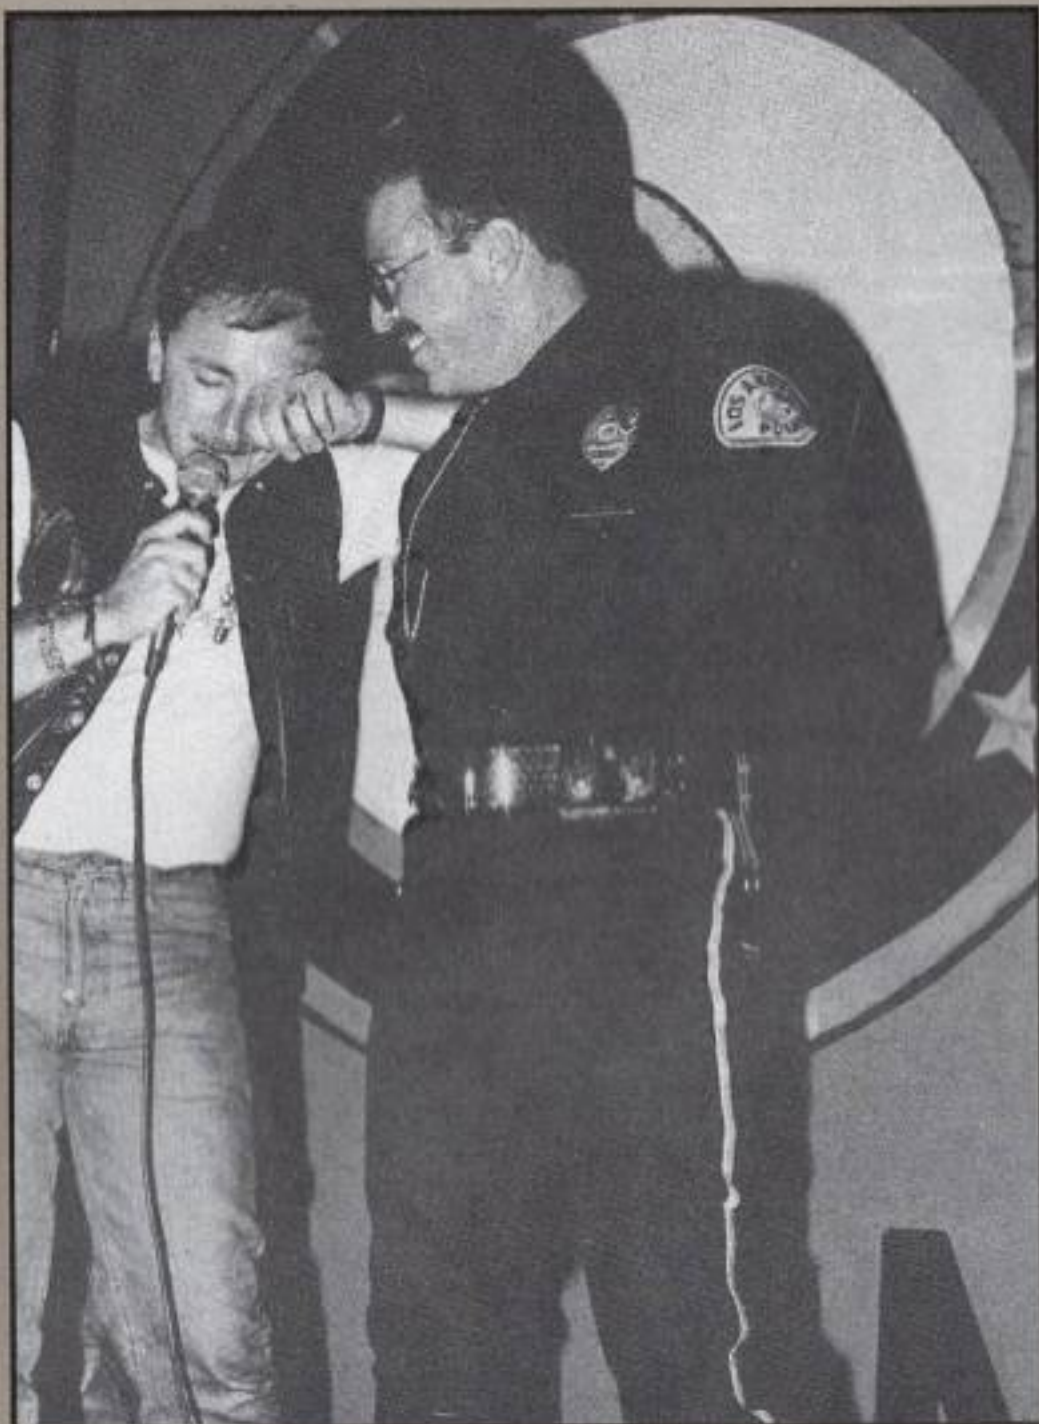

The European and South Pacific Mr. Drummer finalists: Glenn Marsh, Mr. UK Drummer, Brent Boston, Mr. New Zealand Drummer, Clive Platman, Mr. Australia Drummer, and Christian Dreesen, Mr. Germany Drummer. The occasion is a party thrown by Marathon Films at the San Francisco Eagle, to honor the international contestants in the Drummer Finals. Below, another view of the party. (Photos by J.C. Collins)

1991 CALENDARS

An Editor's Personal Pets

by Joseph W. Bean

Every year I get into a rush to find a calendar for the following year—usually around December 32nd. And every year—just a few days later—I see other people's calendars, and wish I had found this one or that one instead of the "Walnut Shell Sculpture for Cats" again. You too? Well, not this year. This year you and I can have the calendars everyone else will wish they had found!

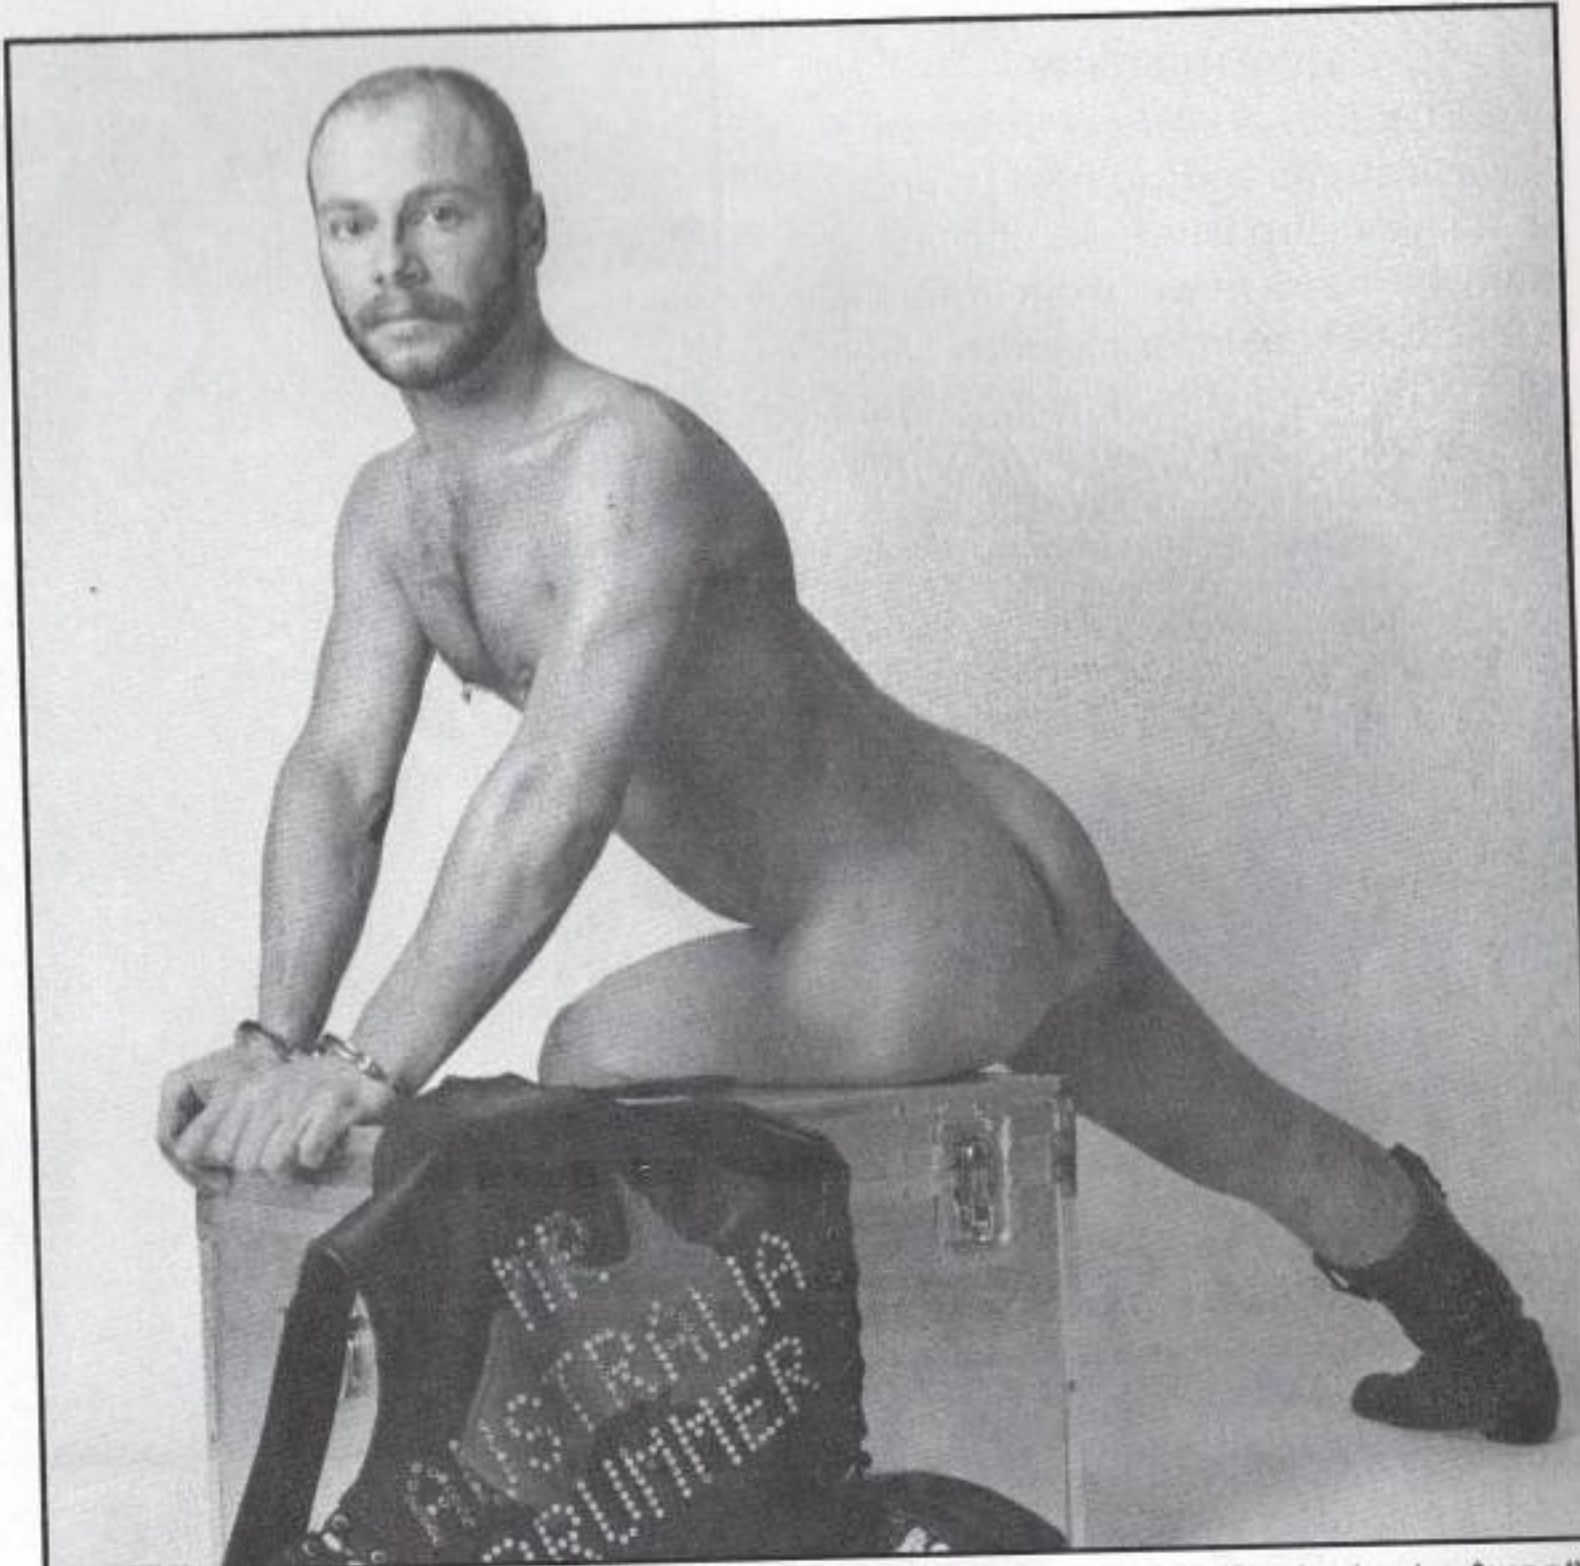

I've heard of calendars from Bicoastal Enterprises, the people who know how hot a cop can be half out of his uniform; from Forge Studios, a leather enterprise in Eastern Canada; and from the people who publish Bear magazine. They all sound fabulous, but I haven't seen them, have you?

On the other hand, I have seen a few irresistible calendars—three, to be exact. One for each "thinking" room of my apartment: the living room/office, the bedroom/playroom, and the bathroom/library. Which I am putting where, I leave to your imagination... and my own.

HOT AUSSIES

Maybe there are less than magnificently handsome men in Australia. There must be, really. Plain, like gay and leather, is everywhere, right? But the contestants in Australia's 1990 Mr. Drummer contests were all beautiful creatures, from the winner—who went on to be the Mr. Drummer titleholder for the world—to the fellows who didn't even place in their local competitions. Damn! They're all amazing. Sadly, they are not all in the Mr. Australia Drummer calendar for 1991. But six of the hottest are here.

Besides the cover portrait of Clive Platman, Mr. (Australia) Drummer 1990-91, and some very nice group shots, you get five more hot shots (including a heart-stopping nude) of Platman; two shots of Tim Vincent, Mr. South Sydney Drummer; and one each of Colin Smith, Mr. New South Wales Drummer, Harry Seers, Mr. East Sydney Drummer, Michael Hannan, Mr. Queensland Drummer, one of Brian Dawson (a guest down under), and one of Drummerboy Geoff England.

This not-to-be-missed treat is published by the Mr. Australia Drummer sponsors, Jayar Leather and Leather World. It is sold in their shops in Australia, but you can also order it from Desmodus, Inc., P. O. Box 11314, San Francisco, CA, 94101-1314. From Desmodus, the price of the calendar is $12.00 PLUS $3.50 shipping and handling in North America, $14.00 shipping and handling elsewhere.

LAST MINUTE ADDITION

The Forge calendar arrived from Toronto as we were going to press, and it's hot. The key here is variety: variety of types, Tops and bottoms, solos and duos. The calendar per se is bilingual, French and English, with both Canadian and U.S. holidays indicated. On the other hand... Not to demean music, but photos are the universal language, and these pictures have a lot of "inspiring" things to say. $10.50 plus $2.00 shipping and handling. Forge Studios, Suite 500-24D, 552 Church St., Toronto, Ontario, Canada, M4Y 2H0.

1991 CALENDARS

HOT HISTORY

The Tom of Finland Calendar is always a treat, and the 1991 calendar is a special treasure. In addition to some of Tom's newer work (from the 1980s), the calendar includes some of the unforgettable drawings that I was turning on to many years ago. You too? I'm not surprised.

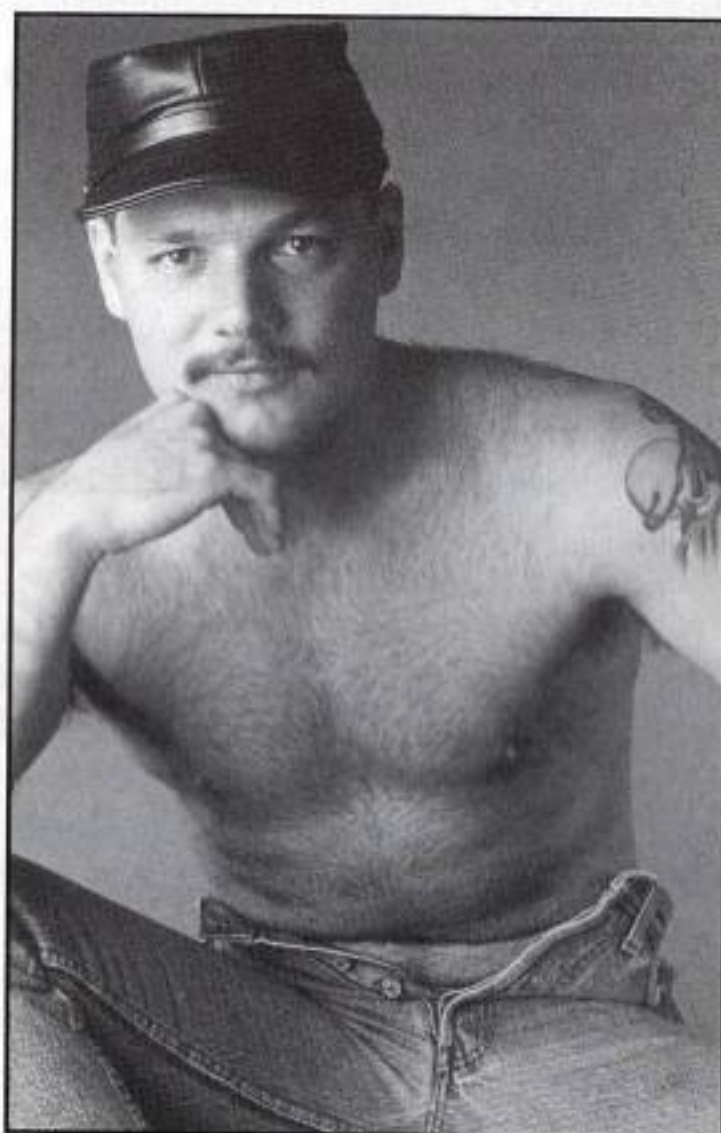

Tom's vintage work: the 50s, the 60s, the 70s... What can I say about a Tom calendar? I've said Tom of Finland, and I think that says it all.

HOT TITS

What, some poet might well ask, is more lovely than a pair of pectoral muscles dusted with hair, or densely furred, or born bare, or shaved? What indeed. Not much, that's what. So, each year, as a benefit for the San Francisco AIDS Emergency Fund, the SF Eagle produces a calendar made up of pictures of the winners of their monthly Bare Chest contests. Every year the collection is great. This year—with the help of Drummer photographer Jim Wigler—the Eagle's Bare Chest Calendar is... it's... well, hot doesn't begin to say it. I'll let the pictures on these pages tell you what you can get for $10.00. You can order the calendar from the SF Eagle, 398 12th St., San Francisco, CA, 94103.

HOW TO PLACE YOUR AD IN DEAR SIR:

We accept ads, and changes to ads, only in writing. Sorry, we cannot do this over the phone. Submit ads on the form on the facing page or a copy of it. If you can't bear to cut up your issue of Drummer and can't make photocopies, send us a note and we'll mail you copies of the form.

Box Numbers: $5.00 buys you a Drummer mail box for the life of your ad. Even after your ad expires, we will continue to forward replies forever — as long as we keep getting letters. (So keep us posted if you move.)

Give us a name. We cannot forward mail to someone named "Boxholder" at a P.O. Box. The Post Office won't do it.

Phone Numbers: You can put your phone number in your ad for immediate response. WE WILL ONLY PUBLISH VERIFIED PHONE NUMBERS. Here's how to put your phone number in your ad:

Mail in your ad. (Don't forget to include the $2.00 phone verification charge.) About two weeks after you mail to ad to us, you call us at (415) 252-1195, during business hours (9:00am-5:00pm Pacific Time, Mon.-Fri.) Be at the phone number you are placing in your ad. We will call you back to verify the number. If we have not verified your number within three months, we will publish the ad with a box number instead of a phone number.

You only need to verify a phone number once. Once it has appeared in Drummer, just attach a copy of the printed ad to your new ad if you wish to use that telephone number again. We will not publish voice-mail service numbers in personal ads. Don't forget to include your area code.

What else? Put anything you want in your ad, except: references to minors, animals, prostitution, or drugs.

Expect about a 60-day delay from the time we receive your ad to when it appears in print. Remember, it takes time for people to respond, too. So, for example, if you're looking for Christmas presents, it would be smart to send us the ad 90 or 120 days before Christmas. Also remember replies by international mail may take longer than domestic mail.

HOW TO REPLY TO A DEAR SIR AD:

How to reply to a Drummer box number: Answering a Drummer box number is easy, but the few rules we have are hard and fast, so observe them or else. 1.) Seal your letter in an envelope on which you have written the box number on the back flap in pencil. 2.) Put your return address on the envelope if you wish the letter to be returned to you should there be some problem with delivery. 3. Put proper postage on the envelope: domestic postage is 25 cents for the first ounce, 20 cents for each additional ounce. Foreign overseas postage is 45 cents for one-half ounce. 4.) Put the sealed letter(s) and a buck ($1.00) forwarding fee for each letter in another envelope and mail it to: DESMODUS, INC., PO Box 11314, San Francisco, CA 94101-1314. Letters not properly prepared will be destroyed.

Desmodus will forward responses to ads in back issues. However, we cannot guarantee that old addresses will still be valid. Remember, the US Postal Service will not return undeliverable mail without your return address. Keep in mind that people do move and their needs and desires do change.

JOIN THE LEATHER FRATERNITY!

Membership has its privileges: a 12-issue subscription to Drummer and a free 10-line classified ad (as measured on the grid order form) in Drummer that runs for 12 issues. Leather Fraternity members also do not pay for a box number or pay forwarding fees when they write to Dear Sir box numbers. Members may change their ads up to three times (non-members may not). A Leather Fraternity box number for your ad is included in the $120 membership fee. And, from time to time, Leather Fraternity members are offered other benefits.

Add it up: A Drummer subscription costs $70. A 10-line personal ad running 12 times would cost $354.00. No mail forwarding fee? No box fee? So, even if you never use the forwarding service, you're already saving at least $328.00. Do it.

Just use the grid order form in this magazine. Your subscription will begin with the next issue we ship, and your ad will begin usually two issues after that (there is always a 60-day delay from the time we receive your ad, or a change to an ad, and when it appears in print.)

SHOCKING!

CAUTION: the basic rule in using electrical toys is: Current running between the two contacts must not pass through the chest cavity. Simplified: NO CONTACTS ABOVE THE WAIST!

Titillator

A battery operated pulsed signal generator that is simple to operate and easily portable. Two intensity controls allow you to fine tune the sensations, and separate frequency and pulse rate controls offer the maximum range of stimulation variations.

The unit is 4 3/4" x 2 1/2" x 1 1/2" and comes with a 9 volt battery and a set of leads. The name of this unit comes from "titillation," it is NOT for use on the tits!

DEA 006 $119.95

Titillator Leads

Plug your WalkMaster, WalkMaster II, or Titillator into the accessories described on this page.

DEB 012 $34.95 Titillator Leads

All Purpose Leads

A pair of wires with banana plugs appropriate for the sockets of these accessories at one end, and alligator clips at the other end.

DEB 012 $34.95 All Purpose Leads

Titillator Attachments

RelaxAcisors, WalkMasters, Titillators, or whatever you use, these attachments will provide hours of shockingly great sensations. A new artisan is producing the following electrical attachments from clear lexan (a crystal clear, very hard plastic) and space-age conductive materials. Each piece has one or more receptor sockets for banana plugs (RelaxAcisors fit!) and will also work with alligator clips or bare wires. These electrical attachment devices can be used with the Titillator described above and also work with WalkMasters, RelaxAcisors, hand crank generators, and other similar devices.

DEB 001 $39.95
Single Electrode

DEB 002 $39.95
Double Electrode

Cockrings

Cockrings are available in four diameters: 1 1/4", 1 1/2", 1 3/4" and 2". Each size is available with a single electrode and conductive material running the full circle, or with two electrodes and separate areas of conductive material on each half of the circle. Please specify size(s) when ordering.

Electrowand

This is a lexan rod with conductive material at the business end. Connect any other electrode in a convenient place - a cockring, for instance - and use the ElectroWand to play with other areas: genitals, thigh, ass, feet, anywhere below the waist. DEB 009 $59.95 Electrowand

Sparkler

This is a short length of conductive rubber (approximately 6" long by 1/8" diameter). It works well in any moist opening or crevice: ass, crotch, urethra. This one really delivers a jolt! (NOT FOR NOVICES) DEB 008 $39.95 Sparkler

Electric Butt Plug

The charge of a lifetime. A lexan plug (approximately 6" x 1 3/4" diameter) with two electrodes that stimulate the anal sphincters. With a Titillator, or other power source that has an adjustable pulse rate, this is a real fucking machine. Expensive but worth it. Made to order, allow up to eight weeks for delivery. DEB 007 $149.95 Electric Butt Plug

Violet Wand

The Violet Wand, officially known as the "Master High Frequency Unit," is a device used by barbers and beauticians to stimulate the skin. It can be very effectively used for the same purpose by Tops. The glass electrodes glow purple when in use and sparks jump from the electrode to the skin surface (fantastic in a dark room). This is one electrical device that is safe for use above the waist, as the charge travels across the surface of the skin rather than through the body. (CAUTION: Keep the bulb away from the eyes!!!) We offer only the Heavy Duty Unit, which has a transformer located along the extra long cord and can be used for extended periods of time. Includes one (#1, disk shaped) electrode. Additional electrodes are available.

DEA 001 $299.95 Violet Wand Master Unit

Violet Wand Electrodes

DEC 001 $22.95 #1 Disk Electrode

DEC 002 $22.95 #2 Rake Electrode

DEC 003 $22.95 #3 Rod Electrode

Stock Prod

The stock prod is one of the most effective control devices made. Excellent for conditioning your animal to behave the way you want him to. There is nothing erotic about a jolt from this device, just a quick painful zap that he will want to avoid having repeated. This model takes three "C" cells and gives him a jolt that is painful without knocking him over the way some larger units can.

DEA 009 $28.95 Stock Prod

"SKLAVEN-WERKSTATT HAMBURG" (Slave-Workshop Hamburg) a sensationally erotic video shot in the heart of industrial Hamburg brings two hot hunky German masters, Tom of Hamburg and Wolf Hermann, to the video tube. Joining them are the young hunky submissives-lean and hung-ry for discipline, humiliation and forceful tutoring. SLAVE WORK-SHOP is heavy and real fast action of use and abuse. The dildo scene alone is worth the price. Skid Acid rides the dildo and a powerful bike as though they were one, while re-lieving direction from his strong controlling master. THIS IS HOT, HOT, HEAVY STUFF brought to you by the German Slave Masters who know how to exert dominant control.

ELASTRATOR / THE ULTIMATE IN TIT PLAY

SSCo special purchase, originally used by livestock breeders to castrate animals. Use the specially designed pliers to place the rings on the nipples. As the rubber rings squeeze, the nipples enlarge (the same way a cockring increases erection) greatly increasing the sensation for the wearer. Once the rings are removed, the blood rushes back into the nipples—that is the time to work them. Set includes Elastrator, special scissors for safe removal and 100 rings.

DRUMMER STORY CONTEST!

HOT NEW DRUMMER/ZEUS S/M VIDEO

U S S M / TWO

Drummer and Zeus have done it again! The newest video in the U.S.S.M. series has lots of hot men and hot, authentic, SM action. This time Fred and Henry, the stars of U.S.S.M. ONE, are joined by two more hot bottoms who, with Henry, form a "Menage-a-Flog", tied together to offer their bare chests and backs to the attention of Fred's whips.

And what beautiful chests they are! Steve Landess is a young blond novice who receives his first flogging for this video. The two players he's tied to provide psychological, as well as physical support. The third bottom in this scene lends an international flavor to U.S.S.M. TWO. He's Clive Platman, who only two days prior to the taping of U.S.S.M. TWO was selected to be Mr. Drummer 1990-1991.

In the second segment, titled "Pin Pals," Steve is stripped and tied into a bondage chair and Clive joins in with Fledermaus in applying dozens of clothespins to his body and then manipulating them for maximum reaction.

Segment 3, "Electerotic," finds Clive spread-eagled on a St. Andrew's Cross as Fledermaus turns Mr. Drummer into a Drum and works Clive's tight pecs and spread thighs with his infamous blacksticks. Then they move on to cock and ball bondage, weights and electro shock to the Aussie's genitals and ass.

Three hot scenes, three hot muscular bottoms who know how to take it and love every minute of it. Real SM action for those discriminating viewers who demand the best. 70 minutes. BBA 015 $79.95 U.S.S.M. TWO
